NEED FOR STUDY BOOK FOR DIOCESE IS EMPHASIZED

Rev. Canon C. Gordon Lawrence of Saint John Delivered Able Address Last Evening—Women "W. A. Minded" Says Mrs. Wodehouse.

A study book for the diocese of Fredericton was stressed as a necessity by Rev. Canon C. Gordon Lawrence, of Saint John, speaking before the 33rd annual meeting of the Fredericton diocesan board of the Women's Auxiliary to the Missionary Society of the church of England in Canada. Canon Lawrence spoke at a public missionary meeting in Christ-church Cathedral at which Most Rev. J. A. Richardson, archbishop of Fredericton, presided. Canon Lawrence pointed out that the homes of people of Church of England faith in Canada were kept supplied with printed information by the missionary society and the W. A.

In this diocese, he said that in the majority of the homes there was more accurate information of missionary work in Japan, China, India and in northern Canada than there was of the needs of this diocese and its own missions. This was because a study book is not provided for the diocese.

He observed that such a study book could not be published without costing money. Besides money, he said, a great many persons would have to work. He emphasized that he was not suggesting that the diocesan board of the Women's Auxiliary do it alone.

"Let us get all the people in the diocese interested in it," he urged, contending that there ought to be just as much honor, credit, encouragement and support to serve in diocesan missions as in foreign missions.

Canon Lawrence traced the history of diocesan missions from their beginning in 1783 with the coming of the United Empire Loyalists.

Mrs. R. W. Wodehouse, Montreal president of the dominion board, who has been present at the diocesan board meeting which opened yesterday morning and will conclude tomorrow afternoon, also spoke last night. Mrs. G. C. P. McIntyre, Sussex, president of the diocesan board, presided at the business sessions.

Mrs. Wodehouse remarked that it seemed that the women in this diocese were particularly "W. A. minded". She traced the history, growth, work and responsibilities of the W. A. and presented a complete survey of its activities in Japan, China, India, and Canada.

She asked that Church of England women give the Women's Auxiliary their interest, sympathy and prayer in the "most wonderful work" it was doing. She was not asking them, she said, to give up their connection with other organizations, but she pointed out there was a place for every one in the ranks of the W. A.

Archbishop Richardson, in his opening remarks, declared he was greatly pleased in the success of the W. A. and found it provided a great stimulus. He was thankful of the work it was doing in this diocese—he never knew of a time at which the W. A. had so firm a grip on the Church of England in the diocese.

WHAT, NO SPINACH?

The younger generation should be well disposed toward Dr. Clifford Sweet, who told the Kansas City convention of the American Medical society that parents should not force their children to eat spinach or carrots.

There are food substitutes for those two particular vegetables, either or both of which seem to stir a spirit of rebellion in the hearts of countless children. Mothers have grown gray trying to persuade Junior to accept the prescribed ration of spinach and carrots. They should be immensely relieved by Dr. Sweet's advice.

Says the California physician: "The carrot is only a root vegetable while spinach is only one of many leafy vegetables". Lettuce is as good for one as that darker green growth, which so often suggests a combination of three parts hay and one part sand. Parents who pride themselves on being "modern" will listen to what Dr. Sweet has to say about little Oswald's menu.

REPORT OF TRIBUNAL OF ENQUIRY RE BUDGET LEAKAGE

Concerning the purchase of a house for Hon. J. H. Thomas, former Colonial Secretary at Ferring-on-Sea, the report of the Tribunal of Enquiry said:

"Mr. Bates appeared to have advanced more than £15,300 with law costs, £15,100 without them, and was given a receipt for £15,100 by Mr. Thomas to be treated as an advance payment for the sum promised for the autobiography. This had not been begun, nor as far as we could ascertain had any preparation been made toward writing it except a collection of press cuttings.

"The payment of £20,000 ($100,000) may seem a large sum and the advance of £15,100 with failure to take any security may seem untidy business, but Mr. Thomas and Mr. Bates are old friends and Mr. Bates a rich man. Moreover, we see no connection between the payment and the suggested budget leakage, save that it accentuates the close connection and friendship between the two men and put Mr. Thomas under obligation to Mr. Bates."

Referring to Sir Alfred Butt, the report remarked that in one instance in 1935 regarding the date of the general election Mr. Thomas received a profit of £652. This transaction was carried out in Sir Alfred's name who "appears to have paid the premium and afterwards deducted it from the money when he paid the profit to Mr. Thomas."

Call On Thomas

The tribunal called attention to Sir Alfred's call on Thomas the morning of budget day, followed by an invitation to his (Butt's) son and a broker for lunch, then for the first time mention of the budget to the broker and instruction for the sale of more securities; immediately afterwards the giving of instructions for insurance against increases in the two matters which the budget mainly affected, such insurance being effected through a nominee, which practice had not been previously adopted by Sir Alfred Butt."

"We have heard the evidence, do not believe the explanation that successful insurance of the two risks was fortuitous," the tribunal's judgment declared. "On the contrary, we find there was an unauthorized disclosure by Mr. Thomas to Sir Alfred."
