will enable them to adjust themselves to the changing panorama and complexity of modern life.

The fourth objective is to help find keener enjoyment in art, music, literature, philosophy and nature. It is not so much to fit man for competition in the world's markets as to equip him with knowledge and experience to adjust himself progressively with the changing demands of youth and middle and old age and give him a well rounded philosophy of life. Another objective is to coordinate adult education activities in Canada, to publish a journal of adult education and to maintain a working library and to co-operate with existing adult education agencies.

Mr. Corbett laid stress on the necessity of entertainment as an accompaniment to education. To be entertained is to be educated. It is the purpose of real education to entertain the student as well as educate him. The use of visual education has been notably successful in this way. Furthermore the visual process stamps a greater impression on the mind. Educational films of all kinds are included in the process of adult education.

Municipalities

council of the Union of Municipalities Attorney-General McNair, in speaking of the dog situation in rural districts, pointed out that a remedy was needed, but that he thought the resolution introduced was not feasible. He felt that a compulsory dog tax law was needed not only for police dogs but for all dogs. The question was a vital one.

The motion was made by Secretary-Treasurer John S. Scott that the union seek legislation for the destruction of all police dogs in the province. After some discussion at the meeting, however, the motion was withdrawn on the understanding that the union take the matter under consideration again and advise the government.

One of the major resolutions was the following:

"Whereas the main industry of the province of New Brunswick is agriculture and—Whereas our governments have been spending not over 1 percent of the current revenues of the province to encourage and develop this industry, and—Whereas on the one hand we have many of our population today either receiving public assistance or barely able to avoid being long to this class and on the other hand our produce dealers are importing large quantities of the product of the farm—Therefore be it resolved that this Union of New Brunswick Municipalities urge upon the minister of agriculture and the government of New Brunswick the necessity of immediately embarking on an extensive and intensive programme of agriculture development either by a system of bonusing or government-directed colonies of agriculture workers." It was carried.

Others who attended the convention from this county were Councillors Waugh, McKnight and Wetmore.

Bridal Pageant at St. Paul's Church

With palms and autumn flowers as floral decorations, St. Paul's Church was last evening the scene of a unique and impressive function when about forty lovely bridal gowns were shown to a large and interested audience. Many of the brides whose wedding gowns were once again brought to church had been married more than a hundred years ago, the period covered by the display last evening covering from 1825 to 1936. The function which was unique and impressive was the first one of its kind ever put on in the city and was explained by Rev. George Telford, who stressed the importance of recalling the former momentousness and dignity of marriage. The gowns showed the styles and changes as the years went on. The brides of 1825 appeared wearing large hoops and bustles, the styles being elaborate, many of the bodices made in basque fashion. Mantillas were worn by many of the brides of over a hundred years ago. The most beautiful mantilla shown last evening had belonged to Mrs. Stephen Glazier, grandmother of Mrs. J. Brown Maxwell and J. Fred Payne of Lincoln. Gradually skirts became less ample and hoop and bustles became smaller and also appeared the bonnets. Later on veils were shown and the lines of the skirts were tighter and veils increased in length. Around 1895 crinoline in skirts replaces the hoops, which alter became sligher and shorter.

The brides whose wedding gowns were shown last night were Mrs. C. Webb Currie, bride of 1840, shown by her great-granddaughter, Mrs. Frank Corbin; Mrs. Alphonse Bertrand of St. Basile, bride of 1850; Mrs. Robert Langais, of Montreal, also a bride of 1850; Mrs. Leigh, wife of Captain Leigh, nee Fannie Beckwith; Mrs. L. W. Johnston, a bride of 1863, grandmother of Miss Margaret Hall of this city; Mrs. John Fairley, 1873, married in Bolestown by Rev. Mr. Sellars, whose gown was worn by her granddaughter, Miss Mary Irvine; Mrs. Robert Ledingham of Saint John, 1877; Mrs. F. W. Hatheway, mother of Mrs. George E. Howie, 1883. The styles of 1888 were recalled by the bridal gown of Mrs. E. N. Griffiths of North Devon, bride of 1888. Passing down the years was seen the gown of Mrs. John D. Cameron of 1886. Many gowns of local interest were also seen, including those of Mrs. L. S. Morrison, Mrs. G. W. Brown, the late Mrs. W. H. Irvine, several of these wearing their own gowns in the pageant whilst several others were in the audience and represented by their descendants. Mrs. E. R. Blackmer was the director of the pageant and much credit was due to her untiring efforts in promoting the function.

COLLECTIVE FARMING BY THE MIC-MACS

(Special to The Daily Mail)

TRURO, N.S., Oct. 1—The Indian Mic-Macs of Truro are going in for collective farming—in earnest.

The Indian reservation is a busy place these days. It is because the tribe has been launched upon a five-year-collective farming plan, through the co-operation of the Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa.

One hundred acres of land have been allotted to the tribe, to serve as a testing ground for the department in order to prove the plan workable or not.

The plan is to have each Indian clear and cultivate as much land as he wishes, the profits to go to the community.

Horses and agricultural equipment implements have been promised the Indians with the coming of spring, providing they show determination and industry enough to warrant it.

The idea was forwarded by the local Indian agent, B. B. Fox, and it is understood that a member of the St. F. X. University, Antigonish, extension department and staff will give a talk at the reserve on the co-operative movement.

Vimy Pilgrimage Night at Legion Proved Successful

The Canadian Legion featured a Vimy Pilgrimage Night at its club quarters on Queen Street last night and there was a large attendance of members and guests. W. A. Gibson president of the local branch, was in the chair. The most interesting item on the evening's programme was the display of photographs, and snaps by those who had been on the Vimy Pilgrimage from this section, who were the chief guests of the evening. Each of the "pilgrims" showed his collection of pictures, most of which were very interesting and educational. Significant monuments, the King, Buckingham Palace, cemeteries, and the graves of departed comrades were all depicted in the pictures. Some of the personal snaps showed great ingenuity on the part of the photographer. These Vimy Pilgrims who were present spoke briefly also on the sights they had seen while in Europe. Afterwards a social hour was spent and cards played. Those who were on the Pilgrimage and who were present last night were Major Dodge, Earl Young, John Harvey, Harry Harvey, Frank Corbin, Major General F. W. Hill, Martin Horncastle, Major E. C. Armstrong and Capt. G. Alvah Good.

Former N. B. Man Passed Away at Lynn, Mass.

Word was received here last night by Mrs. J. L. Neville of the death at Lynn, Mass., of her brother, F. P. Bourque. Mr. Bourque had been ill only a couple of days when he passed away. He was a native of Fox Creek, Westmorland County. He attended St. Joseph's University, Memramcook, and was later associated with his father the late P. D. Bourque in the lumber mill business. With his father he owned and operated the first fox farm in New Brunswick. He later went to United States where for many years he was successfully engaged in the life insurance business, and also carried on real estate business. Mr. Bourque frequently visited Fredericton as well as his old home in Moncton. In June last on the occasion of the ordination of his son, Rev. Frederick Bourque to the Priesthood, Mr. Bourque visited Canada and took part in the family reunion which was held at Three Rivers, Quebec. His death after such a short illness came as a shock to his many friends both here and in Moncton where he was well and favorably known.

The funeral will take place at Lynn Mass., on Saturday morning, the service to be conducted by his son, Rev. Frederick Bourque who is professor of English in the Roman Catholic Seminary at Three Rivers.

The late Mr. Bourque is survived by several brothers and sisters, one of whom is Mrs. J. L. Neville of this city, and another is Mrs. Harry A. Melanson, Bathurst, wife of Sheriff

IF WINTER COMES

The goldenrod is flung across the pastures,
And purple asters tell us autumn's near;
Soon lacy frosts will sparkle on the stubble,
And happy hearth-fires will have double cheer.
Oh! do not think this is the end of summer,
Though scarlet maples flaunt across the hills,
For after winter's snow will come the springtime
Whose warm hands will unlock the icy rills.

And do not think Life's winter lingers always,
Though bitter frosts may blast our fairest flowers;
After the sleet-storm comes the sudden sunshine,
After the dark night, look for happy hours.
Not always will our hopes be black and frozen;
Not always will our landscape teem with rain;
Pain, that has gripped our hearts, will melt and leave us;
Life will be sweet, and flowers bloom again.

—E. Anne Ryan.

Melanson of that place. He is also survived by a family of five sons and three daughters, all residing in the United States. Mrs. Ambrose Legere of Los Angeles, and A. P. Bourque, of Moncton, left Moncton today to attend the funeral.
