DEATH VALLEY DAYS TO MARK AN ANNIVERSARY

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—Radio's oldest Western drama, Death Valley Days, will celebrate its sixth birthday on the air tonight, by switching its broadcast period from Thursdays to Fridays. Beginning on that date, the programme will be heard each Friday from 8.30 to 9.00 p. m., AST, over the NBC-Blue Network under the continued sponsorship of the Pacific Coast Borax Company, makers of 20 Mule Team Borax.

In honor of the anniversary and new broadcast period, Old Ranger will repeat on tonight's broadcast the same story he told on the very first programme of the series six years ago. The cast for this revival will feature Corinna Mura, exotic singing guitarist.

Titled “She Burns Green,” the story depicts the hardships and rewards of people in Death Valley, that California desert land 300 feet below sea level, the lowest point in the Western Hemisphere. Miss Mura will sing and play the part of Rosie Winters, a Spanish-American girl who helped make an important discovery in Death Valley more than 50 years ago.

In real life, as in her role, Miss Mura is Spanish-American, having been born of Spanish parents and raised in San Antonio, Texas. No stranger to the microphone, Miss Mura has appeared on the Rudy Vallee and Paul Whiteman broadcasts. Last Winter she played at a concert given for President Roosevelt at Washington. At the present time she is featured in the cafe lounge of New York's Hotel Savoy-Plaza.

LOWER PRINCE WILLIAM, Sept. 4—We are having nice cool weather at present and the farmers are busy harvesting.

A number from here attended the play last evening in the Prince William Hall. Proceeds were for church purposes and was a great success.

ALL ABOUT YOUR FAVORITE STARS AND THEIR TRIUMPHS

Many stars of radio, besides excelling in their individual forms of entertainment, have proved themselves expert in the realm of sport. Symbolic of their talents are the many ribbons, titles and medals they have won.

Phil Lord was not only the captain of the Bowdoin College tennis team, but also held the title of Maine state tennis champion.

While attending Yale, Lanny Ross won the 300-yard national indoor track championship.

Bob Hope is an excellent golfer, and for one year held the handicap championship of the Old Country Golf Club on Long Island.

Phil Duey, another fine golfer, recently teamed with a professional golfer and proceeded to annex the title of amateur-professional champions of the Bonnie Briar Club in Westchester. Duey recently smashed the course record at that same club.

Joan Marsh, the lovely film-radio star, has a batch of ribbons and medals which she won in boat races. Joan has been tagged “Backstay Annie,” by her mates. By the way, she is the only woman commodore of the California Yacht Club.

Johnny the Call Boy has cups which are bigger than he is, won for his ability at hunting game and fowl. He has a specially constructed double-barrel shotgun for this, his favorite sport.

Donald Novis, the tenor, was an amateur boxing champ before turning to radio. Yes, he used to reach for high chins before deciding that reaching for high notes was safer and more profitable.

While attending college, Frank Black held several championships for rifle shooting. He also was efficient as a quarter miler though he never broke any records. Today his favorite sport still is marksmanship.

LULLABY LAGOON

Selections chosen for the “Lullaby Lagoon” programme to be presented under the direction of Samuel Horseshoren from the Commission's Toronto studios tonight will include the following well known musical gems: “Thine Alone,” by Victor Herbert; “I Kiss Your Hand, Madame,” by Edwin; “O Dry Those Tears,” by De Riego; “When You Look at the Heart of a Rose,” by Methuen; “I'm Grateful to You,” by Coots; “Where the River Shannon Flows,” “Sonny Boy,” the Jolson classic; “Deep Night,” by Henderson, and Lehmann's lovely “Ah, Moon of My Delight.”

Why Multiple Births?

Intrigued by the many multiple births which have occurred during the present generation, the Voice of Experience has studied the problem thoroughly and on his broadcast over the NBC-WEAF chain Thursday, Sept. 10, at 7.15 AST, he will discuss that subject. His explanation of why there are so many twins, triplets, quadruplets and quintuplets has been tried out on various authorities who agree with him. The subject is quite interesting.

Youngest Flying Instructor

Ron Thomas, who monitors practically all CRC transmissions from Saint John, holds a commission in the Royal Canadian Air Force Reserve and prior to stepping into commercial radio was for three years the youngest flying instructor in Canada. He was then in charge of students of the Saint John Flying Sportsmen's Aero Club.

"Lumberjacks" Barnstorming

The “New Brunswick Lumberjacks” for more than two years regular Canadian Radio Commission performers from Saint John, have returned to their headquarters after three months of contract work in Boston and are now on a barnstorming tour through the Maritime provinces. Don Messer is the fiddling director of the outfit which features the singing of Charlie Chamberlain.

Irish to the backbone, John Riordan, who is known to listeners as the “singing tobacconist” and who is the baritone star of the Canadian Radio Commission programme “Fan Fare,” is blushing when you ask for the names of his favorite numbers. None of

NBC Elevator Boy Cures a Professor

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4—A university professor who has a dread of high places, may yet thank Tony, NBC elevator operator, for curing him of the phobia.

Scheduled to speak at NBC studios, special arrangements were made for him to broadcast on the second floor of the tall studio building. But somebody forgot to tell Tony about the arrangements. When the professor arrived, he was zoomed up to the twenty-second floor before he could say another word. It took him five minutes to compose himself when he arrived, but he admitted that he forgot all about his complex regarding heights, and went through the speech without a tremor.

them are Irish tunes! Among the classics, his glance falls towards the aria from the prologue to Poagliacci and The Toreador's Song from Carmen. Among more recent compositions, his favorites are “Rose of My Heart” and “Song of Songs.” John Riordan is heard each Monday at 9.00 p.m., AST, over the Commission's national network from Saint John.
