

Garnet Copeland Winner Williams-Taylor Medal

A REAL TEST FOR GRAND CIRCUIT TROTTERS THIS WEEK

First Relay Left New York on 90-Mile Relay — "Coaching."

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 13—It is not often that the followers of trotting become interested in coaching, but it is a lot of them were not on hand, to see Mrs. F. F. Dibble's Paris-built road coach leave the Waldorf-Astoria on Park Avenue for the long drive to the Atlantic City Horse Show, it will be because the start was scheduled for seven o'clock in the morning. The attraction for early-rising devotees of harness racing will be the team that is to take the ponderous vehicle down to the Twenty-third street ferry under escort of two mounted policemen, and thence across to Jersey and the first relay station on the ninety-mile run.

Instead of docked nags of unknown antecedents such as always heretofore have horsed the road coaches Mrs. Dibble has assembled Grand Circuit trotter of individual distinction and rare breeding—eight of them having public records faster than that of the famous Maud S., 2:03 3-4, while four of the lot are in the 2:05 list. All but one of the eight are bay geldings, and their ages range from seven to ten years.

In the order of their records they are David Thornton, 2:01 1-2; Holly-rod Boris, 2:02; Arthur Mower, 2:03 1-2; MacAubrey, 2:04 1-4; John R. McElwyn, 2:05 3-4; Expectation, 2:07; Capital Stock, 2:07 1-4, and Holly-rod Harrier, 2:08 1-4. It is perhaps needless to say that no such harness horses as these were ever before put to a road coach for a long distance run.

The primary purpose of the drive is to test the stamina of the breed. It grew out of the remark of Thomas F. Walsh, veteran professional whip in charge of Mrs. Dibble's show horses, after driving one of the teams to a new record for one mile. He declared that "for courage and endurance the American trotter is the horse of horses". He is now going to demonstrate it if he can, not alone by the long drive but by an attempt to drive one team ten miles out and another team ten miles back, all within an hour. When it is remembered that a single horse driven to a sulky has not beaten 58:25 for twenty miles it looks like long odds against success for two four-in-hand teams, but Walsh is confident his trotters can accomplish the feat. Morris E. Howett and Ernest Fownes, internationally known four-horse men, are to take part in handling the teams.

Instead of two teams, are originally planned for the Atlantic City run Walsh decided after looking out a route for the coach that three teams would be needed, so poor are the roads for horses in this motorized age. He accordingly assembled, post haste, four more trotters, which are not such fast performers as the other eight. This third team is made up of the bay geldings Calumet Cardinal, 2:15 1-4; Double Volo, 2:16 1-2; Calumet Dapper, by Truax, 2:03 1-2, and Teton, by Guy Trogan, 2:03. The horses are due to arrive from Newburyport, Mass this week. They will be stabled at 322 West Forty-eighth Street.

Garnet Copeland Winner of Sir Frederick's Medal

Garnet Copeland, of Barker's Point, was announced last night at a meeting of the U.N.B. faculty, as the winner of the Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor medal, awarded annually to the best all-round athlete at the University of New Brunswick during the year. Copeland, who is a member of this year's graduating class has been prominent in athletics for three years. He was a member of this year's rugby and hockey teams, was engaged in interclass track meets, including the one at College Field yesterday in which he took two first places, one second and three thirds, and has been an outstanding athlete in every sport he undertook. Lester Inch and John Kilburn, who also starred at yesterday's track meet, were disqualified from the medal competition under scholastic regulations.

Hope For Larger Membership in Riverside Courts

Four courts of the Riverside Tennis Club are now in operation and the fifth is being relayed. These courts were used last season for both Provincial and York County Tourneys and are rated among the best in the province. A large number of players have already taken advantage of the early opening of the tennis season and it is expected that the membership for this season will be slightly larger than the previous season. In order to promote junior tennis to a greater extent the fee for juniors has been reduced and every effort will be made to encourage these junior players.

McLarnin Will Likely Retire

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 13—Jimmy and his manager, Pop Foster, would not commit themselves on the Irishman's retirement, but the belief along Jacobs Beach was that McLarnin won't fight again. He also took $21,000 out of the beating administered by the little Italian from New Orleans and he and his wife, Lillian, will stay here a week or ten days and then return to the Pacific Coast.

Foster said that the fight hand shot that felled Jimmy in the second round was one of the hardest he'd ever seen in a ring, and that it dulled McLarnin's senses until the end of the seventh.

"After the seventh", said Pop, "I told James he'd have to win the last three—the eighth, ninth and tenth. He looked at me. He thought it was the third. Those rounds had been walloped away by that terrific right in the second.

"I don't know, I think maybe he'll retire, but that's up to him. You know those rights to the head are bad and think they may have a permanent effect on the nervous system."

GERMANY IS PREPARING FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

Hope to Entertain 300,000 Visitors—Show to Cost 34 Million

DETROIT, May 13 — Germany's Olympic plans provide for the entertainment of 300,000 visitors and 10,000 athletes. Thus far the cost of preparing for the show has reached $34,000,000. Admission tickets to the number of 3,400,000 have been printed.

Where will all these ticket holders sit or stand? Naturally that many cannot be accommodated; it's the total number, however, which may be accommodated in the various arenas for the 15-day show.

The Berlin Stadium, where the track and field, football and other big sports will be staged, seats 100,000. The Polo field has accommodations for 60,000. For the rowing events there is room for 50,000 customers. The open air theatre for gymnastic events has 25,000 seats, and there are 18,000 in the swimming and diving stadium.

Here are some other figures on the 1936 Olympic games: seats for 800 visiting newspapermen from all over the world, 50 nations competing, 10,000 tents providing for canoeists, facilities for 5,000 athletes, 3,000 runners in the Olympic torch relay which requires 12 days.

This year's programme has 19 sports listed, five more than at Los Angeles. There are 68 individual and 33 team contests for men, and 12 individual and 3 team contests for women.

Including the members of the winning teams 267 athletes will receive gold medals.

The maximum number of athletes any one nation may enter is 319 men and 52 women. But if all entered the maximum there would be nearly 20,000 on hand.

SELECTION OF DAVIS CUP TEAM IS DIFFICULT

NEW YORK, May 13—The members of this year's Davis Cup Selection Committee have already begun their deliberations as to the personnel of the team that is to represent the United States against Australia at the Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia, May 30 to June 1. It is a vexatious problem that confronts them at this writing, although the situation may be cleared up in the last training and testing session our men will go through on the turf of the Merion Cricket Club, at Haverford, Pa., starting next Monday.

All the matches in which members of the team have played thus far have been on clay courts, a surface considerably different than that upon which the North American Zone final tie with Australia will be staged. The Merion matches and practice sessions, therefore, will be regarded as more important than the month of clay court play.

FITNESS IN SPORT IS BIG REQUIREMENT

(By Helen Willis Moody)

LOS ANGELES, May 13—The physical qualifications of women tennis players also are not set, although a woman of medium height and average weight likely will possess more potential possibilities in the game.

Mlle. Lengin of France was very slender, with no bulging muscles anywhere. And you could not believe when you saw Elieen Bennett on the court that she had any strength—until the match started.

Several of the American girl players are quite slight. Caroline Babcock is trimly and lightly built, as is Sarah Payfrey Fabian. Probably in their case, height would add more power to their game, although one cannot entirely substantiate a remark like this when diminutive Ethel Burkhardt has done so well in tennis.

However, in spite of the fact that it is not necessary to be muscular-looking to play tennis well, the game does develop a certain athletic outline which is easily recognized. Nowadays, it is the fashion for women to look as if they went in for active sport.

Tennis and other sports—probably, most of all, swimming—have an enormous influence on the present-day woman's figure. With natural feminine vanity, we wish to look as well as we can in our sports attire. Therefore, we give more attention than ever before to keeping fit. Pride in appearance, and enjoyment of sport go round and round in a very pleasant circle, with mutual benefits.

We must admit after looking over the field, that all sizes, shapes and types of figures are represented in championship play, and that the thing that is the deciding factor is whether a player is graceful and well-coordinated in motion, and whether or not he or she is fit.

It would seem that these points are the most important when we consider the physical side of the game.

Hamilton Relents on Bathing Suit Ordinance

HAMILTON, Ont., May 13—Hamilton's antiquated "neck to knees" bathing suit by-law has been renovated so much that only "indecent exposure" this summer may cause swimmers to be eyed askance.

City Solicitor A. J. Polson, to whom the council's property and license committee came for a definition of "proper" bathing attire, today replied any garment would do if it prevented indecent exposure.

ST. ANDREWS, May 13—In the absence of the judge, P. E. McLaughlin, St. Stephen, clerk of the circuit court, opened the May session of the county court house here yesterday morning and as there were no cases court was adjourned immediately.
