HUBBELL IS AMONG GREATS OF DIAMOND

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Some weeks ago, when the Giants seemed to be bent on demonstrating how far they could fall in a short space of time, you were discussing their sad fate with Horace Stoneham in the Giants' office on Forty-second street. It was a terrifically hot day and Horace, employing a trick he had learned in St. Louis, where they are wise in the ways of combating the heat, had closed the windows of his private office and drawn the shades, thus shutting out the hot air and the glare of the sun. It was comparatively cool in the room, but the drawn shades created a funeral atmosphere that seemed quite in keeping with the fortunes of the club at the moment.

In the course of the conversation, you asked Horace how he had felt on receiving from Pittsburgh the night before the news of an especially heartbreaking defeat for the Giants, in which Carl Hubbell had pitched well enough to win, but had been dragged down by his own teammates.

"I felt sorry for Hubbell," Horace said.

That was all. He had felt sorry for Hubbell. The loss of another ball game hadn't upset him. The Giants had lost so many that one more did not seem to matter. But the manner in which Hubbell had been beaten had depressed him. It seemed a shame that a great pitcher shouldn't have fared any better than that in a game he so richly deserved to have won.

Among the Great

If it has done nothing else, this season has elevated Hubbell to his rightful place among the greatest pitchers baseball ever has known. He has had some recognition before this, of course. His pitching in the 1933 pennant race and the world series that year, his astonishing performance in the all-star game in 1934, the fact that away back in 1929 he pitched a no-hit game—these had stamped him as a great pitcher. But not until this year did they start comparing him with the great pitchers on another era—and finding that he belonged right up there with Matty and Johnson and Walsh and Brown and Young and all the rest.

Oddly enough, this came about as a direct result of the midsummer blundering and fumbling of the Giants. Against the background of the Giants' good years and the years in which they were neither very good nor very bad, he had stood out, but never quite as convincingly as he stood out this year when his mates were tumbling all about him. The infield cracked, the outfield wobbled and the other pitchers couldn't pitch up an alley, but he kept pegging away. He won most of his games and when he lost it usually wasn't his fault.

Winning or losing, he always was the same, neither gloating in victory nor lamenting in defeat. He just walked out there and did the best he could and persons who hadn't thought too much about him before began to say:

"Why, if that guy was with the Yankees or the Cardinals he never would lose a game!"

He carried the Giants through their darkest days and now that they are rolling again he still is the fellow they look to when the checks are down and the jam is on.

Calumet Budlong Won Free-For-All: Best Time 2:05 1-2

WOODSTOCK FAIR RACES IN WEEK SEPT. 22 IS N. B. WINDUP

Bud Wenger Raced to 2:05 1/4 Record on Woodstock Oval July 31—Racing High Class.

(Woodstock, The Press)

Woodstock is not getting the newspaper publicity that it did a few years ago, as far as the racing game is concerned. This is shown by the sport writers of the various papers. They do not even know that Bud Wenger covered the Woodstock Island Track in 2:05 1-4 July 31st. Also July 9th he broke the track record formerly held by Jackson Grattan 6 1/4 going the first mile in 2:05 3-4.

All the racing in the Maritimes this year has been high class. The old days of fixed heats seems to have passed away. This year everyone is out for a piece of the money. Result—every heat a real horse race extremely pleasing to the spectators. Attendance at the several races have been much better which goes to show an improvement in general conditions.

E. B. Avery our local reinsman, has had a big string of horses all this season and has been very successful. His stables principally owned by T. V. Holdaway, Houlton and Ira Scott St. John. He also has Dolly Agoff, a pacing mare owned by Weldon Flemming of Juniper. The latest addition to his stable is Miss America, owned by T. V. Holdaway. This mare was first raced at the Presque Isle Fair and won her race, showing a world of speed.

This week all the paid Maritime horses meet at Fredericton and all their track records should be broken if track and weather are favorable. In addition to the Maritimers a Newfoundland man will race there a trotter bred and trained on the Newfoundland Island. She won in style at the Charlottetown Fair. Heatherbell, a P. E. I. trotter has been flying on the Island and breaking track records over there. The Junior Free-For-All has some very fast entries.

The Free-For-All are away ahead of the old community owned pacers. Even old Single G, if he was alive, would have to look after his laurels the way our local Free-For-Alls are stepping this summer. Calumet Budlong, owned by Mrs. Ballard, North Sydney, C.B., and Bud Wenger, owned by T. V. Holdaway, Houlton, have been fighting it out all season. Calumet won at Woodstock July 31, and at Truro. Bud won at Charlottetown and St. Stephen. Last week at Presque Isle, Calumet won. Which one will come out ahead at Fredericton? Races like these are what makes the sport interesting for the public.

These two horses have been outstanding so far. But there are others that must not be overlooked. Tombro Hanover has raced consistently all season and has been a close contender. Then there is Laurel Hanover with a mark of 1:59 1-4, raced by the expert Clukey. Also Dermot 2:04 1-2, Guy Britton, 2:03, the veteran Marjorie M and others.

Woodstock fair, starting the 22nd of September, will be the wind up of racing in this section for the season and a great field of horses will be here. It will be a wonderful chance for all the up-river people to see a good fair and grand horse racing. Those interested in the betting end of the sport will have ample opportunity to show their good judgment, as both Poole and Mutual are sold at Woodstock Island Park. Track has been better and faster than ever this year and wonderful racing is expected.

HITCHMAN IS ASSISTANT TO ROSS AGAIN

Will Be Co-Bosses of Bench For Boston Bruins

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—The expected change has become official and Arthur H. Ross, after an absence of two years from the job, will resume his post as bench manager of the Boston Bruins, with Fred Lionel Hitchman as his assistant. This was announced by C. F. Adams, president of the Bruins, who also made known the fact that waivers have been asked on several members of the defunct Cubs, that 23 players will be sent to practice right here in Boston, October 19, and that Joe Jerwa and Nels Stewart will be back with the Bruins.

Will Practice at Boston Arena
Ross two years ago gave up active management to become business manager of the club and to look after the executive end of both the Bruins and Cubs. Frank Patrick was appointed his successor. But it was decided that Ross return and when the Cubs were discontinued, Hitchman naturally came over as aide to Ross. This arrangement, incidentally, was planned regardless of what happened to the Cubs.

In the past few years the Bruins have trained in Quebec and Halifax. But the Bruins will report for practice at the Arena and the plans are to have a series with the Montreal Maroons in the Maritimes. If this series is booked, the Bruins will wind up their training in Montreal and will stay there for the opening game Nov. 7. The Boston home season will open November 10.

Those Cubs for whom waivers have been asked for Red Jackson, Bob McCulley, Leo Lespie, Frank Finnigan, Jerry Shannon, Jean Pusie, Bert McInenly, Phil Bester, Bobby Blake, Phil Hergesheimer and Jack Riley.

North Sydney Horse Takes First Two Heats in Thrill Event of Afternoon—Signal Senator First in 2:14 Trot—Harvest Melody Captures 2:24 Trot and Pace—Nova Scotia Horses Outstanding—Most Successful Meet.

A monster crowd of harness racing fans, many from U.S. points, and the maritimes generally, saw Calumet Budlong, owned by Mrs. Margaret Ballard of North Sydney, Cape Breton, capture the feature attraction at the Fredericton Exhibition races, the Free-For-All, at the final day's racing on the local track here yesterday afternoon. Dashing one heat off in 2:05 1-2, the Nova Scotia entry made the best time of the day. The fans were disappointed in not being able to witness the heralded contest between this horse, Bud Wenger and Laurel Hanover, but they did see Henry Clukey drive Lochinvar to a victory in the third heat in the time of 2:07 1-2.

Signal Senator, owned by H. M. Sweeney, of Bridgewater, N. S., won the 2:14 Trot and Pace without difficulty, although Dolly Azoff from Juniper, N. B., the property of W. M. Flemming, won the final heat with a spurge of speed which netted it a 2:08 1-2 mile. There were nine starters and there was some difficulty and delay in getting them off, but when Stater Webber finally got them organized the field was bunched the entire mile. The fans got a real thrill out of this race.

Uhlman Volo Set Back
In the 2:24 Trot, Miss Uhlman Volo of the Sullivan and Mawhinney stables at Machias, Maine, and Col. D. A. McKinnon's Harvest Melody, provided the spice. The time was slower in this event, but plenty of excitement and controversy was caused by the judges' action in placing Miss Uhlman Volo second for after she had nosed out the McKinnon horse, the judges decided that the long run on the farther turn after she broke gave her the advantage. The bay mare "broke" into a long run, before recovering her stride.

Driver Clukey drove the mare to a win in the second heat and the best time of the race, 2:11. Harvest Melody was given the first heat, placed third in the second heat, and out-trotted the field to annex the final and decisive heat of the race. Harvest Melody is the first Newfoundland horse ever entered in a Fredericton track meet.

Other starters in this race were Calumet Euclid, Fairweather, Allist, Peter Pin, Calumet Foretop and Oh Boy Fisher. These last two were drawn in the second heat.

First Money to Outsiders
Nova Scotia horses were in first money in two of the day's events, with Newfoundland's lone entry winning the third under the mastery tutelage of Col. MacKinnon, who drove the same horse, Harvest Melody, to a new track record at the Charlottetown Fair this year.

Sullivan and Mawhinney, of Machias, Maine, and two second money horses in Lochinvar, of the Free-For-All event, and Miss Uhlman Volo of the 2:24 Trot.

The other second money horses, Dolly Azoff is owned by W. M. Flemming of Juniper, N. B. Two heats in the 2:14 Trot and Pace were run in 2:08 1-2, while all heats in the Free-For-All were under 2:08.

DEPENDS ON FOUR SOPHS
NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Coach Lou Little, Columbia football mentor, is putting a lot of hope on four sophomores for the success of the team in the coming campaign. He has these boys working on the first team practice and they are showing great promise. Art Radvilas of Stoughton, Mass., is one of the four and he is playing right end for the Lions.

ST. CROIX AND FENCEBUSTERS TO MEET IN MARITIME FINALS

STAR TRACK MEET

SAINT JOHN, Sept. 19.—If the weatherman holds off his impending frown long enough this afternoon the bark of the starter's gun will open one of the biggest star-filled track and field meets ever held in Saint John.

The Maritime open track and field championships, featuring Dr. Phil Edwards, Canada's Olympic ace, and Clarence DeMar of Boston marathon fame, will get underway at 2:15 p.m., at K-Club (Recreational Centre). If the weatherman decides on rain, however, the meet will probably be held late Monday afternoon with the stars being held over.

GRID STAR ON DANGER LIST

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 18.—A band of young giants sat silently in a hospital reception room here today fearfully awaiting word from the bedside of a teammate—Tom McGannon of Evansville, Ind., star halfback who was seriously burned in a fatal explosion in the Purdue lockerroom last Saturday.

McGannon was given a blood transfusion early today, after his condition had taken a turn for the worse.

Kallenberg Won For the Border Team Over Saint John by 7-0 Score—Yarmouth Put Out.

SAINT JOHN, Sept. 19.—Sensational fielding, heavy hitting and the two-hit hurling of 18-year-old Ken Kallenberg shot the St. Croix Club of St. Stephen into the Maritime senior baseball finals for the sixth consecutive year last night. The border crew blasted out a 7-0 victory over the Saint John Maroons at Shamrock Park here in the fourth game of the New Brunswick finals to annex the provincial crown for the 6th straight time, three games to one.

The St. Croix were brilliant in their victory and left no doubt in the minds of the fans that they are worthy representatives of this province to battle Springhill Fence-Busters for the Maritime title.

With two out in the first of the third and after a questionable decision at second base the St. Croix went to work on the slants of Big Bill Damery and hammered in three runs. In the fourth they collected another and in the fifth they sent their total to seven with three more.

Where the first two games of the finals for the Maritime crown will be played will not be known until later today. After the first blast in the third inning last night the Maroons seemed to lose heart but they fought on.

'Fence-Busters' Win

KENTVILLE, N. S., Sept. 18.—Springhill's slugging Fence-Busters today defeated Yarmouth Gateways 6-4 in the fifth and final game of the provincial amateur finals and dethroned them as two-year rulers of Nova Scotia baseball.

Springhill will meet St. Croix, New Brunswick champions, for the Maritime title, won last year by Yarmouth.

A big sixth inning in which the 'Busters scored four runs and sent Gateways' ace southpaw, Cople LeBlanc, into temporary retirement, decided the game. Springhill scored one run in the second, Yarmouth passed them with two in the third and then the 'Busters cracked the Gateways' defence for four markers in the sixth and were never headed.

An added feature which will tend to add to the enjoyment of the patrons of Woodstock's 1936 Fair is the Public Announcing System this year installed on the grounds by Mr. Wm.
