FANCY BREADS ARE DELIGHTFUL FOR TEAS AND SANDWICHES

(By Marjorie Mills)

Mrs. J. D. P. of Norwichtown, Ct., asks that we print the recipes for cheese and tomato bread and any other odd and fancy breads that we have.

Let's surprise the family with varicolored breads, red, yellow, orange, brown, and others that will produce a piece of fruit with each bite. Then too fancy breads are excellent for sandwich making and for teas. Can't you just picture how attractive a sandwich would be made with orange bread and a cream cheese filling?
Can't you just hear the 'ohs' and 'ahs' a platter of these breads with different colored fillings would bring forth at your bridge party?

If you do bake your own bread, there's not much extra work in varying the plain, white, everyday variety into a colorful loaf that will delight young and old alike.

Cheese Bread

1½ cups milk
1 cup grated cheese
1 tablespoon sugar
½ cake compressed yeast
1 teaspoon salt

4 cups flour, approximately Heat the milk to lukewarm, add the grated cheese and mix. Add the sugar and the yeast dissolved in a small amount of the milk before heating. Add one cup of flour and beat with a rotary egg beater until smooth. Let rise about one hour, add the salt and mix to a kneading dough with flour.

Knead ten minutes, let rise until light, knead again and place in greased bread pan or make into small rolls.
When light, bake bread an hour, or if made into rolls, 20 to 30 minutes, first ten minutes at 450 degrees F., remaining time at 350 degrees F.

Tomato Bread

1 yeast cake dissolved in ½ cup warm water ¾ cup sugar 2 cups cooked tomato juice and pulp pressed through strainer

1 tablespoon salt
Flour enough to make soft dough Combine as other bread mixtures and allow to rise twice. This makes two loaves and is attractive in color.

Fruit Bread

3 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder 1½ teaspoons salt
¾ teaspoon soda
¾ cup molasses
1½ cups milk
1 egg

¾ cup chopped nuts
1 cup chopped dates or raisins Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Dissolve soda in molasses and add to flour. Add milk and slightly beaten egg. Flour nuts and fruit and stir in. Turn into a greased pan.
Let rise 15 minutes. Bake in moderate oven about one hour. Raw prunes may be pitted, cut in pieces and used in place of dates or raisins.

Chocolate Fruit Bread

2½ cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon ½ cup chopped nuts ½ cup seedless raisins ½ cup chopped dates
1 egg
¼ cup brown sugar
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening 1-3 cup melted chocolate

Sift flour, measure, add baking powder, salt and cinnamon and sift three times. Add nuts, raisins and dates. Beat the egg, add brown sugar and milk, and combine with flour mixture along with shortening and chocolate. Stir well and turn into well oiled pan and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., 45 minutes.

Almond Bread

3 cups whole wheat flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 egg
1½ cups milk

1 cup almonds, chopped coarsely ½ cup hazel nuts, chopped coarsely Sift flour, measure, then sift together all dry ingredients. Beat egg, add milk and stir this into the flour mixture. Mix well. Add nuts and melted butter. Bake in greased pan in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for about one hour.

Orange Nut Bread

3 cups pastry flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar ½ cup chopped walnut meats ½ cup orange marmalade 1 tablespoon grated orange peel 1 egg, well beaten
1 cup milk

Sift together dry ingredients. Add remaining ingredients, mix well, and turn into a well-greased bread tin.
Let stand ten minutes and bake ¾ to 1 hour in moderate oven, 350 deg. F.

Peanut Orange Bread

¾ cup cold water ½ cup brown sugar
1 cup bread flour
¾ teaspoon soda
¼ cup peanut butter ½ cup molasses ¾ cup milk 2½ teaspoons baking powder 2 cups graham flour

½ cup chopped candied orange rind Dissolve sugar in water. Add milk and molasses. Sift flour, salt, soda, baking powder and unsifted graham flour. Combine mixture, beat in softened peanut butter, fold in orange rind. Bake in 350 degrees F. oven, 40 minutes.

BOTANICAL NOTES FOR NOVEMBER

(By E. W. Hart, Division of Botany, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa)

With the fall of the leaves, with the passing of Indian Summer, Nature's kindly but timely warning; with the advent of frost and snow, comes Nature's sweet restorer—repose.

"The universal instinct of repose, The longing for confirmed tranquillity, Inward and outward, humble yet sublime;

The life where hope and memory are as one."

In November most plants relax from their labours, but not all, for some still bloom in spite of the elements with that strange and almost debonair energy which comes to all life often as a harbinger of death.

Buttercups, round-leaved mallows, mustards, goldenrods, michaelmas daisies, lobellias and witch-hazel may still be found in flower in sheltered situations.

In the woods, the yellow, raggedpetalled flowers of the dauntless witch-hazel are very attractive. Later come their woody seed capsules, which take many months to mature.
Care must be taken, however, not to examine these capsules too closely, as a bombardment of the bullet-like seeds ejected with very considerable force may take place in the same manner as the seeds of the violet and touch-me-not.

For a very long time an atmosphere of poetry and sentiment has gathered round the witch-hazel, and it was formerly draped by those versed in the occult arts with a veil of deep mystery. It has been, and doubtless still is, used as a divining rod. In the eighteenth century Jonathan Swift wrote:

"They tell us something strange and odd

About a certain magic rod That, bending down its top divines Where'er the soil has hidden mines, Where there are none, it stands erect Scorning to show the least respect."

This versatile plant also extends its "magic" to the famous "Witch-Hazel" of the pharmacy.

Indian Tobacco, perhaps the least attractive of the usually beautiful lo-bellias, may also continue to bloom in November. It is readily identified by the very small flowers and inflated seed-vessels.

The name might have arisen either from the peculiar tobacco-like sensation imparted to the tongue and stomach on chewing the leaves, or from the fact that the Indians often smoked the dried leaves to produce the drugged effect of "The insane root That takes the reason prisoner."

However, it has some use in the fluid extract of the dried leaves as a cure for asthma.

Many people doubtless quite naturally conclude that the winter months are entirely devoid of botanical interest. A few walks in the woods, however, will prove that such is not the case; for the spruce, pine and fir trees when in repose exhibit extreme interest and beauty both of sight and sound, the latter inspiring Wordsworth to write:

"At every impulse of the moving breeze

The fir-grove murmurs with a sea-like sound."

His comparison is a very apt one.
The soothing, slumberous sound of the conifers is very suggestive of the breaking of the surf on a distant beach. And what a sight is that glittering fairland when, on frosty days, the sun shines on the rime-covered twigs! An attraction for the lover of plant life far surpassing that of the soothing, slumberous atmosphere of the fireside.

PUSHING A CHILD BEYOND HIS AGE IS FATAL ERROR

(By Angelo Patri)

The first grade teacher was troubled. "There is something the matter with Mitchell. His mother entered him last month, so he could be in school with his brother. At first he seemed to like it, but now he is afraid He cries most of the time, and I can't get a bit of work out of him to save my life. He is just a baby."

"How old is he?"
"Card says he is just one month short of 6. His brother is only a couple of months over 6. Couldn't be, could it? I'm asking his mother to see me this afternoon, when she comes for him. There is something the matter."

"Yes," said mother, cheerfully, "he is only 4, but I wanted him to be ready for what was ahead of him, so I put him in school now. You see I told him that he need not study; just listen, do what he could and let the rest go. Of course the others can do more, but that need not worry him.

So one little boy got a bad start in school. He was asked to face a situation far beyond his ability to cope with, and to do work far beyond what of development permitted.

He lived under a cloud of failure. His health was shaken and his belief in himself shocked severely. Maybe time will cure the hurt. I hope so, but time will have plenty to do.

It is unwise to try to push a child beyond the bounds that nature set for his protection. We are certain to make serious mistakes when we try that.

A Face Covered With Pimples Causes Much Embarrassment

BLOOD BITTERS

There is little doubt but that impure and imperfect blood is the soil on which those red, white, pus filled pimples develop and thrive, and that nothing short of a vigorous, persistent blood purifying treatment will eradicate them from the system.

Burdock Blood Bitters banishes bad blood and with the bad blood banished the skin becomes free from pimples.
Try a few bottles and be convinced.
