The King

people gather. At first the matter was talked about with a hush, a whisper and a wink but now people have come to the conclusion that their King intends to marry Mrs. Simpson and they do not see any reason why a king cannot marry the woman he loves, as well as any other man. It is also pointed out that it is probably a safer proposition today for the King to marry a lady belonging to a friendly nation than to get linked up with some of those tottering Crown heads or of some nation which is liable to explode at any time and go to war with the British Empire. In fact it has been stated that King Edward expresses the opinion that it would be a mistake to marry into any of the Royal houses of the continent and so involve himself in international complications which might naturally arise. The King is also said to take the ground that in this day and generation it is absurd to try and maintain the old tradition of royal inter-marriages with all the physical as well as political disabilities that result from such an outgrown custom. The King's brother the Duke of York has been extremely happy and fortunate in his marriage with a lady of the people. Why not the King? There is no law against the King marrying a commoner. He may marry any woman even a divorcee so long as she is not a Catholic. The King believes that the marriage would make him happy and that it would help him do what he wants, namely reign in the interests of the people.

A foreign news story in the magazine Time, discussing the situation covers these grounds and adds that the King believes that the most important thing for the peace and welfare of the world is an intimate understanding and relationship between England and America and that his marriage with this gifted lady may bring about that co-operation between the English-speaking nations.

The Simpson divorce is granted by a decree "nisi" which means that it will not go into effect for six months. The King will be married to Mrs. Simpson in eight months. There has been effort in high official circles to prevent the marriage but the prevention methods are not successful. There has also been a foolish move by the officials to keep the news out of the British papers, all of which is silly.

In the meantime royal pots and pans come from Buckingham Palace have been turned over to Mrs. Simpson, together with a Royal house-keeper Mrs. Mason, the King's chauffeur George Laddbrook with a discreet Canadian Buick sedan, and the King's bodyguard Inspector David Storer.

According to the foreign news comment quoted although Mrs. Simpson could not be with the King owing to her divorce proceedings being under way, she was nevertheless every moment under the eyes of the King's men and women.

King Edward gave a stag party at Sandringham, the house in which King George died. Guests numbered the King's brother-in-law the Earl of Harewood and Sir Samuel Hoare. Before the party got well under way the King skipped away to a small rambling bungalow in the village of Rushmore. There Mrs. Simpson was in residence with her royal relatives.

It was near here that Mr. Simpson is said to have committed the technical adultery required for divorce in England, with a young woman nicknamed "Buttercup," at a fashionable resort in Maidenhead.

A London florist states that the King sends Mrs. Simpson five pounds ($25) worth of long-stemmed red roses every day.

Bliss Carman I.O.D.E. Meeting

The November meeting of the Bliss Carman Memorial Chapter, I.O.D.E. was held at the home of Miss Margaret Scott with the Regent, Mrs. J. G. Badcock in the chair. The meeting opened with the prayer of the Order and the salutation of the Flag. Miss Mary Chapman was elected convener of the Endowment Fund committee and a sum was voted to the Christmas Stocking Fund. Contribution was also made to the Children's Aid Society. Membership to the League of Nations Society was discussed, and plans made for obtaining the literature of this society. Plans were also made for Remembrance Day. The Bliss Carman Memorial Chapter has the honour this year of placing the I.O.D.E. wreath at the Cenotaph and the Regent was chosen to do this. Special attention was drawn to the minutes of the semi-annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter. It was decided to hold a Cellophane Dinner early in December and to continue preparations for the play "Candlelight" which was postponed from last year. An interesting programme on work in India was presented under the direction of Miss Margaret Scott. Mrs. J. M. McLeod of Fort Beauséjour was welcomed as a future member of the Chapter. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem. A social hour was then spent and refreshments served by the hostesses, Miss Margaret Scott, Miss Margaret Clark and Miss Rhoda Young.

Mrs. Eleanor King is leaving this evening on the excursion for Boston, where she will visit relatives.

Miss Beatrice MacFarlane entertained the Bridge Club of which she is a member at her home last night.

City Council

Hon. J. E. Michaud, K.C., M.P., Ottawa, Ont.

Re telegram with reference to Railway Bridge. Absolutely no controversy. Our citizens 100 per cent. behind City Council requesting Hon. C. D. Howe to carry out promise to delegation last May, that consideration of bridge would commence this year. Expect you, as Minister from this Province, to stand irrevocably behind interest of city and Province. Please wire instantly your decision and position of Transport Department.

(Sgd.) R. T. FORBES,
Chairman, City of Fredericton Committee.

Gets Another Wire

This afternoon Ald. Forbes received another telegram from Hon. J. E. Michaud, in which the Hon. Michaud stated that he reiterated his telegram of yesterday quoted above and that he was interested in the bridge matter "purely from a national standpoint."

It would seem that as far as the committee from the city council goes that that organization has done everything on behalf of the city that it is possible for them to do, and that the matter now rests fairly and squarely with Messrs. Clark and Ryan, M.P.'s for this section of the valley. So there is no doubt that these two gentlemen will recognize the importance of the bridge and will use their utmost influence with the Ottawa authorities to have it constructed as early as possible.

Winter Fair

Dysart was some years ago appointed to the Supreme Court Bench at Manitoba, and the other two brothers have carried on the law practice since that time. Harrison Dysart also served as officer in the Great War. Unlike the Premier, Harrison Dysart is a strong Conservative and one of the leading Conservative workers in the city of Winnipeg. His many old friends are delighted to see him.

Howes, who was in black velvet and by Mrs. H. G. Chestnut who wore a gown of white lace. A profusion of autumn flowers were used for floral decorations bronze and white mums being in the living room. The dining room table had a lace cloth, and was centred with a low bowl of cream roses. Ivory tapers in silver holders were at each end of the table which was presided over by Mrs. A. L. Donovan, of St. John, cousin of the bride. Miss Sterling cut the ices, and Miss Mabel Sterling invited the guests to the dining room. Each Nation added, seemed to be a brighter prospect now.

All phases of national life are being watched by the Canadian government, the prime minister said. One of these was defence, which was fully discussed before his departure for Geneva, Mr. King added.

The prime minister said he was convinced the League of Nations was doing great work and would try to draw all nations into its membership.

New Zealand

Marketing in New Zealand's first Labor Government.

Heading a trade delegation to the United Kingdom, Mr. Nash arrived in Ottawa today and conferred with Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transportation. He was tendered a luncheon by Acting Prime Minister Ernest Lapointe and members of the Cabinet.

At the present time, Mr. Nash said, Canada exports far more to New Zealand than his country did to the Dominion. The present delegation was primarily interested in making favorable trade agreements with the United Kingdom, but after that with Canada or Australia and then South Africa.

Butter, lamb, hides, woollens and most natural products were things Canada could take from New Zealand.

The aim of the Labor Government, Mr. Nash said, was to provide the highest standard of living for all the people and to organize human and material resources to achieve this end. The Government had absolute control of currency and credit, he said. "But if the wisest man on earth told us to employ it in a certain way we wouldn't do so unless we could be shown that it would be of direct benefit to the country." There was no strict formula which could be applied to all the economic divergencies of the world or one country.

The Government had balanced the Budget, provided a guaranteed price to dairy farmers, raised wages and salaries through an arbitration court, introduced the 40-hour labor week, increased old-age pensions, started a housing plan and enacted social legislation in many other lines.
