With royalty from every reigning house in Europe in attendance churches throughout the Empire paid tribute to the late King George V at memorial service at Westminster Abbey, governmental delegations from abroad to Tuesday's state funeral poured into London.

The Archbishop of Canterbury conducting the principal service at Westminster Abbey, pointed to the late Sovereign's unblemished home life in the course of an eloquent tribute, and urged the country to make marriage a more stable institution.

"While marriage is coming to be regarded with so much recklessness and frivolity," he said, "remember the home life of King George and keep your homes pure and stable."

The Queen Mother, with the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester; the Duke and Duchess of Kent; the Princess Royal, her husband, the Earl of Harewood and their two sons, attended a service in the private chapel of Buckingham Palace.

The King and Queen of Norway, the latter King George's only surviving sister, also were present at the palace service.

King Edward VIII remained at his country residence at Fort Belvedere. He went there yesterday for a much-needed rest.

It was learned he plans to wear his naval uniform at the funeral of his father.

Reach London

King Boris of Bulgaria, who was met by the Duke of Gloucester on his arrival in London, visited Westminster Hall tonight. He spent 15 minutes in the great chamber where the body of King George lies.

The Duke of Kent, youngest son of the late King, welcomed [Regent Prince Paul of Yugoslavia.

Tonight the public queue entering Westminster Hall, where the body of George V lies, stretched out for three miles. So great was the crush that officials decided to keep the hall open throughout the night.

During the day 155,358 persons had filed past the royal bier up to 6 p.m. yesterday and last night 260,819 persons passed through the hall.

The late King's grandsons, 12 year old Viscount Lascelles, and his 11 year old brother, the Hon. Gerald

JARVIS CASE REFERRED TO APPEAL COURT BY MINISTER OF JUSTICE

OTTAWA, Jan. 27 — The case of Aemilius Jarvis has been referred to the Appeal Court of Ontario to decide whether or not a new trial should be granted the Toronto broker, who has already served a sentence for conspiracy to defraud.

The Minister of Justice took into account the many representations made to him, and in particular the recent recommendation of the Attorney-General of Ontario, who after prolonged investigation advised the granting of a new trial. The Minister has equally considered the fact that the Attorney-General opposed the granting of a new trial or any other remedial action.

Matter for Courts

"In the presence of these conflicting views held by the respective prosecuting authorities of the Province, the Minister of Justice has come to the conclusion that the ends of justice would be well served by referring the whole matter to the Appeal Court of Ontario for judicial determination. He has, under his discretionary power, issued an order accordingly."

Fire Fighting Matters

Some people seem to want an investigation into matters connected with the fire department. What is needed is a thorough investigation into the whole fire fighting system with a view of remedying the fire department in the way of equipment and otherwise. That there is dissatisfaction with the present fire fighting system is no secret. Any citizen whom you meet will tell you what he thinks about our antiquated methods of fighting fire but many, even including some of the aldermen, will tell you that we cannot secure a better equipment as it costs too much money. What we should have had at the York Street fire last week is an aerial, another pumper and a better force of water. Also we should have had some way to protect the stuff after the Salvage Corps had removed it from the burning buildings. The Salvage Corps could not be expected to follow the stuff and watch it after it had been removed from the building. They had other work to do. At the same time there should be somebody watching people's goods to see that they are not stolen after being removed from the fire. Otherwise the labor of salvage is fruitless.

There should be a department of Public Safety to arrange for both fire and police protection at fires and have both organizations work together. The firemen work hard and the Chief is as good as any that we can get—much better than many—but there should be some improved system and if possible, firemen who are sufficiently paid. It is a wonder how the city can get men to stay out all night in sub-zero weather spoiling good clothes for the pittance that our firemen are receiving. There should be a shake up in the system and in the equipment and now that there is all the talk about it this is the time to have a reorganization.

There is no use in saying that we cannot afford to get improved equipment. There are some necessary things that people must have. If the taxpayers property is at stake it is the duty of the city to protect this property. It is stated by a well-known fireman that if a fire had broken out at the University or even at the Parliament Building on the same day that the Edgcombe fire was in progress, that it "would have been too bad" for those buildings. This is a serious state of affairs. There may not be a fire for a year. Again there may be a fire tonight. What are we going to do to remedy matters. There is no use in sitting back and saying that our fire conditions are ideal when they are not. This is living in a fool's paradise. Hold an investigation into our whole system. If it is all right then we can rest safely. If it is not all right, say so and get busy remedying it.

Speaking to The Daily Mail today His Worship Mayor G. W. Kitchen said that the City Council was going to take the matter of equipment into serious consideration and if extra equipment was necessary it would have to be procured at once. Mayor Kitchen gave the firemen a good send-off for the work which they are doing under difficulties and with poor pay.

Tribute Paid to Character Late King in the Churches

At the various churches on Sunday special references were made to the late King George V., whose death occurred last week. Most of these appear on an inside page of today's issue of The Daily Mail. Tribute was paid by Rev. D. L. Kennedy, pastor of the Devon Baptist church; Ven. Archdeacon Bate, pastor of Christchurch Parish Church; and by Rev. Dr. G. E. Ross, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church appear below:

In the course of his sermon the rector referred to the poet "that as Sons and Daughters of England as members of the Parish Church congregation, we have come here today to hold in memory the King." Within the confines of the Empire the King is an institution — democratic and constitutional. In his hands he holds the silken threads which run from the great Dominions, from India, from the Colonies and from the Islands of the sea to London. Without him the Empire would disintegrate, and crumble away. Now the King is dead. Today our hearts go out to the widowed Queen, the sons and the daughter. We picture the deathbed scene in Sandringham House, the villagers gathering around the body in the little Parish Church of Sandringham, and then the lying-in-state in the great Hall of Westminster. On Tuesday in spirit we will follow the funeral cortege to Windsor. The wealth, the pageantry, the glory and the pomp of it all mingled with death remind one of General Wolfe before Quebec in the long ago, quoting Thomas Gray:

Memorial Service at Parish Church

Yesterday morning in the Parish Church a memorial service for the King was held with the Sons and Daughters of England attending. The announcement of the King's death was made by the Rev. W. J. Bate and this was followed by one minute's silence. Then the organist, Miss Hilda Shorten played the "Dead March in Saul." After the hymn, "Now the Labourer's Task is O'er," the burial sentences and Psalm 90 sung. The scripture was read, The Lord's Prayer repeated lesson, Revelations: 21, was read by Rev. W. J. Bate. Hymn, Bless Be the Tie that Binds was sung, the Apostle's Creed said and one verse of the National Anthem rendered. Special prayers for the King, the Royal Family and the Empire were used. Then the hymn "Nearer My God to Thee" was sung. The sermon was preached by the rector, Ven. Archdeacon A. F. Bate. The anthem "What Are These that Are Arrayed in White Robes," was well rendered by the choir. The Blessing was pronounced by the Rev. W. J. Bate. The recess-ional hymn was "Palm of Glory, Raiment Bright." The Last Post and the Reveille were sounded by Bugler John Forrester.

"The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power, And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave Await alike the inevitable hour. The paths of glory lead but to the grave."

FERRY DAMAGED BY ICE IN RIVER

Barge Canal Provides Haven For Drifting Craft

FORT ERIE, Ont., Jan. 27—A ferry plying between Port Erie, Ont., and Buffalo tore off part of the superstructure when an ice jam carried the vessel against the international railway bridge here today, but was able to gain the safety of the New York State Barge canal, two miles downstream.

The ferry, a double-decked craft, carried passengers and automobiles. Heavy ice floes drifting down from Lake Erie after last night's high winds seized the vessel as it crossed the Niagara River. The damaged vessel drifted free from the bridge after the collision and moved downstream, still in the grip of the ice.

The engines were undamaged and the ferry worked clear of the ice and proceeded under her own power to the entrance of the barge canal.

REGULATIONS PREVENT INFUX JEWS IN CANADA

Movement on Foot to Rescue Jews From Germany

(Special to The Daily Mail)

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 27—There will be no influx of Jews from Germany into Canada unless the new government radically changes the present immigration regulations, it was learned today in connection with the proposal sponsored by Sir Herbert Samuel to rescue Jews from Germany and migrate them to Canada and other countries.

Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Immigration stated today he had received no representations from Sir Herbert's organization as to the entry of Jews into Canada.

At present only British subjects who are unlikely to become public charges may enter Canada. From other countries an order in council is required in each case save the wife and children under 18 of persons already legally established in Canada.

The other exception is that of farmers, who must have been bona fide farmers in their original country and have $1,000 to invest in farming. This money must be deposited with the Department of Immigration or the Colonization branches of the C. N. R. or C. P. R., which expend the money for the immigrant for his farm needs and so ensure him staying on the farm.

INFANT CHILD DEAD

The sympathy of their many friends is being extended today to Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Scammell, on the death of their infant son, George A. D. Scammell, whose death occurred yesterday. Burial took place yesterday afternoon at four o'clock with Ven. Archdeacon A. F. Bate officiating and interment was in the Rural Cemetery extension.

It pays to advertise in the Daily Mail.

OTTAWA, Jan. 27 — Gradual abolition of Canada's 160 relief camps, in which 20,000 single, homeless men are being cared for, will be recommended by the Commission which was appointed by the Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, to make a survey of conditions in camps.

The Minister expects to have the interim reports of the Commission before Parliament meets and arrangements will be made within the next month or so to have the administration of the camps transferred from the Department of National Defense to the Department of Labor.

The Government hopes that with the gradual improvement in economic conditions it will be possible to transfer the majority of those in the camps to remunerative work, but in the meantime no sudden closing down of the camps is contemplated.

The Commission of three, composed of Humphrey Mitchell, former Labor M.P. from Hamilton; E. W. Bradwin, Principal of Frontier College, and R. A. Rigg, of the Department of Labor, are leaving immediately for an inspection of Valcartier Camp in Quebec, where the first contingent was assembled and trained for the Great War.

The Commission already has visited camps throughout Western Canada and found that they are anything but slave camps, as some critics alleged. On the contrary, the men are well fed, well clothed and comfortably housed, while the work they are required to do is no onerous.

The camps are being maintained at a large expense to the country, even if the daily allowance to the men is but twenty cents.

Miss Dorothy S. Mooers of Woodstock to be secretary to the Board; Mrs. C. Robert Hawkins of Fredericton to be assistant secretary to the Board; and Misses Doris Johnston of Port Elgin and Mildred McDonald of Shediac to be stenographers.

The appointment of Mrs. Hawkins should be a very popular one as well as a deserving one.

EXECUTIVE AND OFFICERS OF MORRO CASTLE FOUND GUILTY OF NEGLIGENCE

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—An executive of the company which owned the Morro Castle and two officers in charge when the vessel burned off the New Jersey coast in September, 1934, stand convicted of negligence. A federal jury found them guilty Saturday night.

They are Acting Captain William F. Warms, Chief Engineer Eben S. Abbott formerly of Yarmouth, N.S., and Henry E. Cabaud, vice-president of the New York and Cuba Mail Steamship Company.

The conviction carries with it the maximum fines of $10,000 and prison terms of 10 years. The corporation also faces a possible fine of $10,000.

The jury's verdict was expected to have an important bearing on the damage suits filed against the New York and Cuba Company by more than 500 claimants for loss of life, injury or destruction of property by the fire. These claims are to be heard in civil actions.

Judge M. Hulbert, in his charge, emphasized that the jury, to return a verdict of guilty, must find that the defendants had been guilty of negligence which was directly related to the loss of life.
