MISTAKE OF SALMON ENRICHES B. C. MEN

VANCOUVER, Aug. 13—The salmon that got lost trying to complete their life-cycle were far up the Fraser River today—what were left of them, the rest having gone to make small fortunes for sockeye fishermen.

Unprecedented in the life of the orderly salmon, who always know where to find their birthplace, and when to go there to spawn and die, these fish couldn't make up their minds between the Skeena and Fraser, rivers which ran out to the Pacific about 450 miles from each other.

Instead of short-cutting through the Strait of Juan de Fuca south of Vancouver Island, as usual, they went hundreds of miles out of their way to come around the north of the Island and down the inside passage, a trip nothing less than 1,000 miles above their usual knottage.

The result was that Puget Sound fishermen in the State of Washington didn't get them and the fishermen at the mouth of the Fraser south of here were swamped. One man in 13 fishing days made $3,200 at 55 cents a fish. Another made $1,900 in eight days.

Many theories are offered. One suggests that in 1912 some salmon eggs were taken from the Skeena and placed in the headwaters of the Fraser. This year's fish are the great great, great grandchildren of these eggs, following out the four-year salmon-cycle, and the Skeena may have put into these eggs something which made the present generation nostalgic.

Or, as good a theory as any, say fishermen, they did it to welcome the Federal Minister of Fisheries, Hon. J. E. Michaud, who made a tour of that part of the coast about the time the salmon came down.

In any event, the salmon that didn't go to set ajangling the pockets of the South British Columbia mainland fishermen, are nearly all back up the

... OF ... Interest to WomenWARM DRINKS GREATLY PREFERRED IN SUMMER

I've questioned men and women as to the drinks they prefer during the summer. The answers varied, as you might imagine, and all preferred iced drinks.

Then I asked them what drinks, warm or cold (not the specific type), they found had more lasting benefits and seemed more lastingly thirst quenching and refreshing and all answered unanimously in favor of the warm drinks, not hot, but lukewarm. The sudden cooling effect of the cold drink did not seem to last more than a fleeting second, they said.

You are doubtless consuming more water and liquids during the summer. You should. But avoid the iced water, iced tea or coffee drinks. Chilled water is not so bad as water with ice in it. I hope you are drinking fruit juices and plenty of them, particularly the citrus fruits. They are very good for you.

And now about bathing. The same questions asked: Which do you find more lastingly refreshing during the hot weather? The votes went to warm baths.

Moveable Shelves Handy For Books

They're a pair of book worms if ever there were any. And since he's a school teacher they move every once in a while. You can imagine what a job that is! However, since their bookcases are built in sections that screw together, they can fit them into various spaces without too much difficulty. Their sections are stationary though each section is small enough to go through a door or down a stairway with fair ease. They have a friend—also a teacher—who has his built so that the whole thing comes apart and stacks up like a pile of lumber—then screws back together again with the least ado . . . shelves are adjustable to different heights, too.

But theirs suit them well enough. And they are very proud of their library. It makes the most commonplace room come alive . . . books have a way of doing that. Their furniture isn't particularly fine, although it is comfortable enough (rather informal English design) and their rug is a substantial Wilton in shades of beige.

Besides the books, they rely on slip covers and draperies to give distinction to their room—the draperies are flowered on a blue-green ground—a pattern incidentally that goes with almost any background. The sofa is covered in a wine red rep, and the easy chairs are in blue-green rep with wine red welting.

Their lamps and accessories are rather distinguished . . . the lamp base colorful Italian pottery and they've selected other bits of Italian pottery, too, including a tea set with bright fruit decoration.

Fraser, where they were spawned four years ago. They have had their fling at life in the Pacific Ocean, and are homeward bound to spawn, where after they die and leave their skeletons in the old family pools.

My favorite combination is the bath and beauty treatment. It is equally revivifying during the winter and summer. During the warm weather it is very soothing and restful and it makes one feel very refreshed and alive.

Draw the water warm, a tepid temperature. Before stepping into the tub cleanse face and neck, with cleansing cream, then pat with skin tonic. Then a thin layer of skintone, and get into the tub. Sit back for some ten minutes, then scrub thoroughly with soap suds and wash cloth or bath brush. Then rinse thoroughly. Let fresh water trickle in—cool, but not cold. Out of the tub, blot dry and pat with your favorite eau de cologne. Then the cream is removed from the face and ice tonic sprayed on, over a thin tissue or piece of gauze.

If this combination treatment and bath comes before a dinner, dress very leisurely. No use working up heat and discomfort all over again. Then careful makeup.

The soothing, refreshing effect lasts for hours and hours. Try it.

BLACKBERRY BATTER PUDDING

Cream together 6 tablespoons shortening and ¼ cup sugar; add one well-beaten egg, 2 cups flour, 7-8 cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, and 5 tablespoons baking powder. A portion of the flour may be added, some of the milk, the remaining dry ingredients, and finally the remaining milk, stirring with each addition. Pour this batter over 3 cups fresh berries which have been lightly mixed with 1½ cups sugar previously sifted and blended with 3 tablespoons flour. Bake uncovered at 350 degrees F. about 30 minutes. Left-over pudding may be covered and stored in the refrigerator for a later meal.

GIBRALTAR A GRANDSTAND

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 13—"Gibraltar, at the base of the great rock at the entrance of the Mediterranean, is the British grandstand and one of the leading press boxes for the Spanish revolution," says Gilbert H. Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society.

"If a traveler confines his observations to British soldiers, who are everywhere, British 'Bobbies' who appear as if they had just emerged from a London police station, British flags that top the masts of municipal and government buildings, and British warships and commercial vessels that outnumber all others at anchor in the spacious harbor, Gibraltar is decidedly British.

"But a glance at the street crowds and the city's buildings reveals a strange mixture. Most Gibraltar buildings are Spanish in design. Its narrow streets are crowded with bustling throngs from many parts of the world.

"Scotchmen in kilts brush past tanned Moors from the other side of the Strait of Gibraltar; Spaniards from Madrid, Malaga and Cadiz mingle with sturdy Greeks; ruddy-skinned

ENGLAND IS NOT BEHIND ANYONE IN PLANE DESIGNING

(Special to The Daily Mail)

BANFF, Alta., Aug. 13—Lord Clanfield, son of Earl Peel, former Secretary of State for India, Col. Stewart Blacker, member of the first party to fly over Mount Everest in 1933, and Lady Doris Blacker, left Banff Springs Hotel this morning for a six-day camping trip into Mount Asgardia forty miles from here accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Clement Jones and Maurice Clement Jones, also of England. Before their departure, Col. Blacker recalled highlights of the flight over Mount Everest loftiest peak in the world, speaking particularly of the earthquake that followed their flight. Natives at first were inclined to blame them for the disturbance until they pointed out that the direct line of their flight was the only part of the district undamaged. Following this, they received a kind letter of exoneration from the governor of Nepal, in which the opinion was expressed that such flights appeased the demons and pleased the Gods of the Mountain. Col. Blacker is officer commanding of the 58th Field Artillery of Sussex, England, and claims for his forces the victory over the Spanish Armada in the time of Queen Elizabeth. "It was just a skirmish off the coast of Devonshire," he said. The main fight came later in which our iron cannon proved so much superior to the brass and bronze cannons of the Armada. Then we just smashed them up and they drifted helplessly up the channel." His men are the same in temperment and appearance and the entire district looks the same as it did in 1542 when his force was organized. He said, England is leading in the world's airplane making race, according to Col. Blacker, but has to get up early every morning to keep ahead. A few years ago he said, England was far behind in airplane designing but now does not have to take a back seat to anyone.

gle with sturdy Greeks; ruddy-skinned Huns and Egyptians jostle Levantine Jews in gabardines; and the swarthy Senegal Negroes rub elbows with Chinese from Canton.

"Weaving in and out of the human mass are hundreds of foreign seamen from boats that come to Gibraltar for fuel, trade and repairs. The mixture of races has become even more noticeable in recent years since Gibraltar has increased in popularity as a pleasure resort for European and American vacationists.

"Gibraltar shops also present an international aspect. On their shelves the traveler finds carved ivory ornaments from Ceylon and the African East Coast, trinkets from the cramped factories that line the narrow streets of Poochow, China, objects of carved teak from Burma and bolts of cloth from Manchester and New York Baghdad, Samarkand, Baltimore and Tombouctou (Timbuktu) also are represented in the display of merchandise.

"The town begins at the shore of the broad bay and rises 250 feet up the north side of the Rock. Long flights of steps lead to the upper portion of the town, making wheeled traffic impossible on many streets. Fishermen have built, however, small villages in the few recesses which are reached by narrow paths.

"Between Spain and the British territory is a narrow strip of land called the neutral zone where travelers get the best land view of the Rock."
