A little boy rushed into the grocer's one morning on a very important errand.
"What can I do for you?" the grocer asked.
"I want three pounds of sausages, and please can I have them all the same size, as Ma keeps a boarding house," he replied.

FINDS JONAH STORY ALL WET

Ethnologist Says Prophet Was Only in a Hole, But He Got Out of It.

WASHINGTON, July 2—The story of Jonah's three-day stay inside a whale arose from a mistaken translation centuries ago, according to a theory submitted today by George M. Lamsa.

An expert in the Aramaic language of the time of Biblical history, Mr. Lamsa argues that the original text simply meant to convey that Jonah was puzzled for three days or, as current American slang would phrase it, he was "in a hole" for that time.

The ethnologist has made an extensive study of some of the few surviving Aramaic texts of the Bible, including one which was found in the ruins of an ancient church in Persian Kurdistan. A native of Mesopotamia, he was born and reared in the isolated region near Mount Ararat, which kept the language of Biblical Galileans and their customs undisturbed by foreign influences. British occupation of the region following the war opened up the region and its ancient traditions.

He has worked recently with Smithsonian Institution experts.

Writing in "Gospel Light," a book published today, Mr. Lamsa says regarding the story of Jonah:

"According to the interpretation of dreams in the East, a man or whale means trouble, disturbance and indecision. Jonah in the whale is an Oriental hyperbole, and means Jonah is in trouble, just as an American would say, 'He is in a hole,' or 'He is out of a hole.' The American slang would be confusing to an Easterner, just as the term 'Jonah' in the whale would be to a Westerner unfamiliar with Oriental speech.

"Jonah was a poor Jew whom God had called to go to Nineveh to rebuke an Assyrian king who had conquered Palestine and many other parts of the East. Jonah was to tell the king that Nineveh was to fall and the great empire crumble. This was not an easy task for a peasant like Jonah to do.

"The weight and seriousness of this mission thus placed Jonah in a hole. For three days he could not decide how to go to Nineveh and how to approach the king. A little mistake would have cost him his head. He finally found out a way to do this

"But he was not quite sure that God would destroy such a great city and its people. The writer therefore portrayed a picture setting forth Jonah's difficulties in figurative speech. ... Jesus spoke of this incident not because Jonah was in the fish for three days, but because this was a common saying in his days about a man who is in difficulty."

C. N. VROOM DIED AT BORDER

ST. STEPHEN, July 5—One of the most widely known men on the border, Charles Napier Vroom, passed away suddenly here over the weekend, of a heart attack. Mr. Vroom was one of Charlotte county's oldest and most respected citizens. He was down town during the day Friday and Friday evening was in conversation with a young man from Fredericton who had called at his office. He appeared in his usual good health and happy mood.

Mr. Vroom was 82 years of age, having been born in St. Stephen in 1854, son of the late William and Frances Vroom, and had resided on the border all his life. For many years he was engaged in manufacturing and conducted a larrigan and suspender factory. He had the honor of being the first town clerk of St. Stephen, being appointed in 1872 when only 18 years of age. In 1891 he was mayor of the town, which position he filled with dignity. He was for many years stipendiary magistrate of St. Stephen and at the time of his death was police magistrate at Milltown, N. B. He was an upholder of the temperance cause and had always been a strong advocate of the movement. For some years he was associated in the work of the United States consulate at St. Stephen.

ROYAL YACHT AWAITS DOOM

COWES, Eng., July 6—Navy officials awaited the right kind of conditions tonight for the scuttling of the Britannia, the late King George's racing cutter. Away from prying eyes, the craft—one of the best known racing yachts in marine history—will be interred beneath the waters of the English Channel. Orders to this effect, it has been announced, have been given by King Edward and transmitted to officials here by Sir Philip Hunkloke, King George's sailing master.

In 1891 Mr. Vroom married Miss Elizabeth McAllister Brown, St. Stephen, who survives him, with two sons, Paul, Ottawa, and Karl, Saint John.

For 25 years Mr. Vroom was a supporter and a regular attendant of St. Anne's Anglican church, Calais, being a licensed lay reader and a member of the choir. At the time of his death he was county auditor and was an authority on many things of importance in connection with the business of the community. He was well read and well versed on historical matters having made a study of the history of his province, especially of the St. Croix river district. He was a descendant of the Nova Scotia Loyalists of Dutch descent, from New York State. His brother, James, who was also at one time town clerk, passed away a few years ago, but he leaves another brother and sister, Venerable Archdeacon Fenwick William Vroom, Halifax, and Miss Beatrice Vroom, at present in St. Stephen.

Ends Fast Passage

(Special to Daily Mail)

MONTREAL, July 4—Ending a fast passage at eight o'clock this evening the Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of Richmond docked from Liverpool, Belfast and Glasgow, with nearly 400 passengers.

nounced, have been given by King Edward and transmitted to officials here by Sir Philip Hunkloke, King George's sailing master.

By terms of King George's will the gallant yacht, which has more than 200 victories to her credit, was left to King Edward with the proviso that if he did not want her she was to be offered to the other sons. In the event no one wanted the yacht, she will expressly stipulated, she was to be broken up or otherwise destroyed, but not sold.

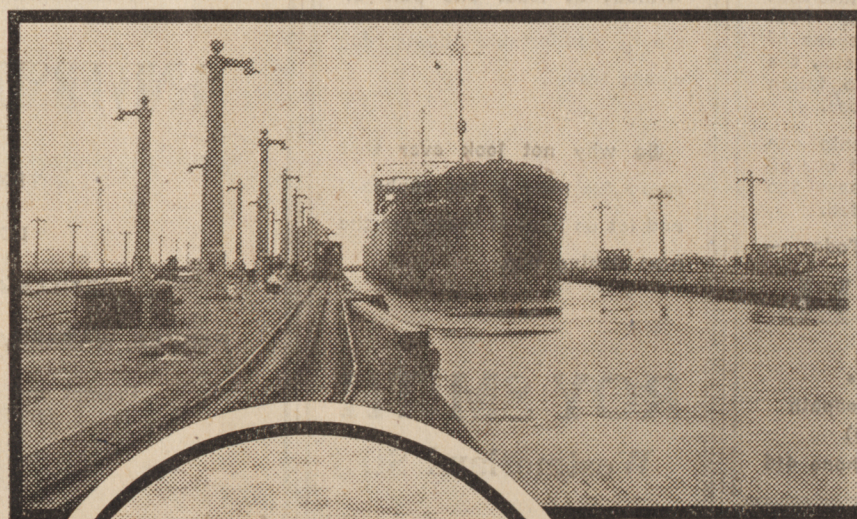

Way a few years ago, but he leaves another brother and sister, Venerable Archdeacon Fenwick William Vroom, Halifax, and Miss Beatrice Vroom, at present in St. Stephen.

The funeral took place today from St. Anne's church, Calais, at 2.30 p.m. when the rector, Rev. Percy Cotton, officiated. Interment was made at St. Stephen Rural cemetery. The pallbearers were his two sons, Paul and Karl, and George Irvine, William Murdoch, Dr. A. J. Manson and Paul McCartney.
