(By Lawson Robertson) Watch the Teuton athletes in the Berlin Olympics" warns Lawson Robertson, dean of America's track and field coaches and head coach of the American team, which, by the way, is expected to retain its Olympic championship next August. This is the first of a series of articles by Robertson discussing the pending Olympiad R. H. E. from the "Inside".

A full United States squad is planned for those events at Berlin from Aug ust 2 to 9, but, should our forces be depleted by financial stringency, Germany could conceivably carry off the team honors.

Even a numerically complete American contingent will have to contend with a strong threat from the Reich. Developments of the past few years indicate that Germany may score heavily in eleven of the 23 track and field contests, which include the decathlon and the marathon.
