Silver Jubilee Prov. Convention W. I. Celebrated

Convention Opened This Morning in Legislative Chamber

Delegates From All Sections of Province

Welcomed to City by Mayor Kitchen and Local Organizations

The Twenty-fifth anniversary convention of the New Brunswick Women's Institute held their opening session this morning at nine-thirty o'clock in the Legislative Assembly Chamber at the Parliament Building. The provincial president Mrs. A. D. McCain of Florenceville was in the chair and a large number of delegates from all parts of the province were present.

The session was opened with the singing of O Canada, followed by two minutes' silence in memory of the members departed during the year, and the singing of "Nearer My God to Thee."

His Worship Mayor Kitchen was present and extended cordial greetings and welcomed the Institute to the city hoping they would return often to hold their sessions in the Capital. Mayor Kitchen stressed to the women, who as he said are the purchasing agents of the home, the wisdom of giving New Brunswick made goods preference. He urged buying N. B. made goods at least to the value of $25.

Mrs. E. A. Wheaton of Upper Sackville, replied to the address of welcome from the Mayor in well chosen words. Mrs. Wheaton said it was a privilege for the women of the rural districts to hold their sessions in the Assembly Chamber. The aims of the Women's Institute was to make women bright intellectual so as to fit them to train the youth of the country.

Mrs. A. T. McMurray, Provincial President of the I.O.D.E., was also present and extended words of greetings and appreciation of the work of the Institute. Mrs. McMurray greatly admired the W. I. Creed and noted the large attendance of delegates. The I.O.D.E. were pleased with the work for the mentally deficient, child welfare and along educational work.

MRS. G. I. NUGENT

Mrs. G. I. Nugent, president of the Fredericton Women's Institute, extended the following greeting to the delegates at this morning's opening session of the Provincial Women's Institute convention:—

"It affords me a keen pleasure at this time to extend the greetings of the Fredericton Women's Institute to the delegates and others who have come from all parts of the Province to attend this convention.

I realize that there are not as many present at this time as there will be later, owing, no doubt, to the late arrival of some trains. However, we trust that the usual full attendance will be reached and that this convention will be bigger and better than any in the past.

As I look over the faces of those present I am happy to see many that are familiar. Some, no doubt, have come here time and again representing their respective Institutes. To those old friends, on behalf of the members of the Fredericton Women's Institute, I extend hearty greetings for a happy renewal of old acquaintances.

To those whom I have not had the pleasure of meeting, I extend a no less cordial welcome and hope that

The Women's Institute

The Daily Mail welcomes to Fredericton today a band of noble women from all parts of New Brunswick. They are members of an organization which has done noble work not only for this province, but for the Dominion and the Empire. Speaking of Women's Institutes Sir John Willison once said: "The work of Women's Institutes in improving rural conditions and bringing fresh interest into thousands of homes, and making happier the lot of a multitude of women and children, ranks in value and importance any service that has been done for the Canadian people."

Thirty-nine years ago, in the little village of Stoney Creek, near Hamilton, Ont., the world's first Women's Institute was organized—founded on the idea of governments co-operating directly with home-makers for the purpose of home betterment, by sending demonstration lecturers and sponsoring short courses in home economics and health. It spread rapidly from province to province. In 1915, a Canadian woman, Mrs. Alfred Watt, of Victoria, took the idea to England, where it has revolutionized women's rural life in the British Isles. Today it has become world-wide and is known as "Canada's gift to the country-women of the world."

To, Mrs. J. E. Porter of Andover, wife of a former member of the Legislature for Victoria County, goes the honor of starting the first Women's Institute organized in this Province. It was at her home village. Mrs. Porter, who is known as the "Mother of Women's Institutes in New Brunswick," is now a life member of that body. Mrs. Porter was the first president. This was in June, 1911. By the end of the summer of 1911 the work had spread rapidly throughout the province, sixteen branches with a total of two hundred and seventy-five members having been organized.

Today in New Brunswick the Institute can enlist the interest of nearly 3,500 women. It has raised in the vicinity of three hundred thousand dollars for worthy objects.

In 1913 the Department of Agriculture recognizing the value of this great work opened a permanent Institute office in this city and appointed Miss Hazel Winter, now Mrs. Harry Crocker, as first Superintendent. This same year the Institute was brought more prominently before the public when extensive quarters were opened at the Fredericton Exhibition. One of the prime movers in this work was Mrs. John Harvey of this city, a lady who was president of the Fredericton branch from 1914 until her regrettable death in 1934. Mrs. Harvey's well known executive ability did much to place the Fredericton Women's Institute in a flourishing position. As some one has said of Mrs. Harvey, "She was a beloved officer, a kind friend, a wise counsellor and a strong promoter." Those who knew Mrs. Harvey best, esteemed her most.

The year 1935 saw over 2,500 Canadian branches of this Institute with close to 75,000 members. Across the sea the women of the British Isles, Belgium, South Africa, New Zealand and India make a chain around the world. Queen Mary is president of her own branch at Sandringham. This gives a brief idea of the spread of the Women's Institute.

A glance at some of the work done in New Brunswick shows that this work includes Red Cross work, support to the Child Welfare Council, River Glade Sanatorium, the blind, orphanages, municipal homes, convents and hospitals, not to mention improvements in public halls, streets, parks and cemeteries, libraries established, assistance in relief work, more support for Maritime and Canadian goods, and a hundred other worthy objects. The Women's Institute has done and is doing a vast amount of work for the betterment of home conditions in the rural districts and in aiding to make the country an ideal place in which to live.

Miss Marianne Grey Otty, B.A., in her valuable little book on Women's Institutes, says: "Looking out over the province from the North Shore to the tides of Fundy; from the 'Border' to the smiling slopes of the East coast, one sees the Institute firmly established and still growing. . . . Future years will see it still flourishing—straight and clean and true, adding sweetness to life, providing support to the ones who weaken on life's road, and grateful shade for those who feel the burden and heat of the day."

Ladies! May your stay in Fredericton be both pleasant and profitable. May your good work continue through the years to come.

HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN

ANOTHER EDITOR GOES TO REWARD VERY SUDDENLY

B. C. Nicholas of the Victoria Times Expired in His Office Last Evening.

VICTORIA, British Columbia, May 20.—One of Canada's outstanding journalists, B. C. Nicholas, editor of The Victoria Times, died suddenly last evening in his office. He was 56 years of age.

Myocarditis was given as the cause of death.

While active up until the time of his death, ending his life in the place from which he had directed the destinies of his paper for many years. Mr. Nicholas has not been in the best of health recently.

Mr. Nicholas was born in Virginia City, Nevada, in 1879 and came to Victoria with his parents 52 years ago. He was educated in the public schools here and after graduating from high school entered the employ of The Times.

It was during his Ottawa years that Mr. Nicholas came to know well another young man who had come into the Federal government service. This was W. L. Mackenzie King just beginning to make a name for himself in his department of labour. Some of the last communications Mr. Nicholas received were from the present prime minister.

Mr. Nicholas remained at Ottawa until the defeat of the Laurier government in 1911. During that time he visited nearly every part of Canada and made several visits to Europe.

Mr. Templeman returned to Victoria to devote all his attentions to the conduct of The Times and made his private secretary news editor. In 1912 Mr. Nicholas became editorial writer and in 1917 editor.

Mr. Nicholas is survived by his mother and two sisters, Mrs. Lauchlan MacMillan, of Vancouver, and Mrs. F. C. Mawhinney of Victoria.

In addition to being one of the best known journalists in Canada Mr. Nicholas was the friend and adviser of public men for many years, and was noted as an after-dinner speaker of force and humor. He was a former national president of the Canadian Clubs.

Mr. Nicholas's death occurred just as he was considering entering upon a political career. He had been asked to run for the House of Commons.

Hon. Mr. Meighen Objects to Giving Powers to Provinces

We Are Doing Something We May Lament

MAYOR G. WILLARD KITCHEN

Four hundred Fredericton school children will put on a Dutch Operetta at the Normal School on May 29 and 30. Curtain at 8:15 o'clock. Sale of candy by Dutch girls and boys. A real treat.

In the course of a debate in the Senate yesterday, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, former Premier of Canada, and Opposition Leader in the Senate, referred to the recently passed Act in the New Brunswick Legislature by which powers of imposing direct taxation on concerns outside the province, through the sales tax route, Mr. Meighen contended that at present the Act was not constitutional and he objected to the conferring of these powers on the provinces. He said, however, that the Act passed by the New Brunswick Legislature would become constitutional as soon as the resolutions at Ottawa seeking amendments to the B.N.A. Act were passed.

Rt. Hon. Mr. Meighen told the Upper House last night that he was confident that in passing the resolution seeking amendments to the British North America Act "we are doing something we should not do—something we may in later days lament."

The Conservative leader, speaking in the debate on the resolution, approved by the House of Commons last week, was referring to that part of the resolution which asks power for the provinces to impose powers of indirect taxation already in effect.

Hon. Raoul Dandurand, government leader, moved the resolution and recommended it to the favorable consideration of the House.

As for the second part of the resolution, which seeks the necessary authority to set up the proposed loan council arrangement with the provinces, Senator Meighen said he believed the Dominion and the Provinces had ample power already. "A single amendment 'should be all necessary to authorize the Dominion to do what it had done for years—give

NO BILL FOUND IN ATTEMPTED MURDER CHARGE

"No bill" was found by the grand jury sitting yesterday in Queens County on the case of Elbridge Blair McIntyre, of Elm Hill, charged with shooting at his brother, John Reynolds McIntyre, with intent to commit murder. It was the May sitting of the Queens Circuit court.

Chief Justice J. H. Barry, the presiding judge, pronounced the verdict of the grand jury and the colored man, who was accused of firing three shots at his brother, simply said:—"I thank you". Arthur McF. Limerick of this city, is clerk of the peace for Queens County, and Sheriff Duncan Estabrooks both were acting in their official capacity for the first time.

Mrs. Arthur Murdock broke her toe recently, suffering considerable pain. She is now resting comfortably.
