Teaching Gains Recognition

Last year in Saskatchewan and this year in Alberta, the Legislatures have passed an Act making membership in a self-regulating association obligatory for all school teachers. In the opinion of the teachers, these Acts confer on teaching "the dignity, privileges and obligations of full professional status", such as have long been experienced by medicine, law and other professions.

Viewed in the light of history, the step may be considered one in the long trend of professional specialization. In early human societies one and the same man was priest, teacher, lawyer and doctor combined—the wise man or medicine man of the tribe. One of the last separations to take place is that between the jobs of the teacher and clergyman. It is by no means yet complete but the tremendous increase of schooling in recent years, and the influx of women to teaching has created an entirely new balance between the two professions.

In 1871 there were only three teachers to one clergyman in Canada, whereas now the proportion is about seven to one. The clergymen of today, however, has not a bigger flock on the average than his predecessor of 60 years ago—just over 800 persons to both times. So while the relative number of lay teachers has more than doubled, the Biblical teacher is just holding his own.

Betterment of Conditions

While various political conditions, both internal and external, continue to give uncertainty to the outlook, indications of betterment in business are multiplying. Domestic and foreign trade slowly expands; the wheat situation is more encouraging; more people are finding employment, and governments in all administrative fields are giving closer attention to their budgets than heretofore with a view to striking a balance between income and expenditure. Freight is moving on the railways in larger volume, the trend of common stock prices has been upward and investors are showing increasing interest in the future of Canadian mines, the golds especially.

It is unlikely that business will be affected in any appreciable degree by enactments comprising the so-called reform programme of the late Government pending a reference of these to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council which it is understood will now be made. The Supreme Court of Canada has been asked to pronounce upon the constitutional validity of eight of these enactments. The Court has declared unconstitutional the Natural Products Marketing Act to permit regulation of marketing by groups of natural commodity producers, and the Employment and Social Insurance Act to establish a system of unemployment insurance to which the Dominion Government, employers, and workers would contribute. The Dominion Trade and Industry Commission Act to establish a commission to act as a referee over industry is considered ultra vires in respect of the Commission's authority to approve price and production agreements among industrialists. The Court upheld the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, permitting scaling down of farmers' debts and interest payments without resort to bankruptcy proceedings, also Section 498A of the Criminal Code, inserting in the code fines and imprisonment for unfair trade practices. The Court divided equally on the constitutionality of the Minimum Wage Act, designed to make a uniform minimum wage law throughout the country, the 48 Hour Week Act and the Weekly Day of Rest Act.

Marketing of New Zealand Primary Products

Proposed legislation in New Zealand makes better provision for the marketing of dairy produce and other primary products so as to ensure for producers an adequate remuneration for the services rendered by them to the community, write Mr. C. M. Croft, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Auckland, in the forthcoming issue of the Commercial Intelligence Journal. It is regarded as essential in the public interest that producers of primary products should, as far as possible, be protected from the effect of fluctuations in the market prices, and it is thought that the more effective and appropriate way of affording such protection, so far as relates to primary products intended for export, is to provide that the Government, on behalf of the Crown, should acquire the ownership of such products at prices to be fixed from time to time. With respect to primary products intended for domestic consumption, the proposal is to empower the Government in its discretion either to acquire the ownership of the products at fixed prices or to control the sale and distribution.

In order to enable the Government to put into operation its present plan with respect to dairy produce and to formulate plans for other primary products, it is proposed to establish a department of State to be known as the Primary Products Marketing Department, to be charged with the special duty of marketing all primary products in which the Government has acquired ownership or over which the Government has assumed control, and to be charged also with such general duties and functions as may from time to time be imposed or conferred on it.

Authority is given to the Minister to make such arrangements and to give such directions as he thinks proper for the handling, pooling, transport and storage of any dairy produce to which the legislation applies; also for the shipment of the dairy produce, intended for export, on such terms and in the quantities he thinks fit; the insurance against loss of such dairy produce; and generally for all such matters as are necessary for the exercise of any of the powers conferred.

Authority is given for the fixing, by Order in Council of prices for dairy produce for local consumption, at any time after the fixation of prices for dairy produce for export. The prices for domestic consumption may be fixed irrespective of whether the produce has been or is intended to be acquired by the Crown, or is sold or is intended for sale otherwise.

The Minister of Marketing, with a view to making agreements for the promotion of reciprocal trade, may, on behalf of the Government, enter into negotiations with accredited representatives of the Government of the United Kingdom, or any other British Dominion, or of any other country.

Large Funeral Today for Late B. H. Kinghorn

The funeral of the late Byron H. Kinghorn, former chief highway engineer, who died suddenly on Saturday at his home here, took place this afternoon from 206 Smythe street, with service at 3:30 o'clock. The funeral was a very large one and friends young and old were present to pay a final tribute of respect to the well known government official. Rev. John Linton conducted a most impressive service and interment was made in the cemetery at Nashwaakiss. There were many beautiful floral tributes and members of the George Street Baptist church choir were present and sang several hymns.

The pallbearers were J. H. Malcolm, C. R. Barry, James Turnbull, C. H. Dexter, W. J. Lawson and Reid VanDine, while the chief mourners were J. B. Kinghorn, William Kinghorn, Adam Jackson, Daniel Jackson, Wm. Jackson, Fred Hanselpecker, John Jewett, John Burpee, Alfred Yerxa, Harold Yerxa, R. B. VanDine, John Reid, Harold R. Babbitt, Harold McMurray, Edward Armstrong, Chas. Armstrong, Parker H. Currier, H. J. Mawhinney, Earl Urquhart and the professional engineers of the province of New Brunswick attended in a body.

Among those attending the funeral of the late B. H. Kinghorn and who were among the mourners were Harold Kinsman, president of the Thistle Curling Club of Saint John, and D. R. Smith, past president of the St. Andrew's Curling Club.

Ministers Had

ter of lands and mines, and A. Neil McLean, Saint John, member of the Dominion Employment Commission. Others joining the party were F. M. Ross, Montreal, and Justin M. Cork, Toronto.

Fishing was carried out on government open water from the Kedgwick camp. Mr. Pirie said, and the visitors enjoyed the sport immensely, none of the federal party having played a salmon previously. The weather was excellent and fishing conditions good. All members of the party secured good catches.

Mr. Rogers left the party Friday morning and proceeded to Amherst where he visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Rogers. Yesterday he motored to Saint John, whence he left by train for Ottawa last evening. The other federal ministers left Campbellton for Ottawa by special car yesterday.

If ye're feeling rather gloomy,
And yer chances kinda slim,
If the situation's puzzlin'
And your prospects awful grim,
If perplexities are pressing,
An' yer hope is nearly gone,
Just bristle up and set yer teeth,
And keep on keepin' "on".
