

Fredericton Swimmer Leads Rivals In Aquatics

PAULINE ROWAN, GEORGE CLYNICK HIGH POINT WINNERS AT REGATTA

Events Had Large Entry List—Thousands Witness Swimming, Diving and Boating

"Nautical moments," might have been the theme song for yesterday's regatta as natadors, canoeists and oarsmen supplied the motif for the Capital city's Thursday afternoon annual water holiday.

Thousands lined the banks of St. John river at the A. & B. clubhouse, cars were parked both sides of the street, many eager spectators even climbed on the roof of the building to watch the swimming, diving and boating events.

The scene on the river with the different craft was a beautiful one and attracted many spectators.

Alderman F. S. Mundle was the announcer and called off the entries through a public address system that carried his voice from the amplifiers advantageously arranged on the front of the club house.

The Commodore Holder of the R. K.Y.C. and Pickerell of the Saint John Power Boat Club handled activities on the float. On the diving raft the officials were Frank Osborne, Ralph Albrant and H. E. Gibson. S. Leslie Mavor acted as starter for all events.

The affair lasted from two o'clock in the afternoon until supper time, when a short break was called to give the officials a rest. The evening's activities consisted of boat racing and the carnival. The K. of P. Band provided music for a concert and a local orchestra played in the club house for dancing.

Booths and games were well patronized and the tired crowds turned home in the early hours of the morning.

Pauline Rowan, Fredericton's first lady swimmer, copped five first events, to gain a total of 25 points. She was by far the outstanding star of the day. George "Skeeter" Clynick headed the men entrants with fifteen points.

Miss Rowan, by virtue of her decisive victories is now permanent possessor of Tip Top Tailors' Annual Cup, she has won the trophy for three successive years.

The men's diving was the pick of the events for interest and keenness of competition. George Howes won the event on his graceful swan dive, with Ronald Laskey a close second. Dallas Laskey and George Cormier tied for third place. All young men are A. & B. Club entrants.

The sea sled races went to Gilbert Peterson of Fort Fairfield, Me. Peterson took the race two nights from Pete Vaughan of Fredericton driving the "Sunoco." The Maine boat was called the "Texaco Fire Chief." Last night young Vaughan had the misfortune to be thrown from his craft as he was rounding the first turn.

The Indian canoe race, six event on the afternoon's card, was perhaps the closest boat race ever seen here. The three entrants were neck and neck for about three-quarters of the stretch but near the finishing line Philip and Ben Tomah pulled ahead to win with Tom and Miles Brooks in a very close second place.

The men's single canoes race was won by George Clynick of Fredericton with Arthur Peters, Rover Scout from Saint John, second, and Tom Brooks from the Devon Indian reserve third.

The boys' tub race was as usual the most humorous event with blonde George Tapley of Fredericton splashing in to first place. Several of the tubs upset but the youngsters made the shore in safety.

Little David Rockwell, 5 year old A. and B. Club mascot, was present again this year decked out in nautical attire. He featured a short intermission with an exhibition diving number.

The summary of events is as follows:

Hogsett, an Indian, has the well-known sign of the larpuping New York Yankees, having beaten that team four times to date. Quite an achievement for a discard.

Britain to Play Australia in the Davis Cup Series

Tennis form was maintained again yesterday when Australia eliminated Germany from the Davis Cup series and qualified to challenge Great Britain for the historic trophy. So again, within the next few days, the Davis Cup will be referred to countless times as the "battered mug." For some reason or other every sports trophy cup with any background is a "battered mug"—like the physiognomy of a pugilist, as it were.

The forthcoming matches will be the first all-British Empire Davis Cup finals since 1919. There is this difference, though—Britain will be the defending, not the challenging nation. In that year, after a five-year lapse due to the war, the competition was resumed, and Australia, represented by Gerald Patterson, Norman Brookes and James O. Anderson, defeated the team of Arthur H. Lowe, Algernon R. F. Kingscote and Alfred E. Beamish by four matches to one.

The lone victory scored by Great Britain was in a singles match in which Kingscote beat Anderson.

OLYMPIC NOTES

Sleepy Sam Richardson was one of the few Canadian Olympic athletes who didn't work out on shipboard Tuesday. Sam was in bed as usual but this time he had a good excuse. The ship's dentist extracted a tooth that was giving the broad jumper trouble and told him to stay in his cabin for the day.

That suited Sam fine for bed is the thing the Toronto colored boy just can't get enough of. "Lazy Bones" sleeps until noon, dozes after luncheon and goes to bed early. They say he quit school this spring so he could loaf without interruption.

Continue Training

More than 60 of the athletes on their way to Berlin made the ship their training ground. The track men worked out on the promenade deck and the boxers, wrestlers and fencers trained on the sun deck.

The Atlantic is doing what it can to ensure the athletes will get to Berlin in good shape. It has been calm since the ship left Belle Isle and no one has been seasick.

Canadian Olympic officials put their heads together recently and decided on the three teams that will represent Canada in the relay events at Berlin. After studying form in the trials at Montreal, they matched up combinations that will go after the men's 400 and 1500-metre titles and the women's 400-metre championship.

The Dominion's four best sprinters will take on the job of passing the baton in the 400. The team is made up of Sam Richardson of Toronto, Howie McPhee of Vancouver, Lee Orr of Vancouver, and Bruce Humber of Victoria.

McPhee cleaned up both sprint events at the trials at Montreal, and Humber and Orr ran second and third to him in the hundred. Richardson did not train for the sprints this season, but he has run the 100 yards in 9.8 seconds. He will also compete in the broad jump and the hop, step and jump.

1,500-Metres Team

Johnny Loaring of Windsor, Ont., Marshall Limon of Vancouver, Bill Fritz of Toronto, and Phil Edwards of Montreal will make up the 1500-metres team. Loaring won the 400-metre race at the trials and Limon and Fritz were second and third. Edwards is the Canadian and British champion at 800 metres.

The women's 400-metre relay team will be made up of Dot Brookshaw and Jeannette Dolson of Toronto Lakesides, Aileen Meagher of Halifax, and Hilda Cameron of Toronto Supremes. Miss Cameron, Miss Meagher and Miss Dolson finished in that order in the 100-metre sprint at the Montreal trials, and Miss Brookshaw was fifth.

Radio Services In Canada

There were 862,000 private radio receiving licenses issued in Canada during the last fiscal year. That was about 50,000 more than in the previous year, which indicates how rapidly radio reception is expanding in the Dominion.

While Ontario as a province leads with 342,000 licenses, Montreal leads the cities with over 131,000, Toronto having about 40,000 fewer than the metropolis.

The great romance of radio reception is, of course, in the knowledge that the far away places of the Dominion, the outposts of civilization, have been brought into touch with the heart of the country and one has not yet ceased to wonder at the miracle of those thrilling messages that have gone out to the far north of an evening, telling Royal Canadian Mounted Policemen, sturdy pioneers and brave missionaries, of the precious love and thought which the folk

SING PRAISES OF NEW GERMANY AT OLYMPICS

BERLIN—Barmaids, hat check girls and chambermaids were mobilized recently to sing the praises of the new Germany to visitors to the Olympic Games next month.

"You must be especially conscious of your high political responsibility," said the Bochumer Tageblatt in its call to arms.

"Look out what you tell foreigners. The impression you give them is of the highest political significance, as the foreign press tried to influence them in advance against Germany."

The Greek delegation, arriving early today, was given a big welcome. After a little sleep, the Olympic band expected to welcome teams from Mexico, Iceland and China within the next few hours.

According to word filtering into press headquarters here, the United States will support Finland's bid for the 1940 games.

Television apparatus was installed in the Olympic village for the entertainment of the athletes already there. The Filipinos have become prime favorites there because of their willingness to entertain with native tap dancing.

Boston scribes are very much alarmed because Jack Sharkey, known as "The Squire," has been led into a bout against Joe Louis. They fear that the former world's champion will be severely drubbed. They say so fearlessly.

at home have for them in their lonely ways. There are about 400 in the Yukon and the Northwest Territories. There is a fine illustration of consideration for the less fortunate in the fact that 2,300 blind people last year got their license free.

This information is taken from a report by the Radio Branch of the Department of Marine received by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

NEW PRESIDENT LADIES' GOLF

Mrs. H. G. Chestnut, members of the Fredericton Ladies' Golf Club, is the new president of the New Brunswick Ladies' Golf Association.

The election was made on authority given at the association's recent annual meeting at Perth. The annual competition and meeting next year will be held at Fredericton.

Danny Brammer, the youthful jockey who guided Monsweep to victory in the King's Plate race this year, has been ordered to take a month's rest at his home in Idaho. Brammer is suffering from a stomach ailment.

The said scribes, however, need not be unduly interested. They won't get hurt. Bad and all as Louis was against Max Schmeling, he should be able to "take" Sharkey; but it can be taken for granted that the latter will also be willing to accept the gate-receipts "take" as solace for his wounds.

DEVON SPLITS DOUBLE HEADER WITH MAROONS

The Saint John Maroons and the Devon Baseball Club split a double-header in Devon yesterday, Maroons bowing to the Devonites 6-5 in the afternoon and taking a one-sided victory in the evening 11-2.

Although both games were not up to the usual form of either team, the afternoon fixture provided some thrills to the small turnout of fans. The star of the day was McGrattan of the Maroons who cracked out two three-base hits in the afternoon game.

The scores by innings: R. H. E. Maroons 200 110 1-5 6 3 Devon 105 000 -6 5 4 Batteries—Maroons, Mockler and Cronin; Devon, Cameron and Burgess.

Evening game—R. H. E. Maroons 006 302-11 12 1 Devon 100 100-2 6 5 Batteries—Maroons, O'Connor and Cronin; Devon, Titus, Keene and Boyne, Burgess.
