COMPULSORY SCHOOL ACT MUST BE ENFORCED SAYS ARCHBISHOP RICHARDSON

Installation New Dean Christchurch Cathedral June 24th

Anglican Synod Would Have Compulsory School Act Enforced All Over N. B.

Illiteracy Often Cause of Delinquency

Communion Breakfast Served by St. Monica's Guild

SAINT JOHN, N. B., May 28—At its closing session yesterday afternoon in Saint John, the Anglican Diocesan Synod of Fredericton placed itself on record as recommending enforcement of the Compulsory School Act.

"Illiteracy in New Brunswick is extremely marked in comparison with other provinces in the Dominion," declared the Archbishop, on hearing the report of the Interprovincial Home for Young Women, submitted by Rev. J. A. Alexander at the morning's meeting.

The report stated that "by far the greater percentage of women committed had had little or no advantages in the way of education, a fact that would lead to the conclusion that illiteracy was the cause of much of the delinquency and crime in the Maritime Provinces." His Grace was not sure but he was of the opinion that the rate of illiteracy in New Brunswick was higher according to population than in any other province.

The Synod completed its business a day earlier than anticipated, and adjourned at the close of the afternoon session. It accepted the invitation of Rev. J. J. Alexander of Moncton to hold its next annual meeting in that city.

Archbishop Richardson presided and the session was held in Trinity church Hall. Yesterday morning, the clergy attending Holy Communion in the Mission Church, St. John Baptist, were afterwards guests of the St. Monica's Guild at breakfast and communion at ten A. M.

On motion of W. I. Harding, seconded by Venerable Archdeacon Cody, a resolution of thanks for the courteous and tactful manner in which he had conducted the session, was tendered to the Archbishop, together with an appreciation of his leadership throughout nearly 30 years and the prayer that he might long be spared to preside over the diocesan deliberations.

In his reply, His Grace referred to the happy associations that had existed during his tenure of the bishopric through the sympathy and support of the members of the Synod.

A resolution of congratulations or his appointment to succeed Archdeacon Vroom was extended to Very Rev. Dean J. H. A. Holmes, regret being expressed at his coming departure and appreciation expressed of his helpfulness and wealth of scholarship as Dean of the Cathedral and the diocese. Dean Holmes, replying, said he had had nothing but kindness since he came to this province in 1908 as a teacher at Rothesay Col. (Continued on Page Four)

ADMITS SEVERAL FRIENDS TOOK OUT TAX INCREASE INSURANCE BEFORE BUDGET WAS REVEALED

LONDON, May 28—Leslie Montague Thomas, son of the former colonial secretary, J. H. Thomas, yesterday resigned his position in a stockbroker's office here.

The younger Thomas, whose father resigned from the cabinet last week,

PROVINCIAL TAXATION HITS SNAG

OTTAWA, Ont., May 28—Government proposals to amend the Canadian Constitution extending the jurisdiction of the Provinces in respect to taxation, permitting them to impose taxes on retail sales and other things hitherto taxed only by the Dominion still have a hard road to travel. They may be decided in the Senate this week, where they have to run the gauntlet of a substantial Conservative majority.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and some of his chief lieutenants, while admitting the need of overhauling a constitution suitable for the horse and buggy period, are strongly opposed to widening the taxation fields of the Provinces. The Conservative Leader in the Senate and former Prime Minister in the Commons contend the Government's plan would not only permit the creation of excise barriers as between one Province and another but might prove a menace to Confederation itself.

In Alberta a sales tax is being imposed by the Aberhart Government. With this legislation, it is held, it would be quite possible for the Aberhart Government to exempt from this sales tax sugar made from Alberta sugar beets, and impose the tax on sugar made from cane imported into the Province. It would, in other words, constitute a protective tariff for the Province. The same is being done in New Brunswick, and more openly. A sale tax is being imposed in that Province on goods retailed there and manufactured in a Province other than New Brunswick. Both of these instances, it is contended, indicate how easily, with such legislation, sectional tariffs can be created and imposed in the Dominion.

The next excitement in the House of Commons will come when the project to establish Government ownership and control of the Bank of Canada is moved. The plan to issue preference shares will be warmly as sailed, the contention of Conservatives being, that even if it were a proper course to adopt, it would not make any substantial change in the actual operations of the central bank. The Liberal plan for nationalization of the bank was an election plank.

Short Cut to Cemetery

The quickest passport to an hospital or cemetery is to cut-in and out of motor traffic, against all traffic regulations.

Every day on the various highways in Canada, automobiles are wrecked, lives are lost and many persons are removed to the hospitals suffering from injuries. And in many instances if they recover they are crippled for life.

Of the forty fatalities in New Brunswick last year, eight were children who were struck down while playing on the streets or roads. Full of life one moment, they were lying in the road the next.

This great outdoor sport (?) is the motor car driver who is always in a hurry, who thinks that the other fellow is driving too slow, and who continually cuts in and out of traffic. He sometimes receives a nice harp as his reward for his haste to get—NOWHERE.

Thousands of word pictures of these fatalities have been written in accident reports pertaining to automobile wrecks caused by these drivers, and thousands of words of choice profanity have been cast into the air by these same drivers who are continually blaming the other driver "because he drove too slow," provided of course, if they are able to talk about it after they are pulled out from a wrecked car.

Take John Smith for instance. And there are thousands of John Smiths driving motor cars—and trucks. It was a bright moonlight night. Or we might forget the moon, it can and does happen while the sun is shining. Smith was driving on the highway doing 60 miles an hour, then 70, then up to 80. Three cars were in front of his car, but not going as fast.

"Those snails of the road are moving too slow," thought Smith. And then stepping on the gas he sped his car ahead of the first car, then passed the second; BUT—

He did not see a car coming towards him on the right side of the road, he was on the wrong side, and with hasty anxiety he tried to wiggle his car back into line between the second and third car.

But he misjudged the distance, could not make it, and with a terrific crash his car and two others were instantly turned into a junk pile on the side of the road. The old, old story of another careless motor car driver whose god was "cut-in and cut-out."

Another thing will prevent yourself and others being driven at a slow pace in a motor hearse to the cemetery. It is: Never try to pass another vehicle going in the same direction on curves or when going up or down hill. This is a violation of the traffic law.

NEXT WEEK IS SAFETY WEEK.

Negotiate Re York Abattoir

The matter of the abattoir and cold storage plant for York County, like the fabled goose, still hangs high, or hangs fire to be more exact. At the present time negotiations are still being carried on and as yet the site has not been definitely selected, nor is there absolute surety as to the respective grants promised from city and county and the government.

Peter Nugard, who promoted the scheme after The Daily Mail had outlined its advantages to the farmer and citizen in this section of the province, was in conference with W. G. Clark, M. P., this week concerning a federal grant. Today Mr. Clark informed The Daily Mail that as yet the government has decided nothing definite with regard to the matter. Negotiations with architects as to the construction of the building is still being carried on. The cost of the construction of the abattoir and cold storage plant was to have been born equally by city, provincial government and federal government. The city of Fredericton has already voted $500, and the county of York has voted a grant subject to certain stipulations, the chief one being that only a cold storage plant be built. It seems likely however, that unless the government acts quickly in the matter that only an abattoir will be built at the present time.

Prominent Railway Man With Friends Here Passes Away

Friends in the city were grieved this morning to hear of the death of Fred H. Kinnear, purchasing agent for the Atlantic Division of the C.N.R., which took place early this morning in the Moncton City Hospital.

ARABS PLUNDER JEWISH PROPERTY

British Families Forced to Evacuate Jaffa

JERUSALEM, May 28—Rising Arab anti-Jewish terrorism, mounting to the aspect of rebellion in many sections of the Holy Land, caused British officials to evacuate their families yesterday from the town of Jaffa.

The British women and children were removed from the seaport of Jaffa to the northwest Palestine port of Haifa aboard a warship, and established their headquarters later in the neighboring all-Jewish city of Tel-Aviv.

This was the third British evacuation of an Arab town in as many days. Families of officials left troubled Nablus last night, coming to Jerusalem as a precautionary measure. Monday, British families at Gaza took refuge in police barracks.

The battleship Barham, with Vice-Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, Commander-in-Chief of the Mediterranean fleet, aboard, dropped anchor off Haifa.

Authorities reported no bombs were thrown, no shots fired at Jaffa yesterday, for the first time in a month, due to the drastic repressive measures being taken.

The British administration of High Commissioner Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope, governing under a League of Nations mandate, held several Arab centres under virtual military control.

(Special to The Daily Mail)
OTTAWA, May 28—New Brunswick was to be fore at the Senate Chamber here yesterday when the amendments to the B.N.A. Act were discussed. The Senate wound up by deciding without division to refer to its banking and commerce committee the proposed joint parliamentary resolution to Westminster for the amendment to the British North American Act.

Senator Raoul Dandurand, Liberal leader, accepted the resolution, proposed by Senator J. J. Donnelly (Cons., South Bruce), and said he had no objection to representatives of the provincial governments going before the committee to give their views on constitutional change.

He said attorneys-general of the provinces had approved the resolution in precise terms but that representatives of public bodies and individuals also would be heard by the committee.

Senator C. E. Tanner (Cons., Halifax), predicted if the people of Nova Scotia were given the opportunity to vote on the resolution it "would be overwhelmingly defeated. He was not content with approval by the provinces or their Legislatures and this important question was one in which citizens of the different provinces should have the right to express their opinion. Had the Nova Scotia government asked the Dominion for power to impose the burden of indirect taxation? he asked.

The form and procedure being followed in the present instance was the same pursued in every amendment to the constitution since Confederation, Senator Dandurand declared. There was no danger of confederation might be disrupted by the proposed amendment.

Provincial delegates to the Dominion-Provincial Conference last fall had agreed on the proposed change. (Continued on Page Four)

Youth Congress in Battle Over Peace and Repeal Militia Service

Canada Should Abolish All Propaganda for Recruiting Voluntary Militia Training — Uproar at Meeting.

(Special to The Daily Mail)
OTTAWA, May 28—Virtually all the delegates to the Youth Congress here opposed war, but most adhered to the League of Nations. In economic discussions, general conclusion was necessary if Canada youth was to be assured a proper standard of living.

Canada should determine its own participation in war in all cases, and according to another resolution, the 'Military Service Act' should be repealed, and 'all propaganda and designs for recruiting for voluntary militia service should be discontinued.'

This produced some heated expressions of opinion. One member of the Revolutionary Youth League of Toronto suggested Canadians should join the militia so that they might learn how to handle arms in order to be ready to turn them against their capitalist and imperialistic employers.

Youth must fight for the liberation of the working classes, he declared. This would not be achieved by "fine speeches or hypocritical sentiments, but with the rifle in hand."

A disturbance followed the declaration of Dr. Jacques Tremblay of the Canadian Association of Catholic Youth of Quebec that in an organization for the propagation of peace it seemed unreasonable to include members of a group whose aim was to do away with all present forms of law and order.

Shouting above the noise that his remarks provoked he objected to inclusion of Russia in the League of Nations. There was hissing, clapping, booing and stamping before adjournment was called by the chairman.

Dr. Tremblay's speech was one of several in the three-minute period set aside for discussion after the main addresses had been delivered by Principal A. E. Morgan of McGill University, Montreal, and Denton Massey, Conservative member of the House of Commons for Toronto Greenwood.

Mr. Massey stressed the necessity of co-operation among young people and quoted unemployment statistics which, he said, showed 'an appalling proportion of our young men and women never able to earn their living.'
