BETTER CONTACT NEEDED BETWEEN TEACHER, PARENT

Teacher Should Know Home Conditions, Study Pupils' Individuality

Advice to Teachers

Teacher Not Interested in Pupils Should Get Out

W. K. Tibert, who has been on an inspection tour of the vocational school at Moncton, returned home last evening. On his way back to Fredericton, Mr. Tibert stopped at Sussex and delivered an address on Home and School clubs before the Kings' and Queens' county Teachers Institute.

In speaking to the teachers at the Institute, Mr. Tibert delivered an impressive and practical address. He pointed out the needs of the home and school clubs, which embraced the teacher and parent. Mr. Tibert stated that in order to do justice to the boys and girls it was necessary for the teacher to know the home conditions of these pupils, and what they had to contend with outside of their homes. He felt that if the teacher and the parent would get together and study problems that the teacher would get very much help and co-operation from the parents.

Mr. Tibert stated that while the province of New Brunswick was spending millions of dollars for school property, this property is only being used for five hours a day, five days a week. Every school, he said, should be a social center where the people could meet for their own benefit. He stated that the Home and School clubs and the teacher must go together. He quoted instances to show where a teacher in small districts could do untold good in the community by bringing the adults together as well as the parents.

Mr. Tibert stated that the teacher had in her hands for developing one of the most precious assets of the country—its future men and women. It was the teacher's duty to direct them so that their tendencies might be upward. A teacher should study the individual character of the pupil. No two pupils were alike in mentality any more than they were alike in other physical features. Because one boy or girl does not make as high marks in arithmetic as another boy or girl there is no reason for the teacher to say that the pupil is dumb. Mr. Tibert told the teachers that unless they were interested in their profession and were sincerely trying to do their best for the boys and girls under their care, and if the teaching profession seemed a burden to them, it was their honest duty to get out of the profession. Life was too short, he said, to spend year after year in trying to fulfill an important duty which they did not like. Moreover the teacher who was not giving of his best to the profession and to those under his care, was not honestly doing his duty towards the development of the future men and women of this country.

MOUNTIES HAVE NEHEMIAH HUDLIN'S HOME AT RIPPLES UNDER OBSERVATION

Corp. Love and Constable Fired Upon as They Attempted to Serve Execution on 65-Year-Old Negro Yesterday --- Circumstances Almost Identical When Russell Hayward Was Killed in 1927.

Nehemiah Hudlin, 65-year-old negro of Ripples, who was acquitted of the charge of murdering Constable Russell Hayward, of the New Brunswick Provincial Police, on Nov. 10, 1927, is once again hunted by the police.

Yesterday when Corporal R. L. Love and Constable McDougall of the Minto detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police attempted to serve a civil execution on Hudlin at his shack-like home in which he lives at Ripples, they were met with the blast of a rifle.

Tried to Serve Execution

The elderly negro who has been giving the police trouble for a number of years, was upstairs in his home when the R.C.M.P. constable entered the house to serve the summons. He fired a shot down stairs at the men, which passed between them as they were standing at the foot of the stairs, police reported today.

Fearing an attempt on their lives the police constables answered with a shot. They then left the house, reporting the matter to their superiors.

House Under Observation

Today a squad of nine constables of the R.C.M.P., headed by Inspector C. K. Gray are in that vicinity and have the Hudlin house under observation. They intend arresting Hudlin as soon as this can be done with safety to everyone concerned. It was planned to make another attempt to oust Hudlin from his house this afternoon, although precautionary measures were taken to avert a similar occurrence in 1927 when Constable Russell Hayward lost his life.

Several of the doors of the Hudlin house were said to be locked yesterday when the police constables demanded admittance to serve the execution. The 65-year-old negro has repeatedly resisted arrest, it is alleged.

Bear Island Man Gets Moose With 50-Inch Antlers

The latest successful moose hunter in the province is Russell Morrison of Bear Island, who secured a forest monarch with an antler spread of 50 inches, having 20 points.

Mr. Morrison's moose is the eighth shot by himself during 25 years of hunting in this province. George Davis, local taxidermist, reports that the moose shot by Russell Morrison, although a fine one, is by no means a record breaking head. According to him the record moose was shot near Bathurst by a man named Grey many years ago. This moose is reported to have had an antler spread of 71 inches. Several moose have been shot within the past ten years, with antler spreads of 50 inches, several were shot having 60-inch spreads. Mr. Morrison's is the biggest one shot so far this season.
