A New Taste Sensation

In ancient Roman times Tiberias Caesar became so bored with life that he offered a vast sum of money to anyone who could show him some new form of pleasure.

Unfortunately for him Ice Cream was not even thought of then.

But if you have not yet tried our new Super Velva Ice Cream you have a new pleasure in store for you for only 25c which even an Emperor might envy.

SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

The Governor General satisfied the public recently in regard to pronunciation of his name. For months a controversy has raged whether the name Buchan should be pronounced "Buckin" or "Bewkin." The question was put before His Excellency last night. "Either way is correct," he answered. "I rather prefer 'Buckin,' although the other is quite correct."

Hon. R. B. Hanson and Daughter Arrive

Hon. Dr. R. B. Hanson, K. C., former minister of trade and commerce, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Hope Hanson, arrived by motor today after an extended trip to the South. Hon. Mr. Hanson was met at Washington by Miss Hanson who has been attending MacDonald College in Montreal. Mrs. Hanson and Mrs. B. C. Foster, who with Mr. Hanson have been spending the winter in Florida, are spending a few days in New York and will arrive home by train on Monday.

Senator Fallis Held Reception and Tea

Hon. Senator Iva C. Fallis was hostess recently at a delightfully arranged reception and tea, which she held in the Quebec suite at the Chateau Laurier. Senator Fallis was assisted in receiving her guests, who numbered more than one hundred, by Mrs. W. D. Herridge. Hon. Senator Fallis wore a handsome gown of blackberry lace, made on long, graceful lines, and her hat of felt in the same shade and a wide-brimmed model.

Mrs. Herridge wore a lovely gown of navy blue printed chiffon and a wide-brimmed black straw hat.

Lady Perley also assisted in the reception room, and at the tea table, which was attractively arranged, being adorned with mixed spring blooms, there presided Mrs. J. D. Stewart, Mrs. Hugh A. Stewart and Mrs. L. C. Brewer.

The Hon. W. D. and Mrs. Herridge entertained on Monday at a luncheon at the Country Club in honor of the Hon. Norman Armour, United States Minister to Canada, and Mrs. Armour. Covers were laid for eighteen.

Precautions Against

to detect the indications of insect damage at the earliest possible moment and to direct the immediate application of control measures.

Cutworms are generally the first of the garden pests to attract attention. There are many species of cutworms, the caterpillars of night-flying moths, and each species has distinct habits and food preferences. Some pass the winter as nearly full-grown caterpillars and attack the plants in the perennial border in the early spring. In the Fredericton district, the foliage of the hollyhock and the leaves and buds of the iris are liable to injury very early in May. If holes appear in the hollyhock leaves and small cuts in the sides of the iris leaves, search should at once be made around the bases of the plants for climbing cutworms—caterpillars which hide during the day just under the soil surface and climb the plants to feed at night. The caterpillars should be raked out and destroyed, thus saving some of the iris buds from injury later. The hollyhock is a fast-growing plant and, while the injury to the early foliage looks serious, the feeding rarely causes great damage.

Other species of cutworms pass the winter as small caterpillars. They are fond of the seedlings of early sweet peas, garden peas and lettuce which are generally the first of the seedling plants to appear above ground. Poisoned bran bait should be spread freely along the drills just before the seedlings appear above ground, and the treatment repeated every warm evening until the plants are of considerable size.

Another group of cutworms develop from eggs in the spring as small caterpillars feed during the month of June upon the stems of many of the later seedlings. Beets, carrots, corn and beans are favorite food plants but almost any of the flower seedlings are acceptable as food, and also gladiolus shoots.

When the transplanting season arrives in early June a number of the cutworms are of considerable size, and it is therefore necessary to give the plants the best protection possible. Strips of stout wrapping paper wound loosely about the stems and projecting an inch or more above the ground give considerable protection and also help to support the plants. The poisoned bran bait should also be freely spread about the flower bud or along the rows of tomato plants on the evening following the setting of transplanted plants in the garden, and careful attention should be given for several days. Cutworms cause more actual loss in the garden than almost any other insect, and in late May and early June the gardener should police the garden carefully for the thieves that steal by night.

Entertaining at Dinner

[Mrs. C. P. Holden is entertaining at dinner this evening for her mother, Mrs. Jas. Taylor of Quebec, who is her guest.

Mrs. Rene Doiron of Shediac is expected to arrive in the city next week with her family to take up residence. Mr. Doiron is on the staff of the Old Age Pensions.

Bliss Carman

The May meeting of the Bliss Carman Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held last evening at the home of Miss Eleanor Bartlett, the Regent Mrs. Babcock presiding. Following the regular opening and the reports for the month a discussion took place regarding the co-operating with the other Chapters in a programme in connection with the Provincial Normal School students. The proceeds from tickets sold on a cellophane dinner last month were considered as very satisfactory. A list of sub-committees was read by the convenor of a committee appointed last month such list giving the different members of the Chapter an idea of the work to be done by them during the year. Mrs. A. T. McMurray was appointed to take the Bliss Carman voting card to the National Chapter Meeting at Winnipeg. The sum of $10 was voted for books and pictures to be presented to the adopted school of the Chapter at Lincoln. It was also decided that pins be given the pupils as an incentive to reading. One new member was welcomed in the Chapter. Mrs. Ramsay delighted the members with a very enlightening talk on the Order, impressing upon them to always remember that first of all they were an Imperial Order. A most hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Ramsay in appreciation. The National Anthem brought the meeting to a close and in the social hour that followed Miss Louise Allison assisted Miss Bartlett.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED TWO YEARS

Walter McLaughlin of this city was given a two-year suspended sentence and was ordered to put up a bond of $500 for future good behaviour, by the Carleton County Court, which sat yesterday on the case in which McLaughlin and Thomas Atherton, also of this city, were convicted of being in possession of stolen goods. Atherton was sentenced to two years in the Dorchester penitentiary.

The case arose out of a break into the store of the Woodstock United Farmers' Co-operative Co. Ltd., last month, and a quantity of the goods was found in the possession of the two men when the car in which they were driving was stopped by R.C.M.P. constables on the Hanwell road.

Both cases were tried together. Evidence in the cases was completed yesterday, a night session having been held. Judge M. L. Hayward completed his charge to the jury yesterday afternoon and the jury was out only a short time. A second indictment, charging theft, will not be proceeded with. D. R. Bishop conducted the prosecution while G. W. Montgomery appeared for McLaughlin and G. Y. Jones for Atherton. Court adjourned sine die following the completion of this case. There were no civil cases on the docket.

WATCH TRANSIENTS

Royal Canadian Mounted Police here and in other sections of the province are keeping a sharp watch on transients, who frequent railway yards and the highways. It is hoped to halt the movement, which has been increasing year by year and creating a problem for the cities and towns and municipalities who are called upon to look after these transients.
