KINGSCLEAR RESERVE GETS SILVER MEDAL

Medal Originally Given by British Sovereign to That Reserve

Elections Today

William Polches Again Elected Chief; Art. Polches Assistant

Whether it is because the Kingsclear Indian reservation is the most peaceful and loyal of any reserve in the province or whether some chief of that reserve in pioneer days performed some deed of brave loyalty to the crown has not yet been made clear, but that reserve is in possession of two large silver medals, originally presented by King George Third, and Queen Victoria. The medals were presented in the early nineteenth century by the British Sovereigns, to the Kingsclear Reserve which at that time was about eleven hundred strong.

At the annual elections for chief and assistant chief at the Kingsclear Reserve this morning Lee McCutcheon, of this city, the Indian Agent, presented the medals to Chief William Polches and Assistant Chief Arthur Polches, both of whom were re-elected to office. Both have held office for three years.

A silent tribute to the governing of Chief Polches and his assistant is evidenced in the fact that not once in a long period of time has the R. C.M.P. been called upon to raid the reserve or make any arrests. Chief Polches first was elected to the office he now holds in 1914 and has held the post from time to time. His brother, Arthur, also has governed well as assistant chief.

The silver medal of King George Third was presented to Chief Polches this morning, and the silver medal of Queen Victoria was presented to Assistant Chief Arthur Polches. The presentation was made by Indian Agent McCutcheon. Originally the medals were presented to the Kingsclear reserve by the Governor General of Canada at that time.

The ceremony this morning was a most impressive one and the seventy residents of the Reserve turned out en force to witness the presentation of the medals and to vote for their favorite.

Late this afternoon Lee McCutcheon informed The Daily Mail of the history (Continued on Page Five)

Those who wish a clear picture of the life of a literary hack writer in the London of Addison and Pope will do well to read this book.
