TOURISTS BRING IN VERY LITTLE,
DUNNING SAYS

Sees No Great Loss in
U. S. Visitors' Privilege

OTTAWA, May 29.—$100 worth of goods brought into Canada free of duty under the new tourists' exemption provision the Government will lose $8 in revenue on account of the sales tax alone, Conservative Leader R. B. Bennett told the House of Commons last night.

After passing numerous other tariff changes with little discussion, the House stuck on the $100 exemption, and it stands over until today.

Although pessimistic about the effect of the change on revenues, Mr. Bennett thought possibly the present was a good time to introduce it, and agreed it would be a great convenience for travellers. Costs of the production in the United States had been rising, and consequently there might not be a great advantage in Canadians bringing in large quantities of goods.

Hon. Charles Dunning, Minister of Finance, said the Government had this factor in mind when it agreed to make the concession in negotiating the United States trade treaty. It had decided in the main the arrangement would be satisfactory. Up to now the smallness of the amount of goods brought in was surprising.

AN INTERESTING QUESTION

When Nova Scotia entered Confederation, the people of the Atlantic province were individually the wealthiest in Canada. They have been reduced, according to official statistics, to the position of being the least wealthy per head. The Dominion structure has served to provide bigger opportunities for the acquisitiveness of a few centralized interests, but it is just possible that the majority of people in some Canadian provinces would enjoy a better standard of living by more independent government, as in New Zealand.—Ottawa Citizen.

An indistinct male voice over the 'phone told the Echo office girl that he "wanted to insert a notice of the birth of twins." Politely she asked, "Will you repeat that, sir?" and was flabbergasted when the answer came: "Not if I can help it."—Amherstburg Echo.

CANADIANA

PSALM 1936

The Social Credit Leader is my Shepherd
I shall not want;
He maketh me to lie down on park benches;
He leadeth me beside the still factories;
He disturbeth my soul;
He leadeth me in the path of distraction for the Party's sake.
Yea! though I walk through the valley of the shadow of depression,
I anticipate no recovery for he is with me.
He prepareth a reduction of my salary in the presence of mine enemies.
He annointeth my small income with taxes.
My expenses runneth over.
Surely unemployment and poverty shall follow me all the days of my life
And I shall dwell in the mortgaged house for ever and ever.
—ANON.

ROBIN IN THE RAIN
Robin in the blossoms, rain across the sky.
Like a wand'ring minstrel wind is passing by,
Bearing in his whisper wisps of tattered gold,
All the wealth of music feathered breast can hold.
Song of budding Springtime—song of silver rain,
Song of wondrous rapture, close akin to pain
Sweeter, higher, fuller rains the golden sound—
Robin in the blossoms Paradise has found.

Robin, robin, trilling, singing in the rain,
Wild notes flying heavenward to return again;
Mount the steep of heaven to the throne of God,
Calling down a blessing on the waiting sod.

"Wisely, and slow, they stumble that run fast"

The public demanded shirts for one dollar. Being public servants we felt it our duty to meet this demand. First we had to secure shirts of quality equal to our standard of value, or keep out of the low price field.

Realizing the truth of the words of Chesterfield, "A man of sense may be in haste, but never in a hurry, because he knows that whatever he does in a hurry he must do very ill"—we therefore took our time and carefully "combed" the shirt manufacturers' lines for values before we decided to "stock" shirts at this price. We feel confident that you will agree with us that our dollar shirts are real value—worth one dollar of any man's hard earned money.

When better shirts are made to sell for one dollar, they'll be sold at
