Gordon Sharp Escapes Death

felt the crash and felt himself flying through the air. When he lit he saw nothing but a cloud of dust. Mr. Sharp said. After the first shock of falling Mr. Sharp noticed he was lying on the planks of the small bridge with his head sticking through the railing. Charles Elgee was the driver of the engine and he brought his train to a stop as soon as the crash occurred. Later he said that it was the first time in twenty-two years that he had ever hit anyone. Mr. Elgee said that had the car reached the tracks a second earlier both the car and Sharp would have been crushed to bits. "I wish that people would be more careful when approaching a railway crossing," declared Engineer Elgee. Mr. Sharp who was proceeding homeward from the Valley Motors, Limited, where he is employed as a mechanic, was unaccompanied.

Millions of Dollars Worth of Gold in Moose River Mine

On the Sunday night before the men entered the mine Magill and Robertson were the two happiest men in Canada. They had bought the mine and had a chance to sell it at a profit of from one thousand to two thousand per cent.

"Were they going to sell it?" we asked. Henderson only shrugged his shoulders.

Bruce Salt's Body Recovered This Morning

an inquest unnecessary. Charles Fleet, veteran riverman, who has taken sixty bodies from the St. John river, Fred Atherton and Charles Foster were among those who were at work on the river yesterday, besides a large number of others who volunteered.

The funeral of the late Bruce Salt will take place from the home of Major Salt on Woodstock Road on Wednesday afternoon with service at 2:30 o'clock. Ven. Archdeacon A. F. Bate will officiate and interment will be made in the Wilmut section of the Rural cemetery. Deceased is survived by his parents, two brothers, Rupert of the R.C.M.P. at Vancouver, and Gordon at home; also one sister, Miss Doris at home.

The tragedy occurred on Saturday afternoon shortly before three o'clock. Sub-Constable Potter and Bruce Salt had left the Fredericton shore in a rowboat at about 2:30 o'clock. They had proceeded only part way across the river when the boat sprang a leak and capsized, forcing both Potter and young Salt into the water. Potter was able to swim about half a mile to the Devon shore, but young Salt, although he was reputedly a good swimmer, was unable to negotiate the distance.

Potter was at once taken to the Victoria Hospital where he suffered from cold and exposure all day Sunday. He informed the police that he saw Bruce swimming but that a large wave came up between them and he never saw his companion after that. He could not tell whether the boy was swimming or had gone down.

Potter himself after swimming about half a mile, drifting down stream part of the distance, reached the Devon shore and hailed a passing automobile driven by Fred Ferris, of Devon, and was taken to the hospital. The search for young Salt's body was at once instituted and on Sunday almost twenty boats were engaged at strategic points all along the river, endeavoring to recover the body.

The coming of darkness halted the search last night but the grapplers were at work again early this morning and the boy's body was taken from the water at 6:50 o'clock this morning near the mouth of the Nashwaakiss river. Mr. Fleet and a large number of volunteer workmen, including R.C.M.P. constables, worked valiantly to recover the body.

When Potter and Salt started out from behind the R.C.M.P. barracks on Saturday afternoon, the water was choppy and rough, and the high wind made it very difficult to row. Neither knew at the time that the rowboat was leaky.

According to report young Salt and Potter were intending to do some fishing and had taken the short route across the river, intending to proceed further up river for their sport.

Wilmut Brotherhood

The controversial question of whether capital punishment is better than life imprisonment as punishment for capital offenders was the subject of a spirited debate in the Wilmut Brotherhood yesterday. The affirmative of the resolution "Resolved that Capital Punishment should be Abolished" was supported by W. J. West and Dr. A. A. Rowan, the negative by E. C. Atkinson and W. R. Crewdson. The leaders spoke for fifteen minutes, the second speakers for five. There was no rebuttal. Mr. West declared that capital punishment was antagonistic to the ideals of Christianity. He denied that it prevented crime or protected society. Crime clinics, where sympathy and brotherhood replace hate and spite, were suggested as a substitute for execution. In supporting Mr. West, Dr. Rowan in his turn said that life imprisonment was more feared than capital punishment and that the latter did harm in shocking the susceptibilities of society. Mr. Atkinson, leader for the negative, said that substitutes for capital punishment had been tried in several countries and had failed. It is a humane measure, he contended and reduced murder to a minimum. Mr. Crewdson emphasized that long imprisonment embitters a convicted man and makes him a greater enemy to society. A vote of thanks was moved by Rev. J. W. Bartlett, seconded by John Webster and unanimously extended to the debaters. Yesterday's meeting of the Brotherhood was the last for this season.

Msgr. Carney to Welcome New Bishop

At the Cathedral
At 8 o'clock that evening, His Excellency will proceed, in procession, to his Cathedral where the Diocesan welcome will be extended and addresses of welcome read. On that occasion His Excellency will ascend the historic pulpit and for the first time speak to his people.

Later in the evening the Bishop-Elect will proceed to St. Peter's Novitiate where, on the following morning, he will enter on a week's retreat, prior to the consecration.

It is expected that a number of clergy present from Maritime points will probably be the largest to attend a consecration in Saint John for, as Superior of Holy Heart Seminary, the Bishop-Elect has been in intimate contact with the clergy of these provinces. Members of the Hierarchy and other clergy from other Canadian points will also be present.

The many details as to the welcoming of His Excellency and the consecration are now being worked out. It will be an outstanding occasion in the history of the Church in this old Diocese and in the Maritimes in general.

This poisoning of the system must be cleared up before you can get rid of the headache, which is a symptom of an unhealthy condition of the body.
