Mrs. Walter Gross who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Eliza Hanson for the past two weeks, has returned to her home in Oldtown, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Fletcher and family, who have been spending the summer at Princess Park, have now returned home.

Drinker declared, is the establishment of a system of sampling the air which workers in various industries breathe and the setting up of a rigid set of standards showing just how dusty the air can be without impairing the health of the workers.

Only in South Africa is the study of the problem sufficiently advanced, he said, to correlate the dustiness of the air and silicosis in the workers over a considerable period of time, but excellent results have been reported there.

"They realized at the outset that dustiness could not be properly controlled unless measured and recorded routinely," he said. "The results of this procedure show that no miner who entered the Kimberley mines during the past 10 years, has as yet contracted silicosis. These facts demonstrate that the engineering and medical measures which have been directed against silicosis have achieved a very significant degree of success. It would be hard to devise a more complete proof of the advantages of dust sampling and of dust standards."

Other speakers on today's programmes were Dr. Carlton E. Brown of the Pittsburgh Experimental station, United States bureau of mines, and Dr. Theodore F. Hatch of the Harvard school of public health.

ited Charlottetown, Moncton, and Saint John. A special programme of extension in the Maritime Provinces is in contemplation.

The Society's International Affairs Information Service to head which one of Canada's most distinguished younger students of international affairs had just been appointed. The Society's International Affairs Literature Service which during the past year had brought together the Canadian agency for all the principal organizations publishing in English in its field including the League of Nations itself, the International Labor organization, the Institute of Intellectual Co-operation, the Royal Institute of International Affairs (London) the Institute of Pacific Relations, The Geneva Research Centre and the New Commonwealth Organization; The Society's junior branches programme (for school pupils); The society's publication programme; (news sheets, special circulars to associated organizations, etc.); The Society's National Conference programme, and International co-operation.

Under the heading of international co-operation Mr. Inch said the society had given leadership in Canada in the preparations for the World Youth Congress opening in Geneva yesterday and in the selection of a Canadian delegation numbering nearly 40 persons. The conference had been called by the international federation to which the society now belongs. In this connection Mr. Inch announced that at least one of the three younger members of parliament in the Canadian delegation—probably Paul Martin, M.P., would visit the Maritimes under the society's lecture programme on his return from Geneva. Mr. Martin planned to remain over in Geneva for the League of Nations Assembly.

The society hopes to have before the end of the present year a local representative or a local committee representing it in all the centres of population in the Maritimes. One of the projects for the coming year which had been suggested was a Maritime Summer Institute of Economics and Politics along the lines of the one recently concluded at Geneva Park, Lake Couchiching. Mr. Inch had attended this institute and said that at its conclusion the suggestion was made that similar meetings should be organized next year one in Western Canada and one in the Maritimes.

Speaking of the general international situation, Mr. Inch said that Canadians were hardly in a position to complain that the League of Nations had not been successful in all its enterprises. Canada, officially never gave wholehearted support to any League idea except a league for consultation and co-operation only. He thought the present public discouragement was due to lack of understanding of the nature of the problem. It was the problem of government—of government on a world scale the complexity of which could be gauged from the complexity of the problem of government in our own country.

The society, Mr. Inch said, was endeavoring to build as much as it could on existing organizations and was developing its programme with a view to assisting other organizations in carrying on international affairs study and discussion programmes. He said there were now 21 organizations in New Brunswick officially associated with the society, nine in Moncton, six in Saint John, three in Sackville and one each in Fredericton, Woodstock, and Edmundston. Four of these were business houses. It was hoped to be able to greatly extend this number.

SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Charming Autumn Wedding

at St. Dunstan's Church
St. Dunstan's Church was this morning the scene of a pretty wedding when Miss Kathleen (Kay) Shea daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Shea of this city, was united in marriage to J. Lorne Howatt of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Howatt of Charlottetown, P. E. I. The Right Rev. Msgr. F. L. Carney, V.G., D.P., performed the ceremony at Nuptial Mass.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a wedding gown of floral chiffon with picture hat in melon colors and shoes to match. She carried an arm bouquet of talisman roses tied with talisman ribbon. Mrs. J. B. Jones, of Thorold Ont., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gold satin gown with a picture hat of brown felt and brown accessories. She carried a bouquet of brown mums tied with gold ribbon.

Dr. Roland Howatt of Charlottetown, P.E.I., brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

The ushers were Gilbert Henry and Wilfrid Roberts of this city.

As the guests were being ushered to their seats appropriate selections on the organ were rendered by Mrs. Hugh O'Neill Jr., organist, who also played Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus as the bride entered the church and the Recessional as the bridal party left the church.

The altar and the sanctuary steps were banked with early autumn flowers and the church was filled with invited guests and other interested friends of the bridal party.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. The dining-room was artistic, the color scheme being pink and mauve. The polished mahogany table was centred with a tiered wedding-cake which was surmounted by a tiny white Cupid and a miniature silver bell encircled in lilies of the valley. At each end of the table were candelabra bearing pink and mauve tapers, with sweet peas arranged in tiny crystal vases. Quantities of fragrant blooms were noted throughout the rooms in the house. Mrs. A. F. VanWart presided over the coffee-cups, assisted by several of the girl friends of the bride. Mrs. K. R. McAdam cut the loaves.

Mr. and Mrs. Howatt later left on a motoring trip to Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island and on their return will reside at 730 Brunswick Street. For travelling the bride chose a suit of rust brown boucle and a brown felt hat with matching accessories.

Both the bride and bridegroom are deservedly popular in the city, having been guests of honor at several social functions prior to their marriage. The bride was educated in the Fredericton Schools and at Mount St. Vincent Convent at Halifax.

The bridegroom holds a M.Sc. degree from McGill University and is connected with the Dominion Laboratory, being assistant plant pathologist.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Nicholas Powers, Charlottetown, P.E.I., sister of the bridegroom; Miss Mary McKenna, St. Stephen, N. B.; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ritchey, Moncton, N. B.; Mrs. Ernest Gunter, Rimouski Quebec; Mr. and Mrs. Adrien Oldham Woodstock, N. B.; and Mrs. Donald Lindsay, Woodstock, N. B.

Mrs. D. J. Shea wore black velvet with large black picture hat trimmed with ostrich feather and she carried a corsage of roses.

Mrs. Nicholas Powers, sister of the bridegroom, was in black chiffon with fox fur and a corsage of lilies.

Miss Mary McKenna wore a New York model with a du Bouquet collar and accessories to match.

Miss Theo Morris returned yesterday from a holiday trip to Montreal and Grand Mere, Que. In Montreal Miss Morris was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Gagnon and at Grand Mere Miss Morris visited Mr. and Mrs. Laurie Landry formerly of this city.

Turney, secretary of the N. B. Fruit Growers' Association.

NO AMERICAN MEDIATION

Detroit News: Secretary of State Hull's rebuff of the Uruguayan proposal that the Pan-American countries offer to mediate the Spanish revolt was very ingenious, considering that Uruguayans themselves have been vociferous critics of United States interventions in this hemisphere. The Secretary of State simply replied that the proposed mediation would be intervention, and American policy now opposes intervening in any way in the domestic corners of other nations. There is a rather evident distinction between offering mediation, even in a domestic war, and landing marines in Haiti; nevertheless, the reply served very practically to quash a proposal that could have been mildly embarrassing. Common humanity, of and by itself, demands only too plainly that the world do something, anything it can, to halt the slaughter and brutal excesses of the Spanish civil war. There are at times, however, when common humanity must give way to cold common sense and this certainly is one of them.

SCRIP IN ALBERTA

New York Times: The world may suspect a catch somewhere, and they need not look far. These so-called "prosperity certificates" are simply a form of taxation, and not very equitable taxation. Assuming that the script circulates at face value and is duly redeemed, the people of Alberta will none the less pay $1.04 in stamp taxes for each dollar of scrip issued. No "increased purchasing power" is created; the citizens lose what the Provincial Government gains. The tax falls not on those best able to pay but merely on those who get caught with the bills on the weekly stamp day. Some persons may be able to arrange their transactions to avoid the tax regularly, while others are just as regularly caught, unless they can add the tax to their prices.

THE RIFT IN AMERICAN LABOR

Los Angeles Times: The rise of Lewis and the decline of Green indicate a deep-seated dissatisfaction with craft-unionism as a vehicle for "organizing" American industry. With everything in his favor, including the solid backing of the National administration and the enactment of every law he asked for to further his programme, Green has made almost no progress in increasing A. F. of L. net membership in the past three years. The federation numbered about 6 per cent of the country's wage-earners before the New Deal started; it still numbers about 6 per cent. Unionism generally seems to be veering to the opinion that it is time for a change in methods if not in leadership, that a little hay may be made while the Washington sun is still shining.

Good Displays

in front of the band stand was the scene of many interesting and laugh provoking antics.

A wand drill by the Junior boys group was done with careful attention to grace and timing. Next came "ladder pyramids" which featured a shoulder stand by Ben McCarthy on top of the 15 foot human ladder. This was put on by the senior boys. The next item was folk dancing and tumbling demonstrations by the Junior Girls and Boys. Each demonstration received rounds of applause as the youthful showmen did their bits.

One of the highlights of the entertainment was the marshmallow feeding contest. Cedric MacDiarmid and Marvin Stewart were stripped to the waist and tried to feed each other marshmallows. The climax came when the blindfolded boys were given marshmallows buttered with charcoal.

Before the band concert Alderman Warren Maxwell presented the prizes for the day. He acted in place of the Mayor who was detained by the council meeting. C. Hedley Forbes donated 51 boxes of chocolates, a prize to each child who had a perfect attendance record for the entire year.
