Microphonics

Whenever Jack Benny needs a Negro character act for his sketches over NBC Sundays, he does not have to look any further than the front of Johnny Green's car. The bandmaster's chauffeur, an ebony-hued gentleman with the picturesque title of "Sugar-foot" Jones, always fills the bill.

Ford Bond, NBC announcer, studied medicine in his youth. He quit to take a music course and graduated to become a director of choruses and glee clubs. His radio career began with Station WHAS, Louisville, Ky., his home town.

Helen Pickens, who sings with sisters Jane and Patti on NBC's Evening in Paris programme, likes to be busy all the time, even at rehearsals and broadcasts. So she takes her knitting with her wherever she goes, and this winter has turned out four sweaters, seven scarfs and two neckties.

With an eye on the sports pages, Carmen Lombardo has written a new boy and girl tune, called "You'd Better Play Ball With Me." It was introduced by the Royal Canadians, and Guy, who's usually reticent in prognosticating the future of his brother's songs, predicts it will be an important "hit" of the season.

Kate Smith's Celtics basketball team, professional champions, will make their first Manhattan appearance of the season in a special game with the New York University All-Stars at the 71st Armory, Monday, April 13. The proceeds will be donated to the Red Cross flood fund.

LONDON, April 9—The King has presented to the Imperial War Museum his own diary, maps and a variety of papers, collected during his personal war service in Flanders. Included is a letter from the late King George to his son's Commanding Officer of the Grenadiers "that no honors or salutes to which the Prince of Wales is entitled as the Prince shall be rendered by the battalion in which he is serving or by any brigade to which his battalion may belong."

THE STORY OF THE CHRIST

At Christmas time Lord Jesus came To dwell with man on earth. The angels in their joy drew near, And sang His holy birth.

In Bethlehem the Christ was born, But childhood's happy days Were lived in Nazareth, and there He learned to pray and praise.

In wisdom, stature, grace, He grew, And truest manhood won. "In Thee I am well pleased," God said "Thou'rt my beloved Son."

On Christ the Holy Spirit came, That so He might fulfil His loving mission to mankind, According to God's will.

He preached good news. He healed the sick, And gave the weary rest. He raised the dead, the hungry fed, And little children blest.

He taught not like the common scribes But made the people feel God had appointed Him to teach, And truth divine reveal.

And Nature, to this preacher's power Contributed her share. The birds and flowers helped Him to teach Trust in a Father's care.

But some who were not men of God, Although they used His name, Conspired Christ's noble life to end, And His good name defame.

So, Christ was tried, and sentenced, too, In Pilate's Judgment Hall, Though none had greater right to live Than He, the Friend of All.

To Calvary they led Him forth, Where He was crucified, For six long hours He suffered there, Then bowed His head, and died.

Friends laid Him in a garden tomb, Not very far away; Then homeward went with breaking hearts, Nor dreamed of Easter Day.

But near Christ's tomb, spring flowers in bloom Were shedding fragrance rare; From death they had come up to life, To be hope's emblems there.

The third day came, blest Easter Day! Christ from death's sleep awoke;

Up from His rocky couch He sprang, And from death's prison broke.

God's angel rolled the stone away, And to the women said: "Fear not, the Lord ye seek arose, Behold where He was laid."

"Go quickly, let Christ's brethren know He's risen from the dead." With hearts aglow with joy they heard Then on their errand sped.

Lo, as they ran, the Lord Himself Drew near, and said, "All hail!" In rapture at His feet they knelt. Such is the Easter Tale.

Once more with us 'tis Easter time, Let Easter joy be ours.

Ring out, sweet bells, a joyous chime, And fragrance shed, O flowers!

For Christ who rose is our Lord too, Our Saviour, and our Friend. By faith may we His followers be, And love with service blend.

We see Him not, but we can trust His wondrous promise given, "Lo, I am with you all life's way," And after that, come, Heaven.
