CAPTAIN KIDD'S TREASURE BEING SOUGHT AGAIN

Spring is here and with it has come another search for buried treasure of Captain Kidd on Oak Island, near Chetser, Nova Scotia. This time an American company is conducting the operations, and it has already installed an electrical plant. Work will be well under way by the middle of May.

News relative to activities at Oak Island is a matter of real interest to the people of this community. The late Noble Cummings, of Onslow, forty years ago headed an organization that did much work on that supposed treasure island. Mr. Cummings worked hard and his efforts brought Oak Island into prominence. A large number of Colchester County people put money in the work.

The lure of mythical millions has drawn many a student of history and nautical romance to the oak studded islet of Mahong Bay. Not the least of them were members of New York's aristocratic Astor family. The origin of their great wealth has often been the subject of controversy, many believing that it actually was the loot of Oak Island, basing their arguments on the discovery of an old wooden chest in the attic of the Astor home. It answered the proverbial description of the chest supposed to have contained the notorious buccaner's bullion.

Last year a bill was passed in the Provincial Legislature to permit extensive digging on the island by a United States syndicate.

The origin of the Oak Island treasure story is that Captain Kidd was supposed to have sailed up from the Caribbean to hide his ill-gotten booty. Some declared he came to Nova Scotia. About 100 years ago two men named Smith and McInnis visited the island on a trapping expedition. They noted a tree with a ship's block and tackle attached to one of the branches. The ground at the foot of the trunk had been disturbed some time before. Scenting treasure, they dug down and have been digging off and on ever since, with the result that the entire island is today more or less pitted with diggings.

"Don't you think the water is awfully hard here?"
"Yes—but it rains harder here".

A barrister, explaining at the Old Bailey why he had been "rather rude" to a waitress, a telephone operator, said: "I felt exactly as an elderly sheep would feel when confronted by his natural enemy the wolf—gagged and bound in front of him. I remembered all the wrong numbers I have had".

Reginald—But I asked you, darling to keep our engagement a secret.
Claire—I couldn't help it. That hateful Ethel said the reason I weren't married was that no man had ever been fool enough to propose to me. So I told her you had.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Paving, Retaining Walls and Fences, Public Building, Moncton, N.B.", will be received until 12 o'clock noon (daylight saving), Tuesday, May 19, 1936, for the construction and completion of Paving, Retaining Walls and Fences at the Public Building, Moncton, N.B.

Plans and specifications can be seen and forms of tender obtained at the offices of the Chief Architect, Department of Public Works, Ottawa, the Supervising Architect, old Post Office Building, Saint John, N. B., and the Caretaker, Post Office Building, Moncton, N.B.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied by the Department and in accordance with the conditions set forth therein.

Each tender must be accompanied by a certified cheque on a chartered bank in Canada, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to 10 per cent of the amount of tender, or Bearer Bonds of the Dominion of Canada or of the Canadian National Railway Company and its constituent companies, unconditionally guaranteed as to principal and interest by the Dominion of Canada, or the aforementioned bonds and a certified cheque if required to make up an odd amount.

By order,
J. M. SOMERVILLE,
Secretary.

BANNISTER HOME AGAIN OCCUPIED

Elder Daughter, Frances, Still in Custody as Material Witness, Pending Decision on Appeals.

MONCTON, N. B., May 8—A little house standing sentinel-like in the middle of a rough-clearing in the woods off the Berry Mills road, which until a short time ago had been unoccupied since January 10th when its owners came under the care of the police, is now occupied once more. It is the Bannister home, the building where Mrs. May Bannister, now serving a three and one-half year term in Kingston penitentiary, and her sons and daughters lived. Since sentence of death was passed upon the two sons, Daniel and Arthur, for the murder of Philip Lake and upon the mother for harboring kidnapper Betty Ann Lake, permission has been granted the father of the boys and girls, George Bannister, to occupy the place.

The aged man has taken up his abode there and living with him is his youngest daughter, Marie, who while the other members of the family were in the hands of the police, was quartered at the Poor House, within a few miles of their home. Marie has been allowed to return to the house at the western end of the "big fill" along the old I. C. R. right-of-way. The older sister, Frances, who was one of the main witnesses at the three Bannister trials in Dorchester, is still in custody and occupying space at the police station here pending the outcome of appeals applied for by family counsel, H. Murray Lambert.

"Now, boys," the teacher queried, "after what I have explained of the lion's fierceness, strength and daring, can any one of you name a single animal that the king of beasts stands in awe of?"

Up shot little Willie's hand. "Well," the teacher asked, "which is the animal?"

Willie (promptly)—Please, teacher, the lioness!

"I hear your rich aunt just died. Leave you something?"
"Yes; penniless".

REMEMBERING AUNT CLEMMIE

Great-Aunt Clemmie was brought up to the Spartan life. She enjoyed (she always said) getting up at five on a Saturday morning, hanging her market basket over her arm, and going downtown to do the marketing for the week-end. She said, "If you get there first—you'll get the best!"

Aunt Clemmie is a fine reminder of her time. Nowadays one needn't rise with the birds to be sure of a full market basket. It's so much simpler and more efficient to spend a few minutes with the advertisements. Marshalled before you, in your newspaper, is all the news that is necessary for your good living. There, in the advertisements, are facts — sound, solid facts — about prices and quality. Advertised, trade-marked merchandise MUST be honest merchandise. Or it wouldn't be advertised.
