King street. While in this city, Mr. Rogers was elected to the city council and was an alderman for some years previous to going west.

After going west, Mr. Rogers engaged for a time in ranching and still owns a very fine ranch south of Calgary in the province of Alberta. Speaking of conditions in the west, Mr. Rogers states that business has been very favorable in recent months in Vancouver. The Golden Jubilee recently celebrated attracted many visitors and visitors are still pouring in to the Pacific Coast city. Speaking of conditions in Alberta, Mr. Rogers states they are fairly good in the northern area which will produce good crops this year. In southern Alberta, especially in the drought area, the people have been hard hit but their well known western optimism makes them look forward to improved conditions in another year. Mr. Rogers speaks in the highest terms of the western country where he still resides but he still has a warm place in his heart for old New Brunswick.

Mr. Rogers has in his possession several pieces of Alberta credit slips, which needless to say, outside of their value as souvenirs are not quoted at a very high rate on our local market.

franc stabilization fund, the franc is expected to find a level somewhere between the two gold content points proposed.

4. The government will propose to Parliament the requisition of all gold at its present value.

5. Debtors, owing sums which are scheduled to be paid in gold or foreign currencies, will have the immediate right to hold up payments until further notice.

6. The Bourse (stock market) will be closed for several days; the franc market will be strictly controlled.

7. The government will move to spend millions of francs to aid towns, departments, mortgage holders, co-operatives, business interests and individuals that may be injured by the franc's realignment or the resultant increase in prices.

The new monetary bills, under emergency procedure, will be pushed through Parliament in perhaps one day. Already, the new council of administration of the Bank of France was in session discussing application of the government decision.

A decree, published in the Official Journal, gave debtors owing sums which are to be paid in gold the right to hold up payments.

Finance Minister Vincent Auriol decreed trade and securities markets closed indefinitely.

The British treasury said Britain and the United States welcomed the French decision to "readjust" its currency.

(In Washington, the treasury announced the United States and Great Britain, with France, would "use appropriate available resources" to avoid any disturbance in international exchange resulting from realignment of the franc.)

The foreign exchange markets in New York, London and Paris will be closed today, it was learned here early this morning.

of England," (the Sunday Express reported cables). The girl blushed, stammered, and attempted to offer an apology.

Now the King is back in Great Britain, and the real purpose of the visit to south-eastern Europe is only formally denied by Foreign Office officials. Did not His Majesty include in his party Mr. Duff Cooper Minister of War? The significance of the cruise is obvious—now.

Edward, Prince of Wales, was recognized as the Empire's supersalesman. King Edward VIII is being hailed by everyone here as the Empire's super-diplomat. Oldsters war their heads, and recall similar incidents in the European travels of his grandfather and namesake. It is known that Edward VII laid the foundations for the Anglo-French entente.

It is a pretentious list of south-eastern European notable upon whom the King has descended, within the past month. Here are some of the names: King George and Dictator Metaxas of Greece; Kemal Ataturk dictator of Turkey; King Boris of Bulgaria; Prince Paul, chief regent of Yugoslavia; President Miklas and Chancellor Schuschnigg, of Austria; and the Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs.

It is unquestioned that British prestige in many European countries suffered a severe blow with the admitted

The Young People's Society of St. Paul's United Church held their first meeting of the year last evening, in Fraser Memorial Hall. A programme was presented after which a recreational period was enjoyed followed by delicious refreshments.

Friends will be glad to hear that Miss Nan Gregg, B.L.S., daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Gregg has accepted a position as Secretary in Medical Research for Dr. Cone and Dr. Penfield, at the Neurological Institute, Montreal. Miss Gregg is a graduate of the Fredericton High School and Mount Allison University. Last year she completed a course at McGill University, Montreal.

Last evening the regular weekly Young People's meeting of the Wilmot United church was held in the vestry at eight o'clock, with a good attendance. Bruce Bird acted as chairman and Herbert Dayton read the minutes of the last meeting in the absence of the secretary. After the singing of a hymn Rev. J. W. Bartlett offered prayer. After the singing of another hymn a recreational period was enjoyed, under the direction of Herbert Dayton.

To Celebrate Birthday of Danish King
The Consul-General of Denmark, G. B. Hoffer, has issued invitations to the Danes and Icelanders in Montreal, to a reception at the Consulate General of Denmark, 1440 St. Catherine Street West, for this afternoon, from half-past four to half-past six o'clock, on the occasion of His Majesty the King of Denmark's birthday.

Lady Forbes-Robertson is returning to the stage after an absence of 22 years at the request of Leslie Howard to play the Queen in his production of Hamlet which opens in New York soon.

failure of the sanctions. King Edward's "holiday," whether or not it was designed doesn't matter, has done a great deal to restore this prestige. This is true not only of the countries which the Royal party visited, but also in other countries where the significance of the trip has not failed to seep in.

The countries visited are, in the main, those with a Mediterranean littoral, with which mutual assistance pacts were made early in 1936, during the Italo-Ethiopian affair, to guard against possible aggressive action on the part of Mussolini. When sanctions were abandoned these pacts were dropped to propitiate Il Duce. No doubt, owing to the visit of the King and Mr. Duff Cooper (and subsequently the independent trip of Sir Samuel Hoare, First Lord of the Admiralty) a thorough understanding now exists between Great Britain and the former pact countries.

Three heads of governments within the possible scope of the King's visits were not included, the ruler of Italy, Czecho-Slovakia and Rumania. The first and second are not within a convenient orbit of the royal itinerary. Prague papers, however, are expressing definite regrets that the King did not arrange to visit "the only democracy in that part of Europe." Rome would have been considerably out of the way. Bucharest would not have meant much of a detour. But third, cousin Carol was presumably not on the visiting list.

Daniel Bannister

and Daniel Bannister on a charge of murder.

According to the story, they were dogged almost constantly by sickness and privation; twice burned out; one winter having nothing to eat but "beans and buckwheat flour without salt"; mother and father separated; the children sent to the orphanage; the death of another brother, Edward; the illness of their mother; sickness and accidents requiring hospital treatment; how they made a little money selling mayflowers, trapping rabbits, tapping maple trees for sap; picking blueberries making Christmas wreaths and chopping wood.

The account tells of Arthur eventually getting a job on the road in the summer of 1935 and meeting Philip Lake; how they made a little money that winter making wreaths and passed a "happy Christmas." The manuscript then repeats largely the testimony which Daniel gave at the trial of his brother, Arthur, with regard to the first visit to Philip Lake's cabin on Jan. 2 which was followed by the later fateful visit which resulted in their arrest and final conviction and hanging for murder.

The story reiterates Daniel's own evidence that he was ignorant of the purpose of the two visits and merely went to the Lake cabin at the request of Arthur and admits no part in the actual slaying.
