

JEWISH UNEASINESS IN LONDON TODAY OVER THE PROPOSED MARCH OF FASCISTS

Financial Authorities See World Recovery In the Near Future

Main Obstacle to Trade Revival is Now Believed Removed
French Move From Gold
Will There Be a New World Money System Introduced?

TORONTO, Oct. 3 — According to the Financial Post, there is a possibility of world recovery within the near future. The main trade obstacle is believed now removed.

If the world's leading economists have made a correct diagnosis, then the greatest obstacle in the path of recovery is being hurdled.

Devaluation by the gold bloc countries—France, Holland and Switzerland—followed immediately by announcement of an international agreement by leading powers to regulate currencies, is expected to go far in achieving stability of foreign exchange. Currency stability, in turn, is considered the vital factor in resumption of world trade—key log in the depression jam.

The development may well herald a new system of international currency. In itself the new international agreement is an innovation. Most observers regard it as a purely temporary arrangement. From it, however, may readily evolve some more permanent structure—still based on gold but with greater emphasis on currency management—to assume the function formerly held by the pre-war gold standard.

There has been no indication that Great Britain will establish a fixed gold value for sterling. London is convinced that this is advisable, but apparently the country at large is not yet prepared for it. The lesson of 1926 when England returned to gold prematurely has been well learned. The American dollar, of course, is already linked with gold, although the content may be varied within definite limits.

Generally speaking, the effect on foreign exchange markets, apart from the countries directly affected by the devaluation, is likely to be small although changes in some currencies have already been announced.

It is probable that sterling may show weakness against the American dollar. In recent weeks, the pound has shown exceptional strength, mainly due, it is believed, to an influx of French balances. This movement will probably be reversed when devaluation has actually been effected. Few believe that the Canadian dollar will be affected to any great extent.

The effect of more stable currencies on the volume of international trade is outstanding. As the International Chamber of Commerce puts it: "With fluctuating currencies, the conduct of international business transactions is like trying to play billiards

High Hatting the Public

IT'S funny the way people occupying positions of public trust want to keep secret the public business which they transact. The Fredericton School Board "high hats" the public by holding its sessions in secret behind closed doors and issuing so-called reports, not of what transpires at the meeting, but of as much as they want the public to know of what transpires at the meetings. The Police Commission is even more high hat than the School Board. This wonderful organization holds secret meetings, and refuses to tell the public anything about what happens at the meetings. In fact, not even the aldermen know what goes on behind the closed doors of the Police Commission. The aldermen do not know even when a meeting is held.

Another organization which seems to have developed an air of mystery so far as the public down here in New Brunswick is concerned, is the organization which has to do with the building of the Fredericton bridge. The public of New Brunswick, which should be vitally interested in the matter, does not even know whether we are going to have the C.N.R. bridge or not. Even the Minister of Transport states that the matter is entirely in the hands of certain people in Montreal, and that he knows nothing whatever about what is going on in regard to the bridge.

Some time ago tenders were called for the erecting of certain additions to the armoury. This was along in July last. Those who tendered were required to deposit checks amounting to more than $3,000 each. These checks are tied up, but no word has yet been received in regard to the contract or when it will be awarded. Nobody seems to know what is going on.

A couple of days ago the announcement was made that an enquiry would be held into the penitentiary system. It was suggested that the sessions be closed to the public and the press. This investigation should be a wide-open affair and all the facts connected with the penitentiary administration should be brought out and laid on the table for public inspection. And yet it has been proposed to hold the meetings in secret.

It is time that an open-door policy be adopted in connection with all public matters in which the general public has an interest. The closed door idea is not in keeping with our democratic standard. Secrecy breeds suspicion.

COMMUNIST PARTY LEADER IN SPAIN

TORONTO, Oct. 3—Tim Buck, general secretary of the Communist Party in Canada, is at present in Spain, it was learned with the announcement the party's eighth national convention had been postponed.

The convention was to have been held here Oct. 9, but now has been postponed until early next year, because of the inability of Buck to attend. He left here in July.

With the large shipments of potatoes starting forward to the Argentine and with the prospect that New Brunswick will be able to send lumber, fish, apples and fruit to the same country under the new policy of the present Dystart Government, larger markets are opening for this Province.

In addition to this, many shipments of lumber have recently gone forward to the German market, others are to follow.

Now we will probably have increased shipments to the British market, according to F. H. Cooper, who is connected with a firm of lumber importers in Liverpool, England. Mr. Cooper, who is in the city, informs The Daily Mail that much depends upon the prices quoted by the lumbermen. He also states that much depends upon how we are able to meet the competition of Russian and Scandinavian exporters to Great Britain. We are already competing with Russia in regard to our pulp exports to Germany. Large quantities of this pulp wood are also being shipped to Rotterdam, Holland, and specimens of our pulp compare most favorably with anything shipped from Russia.

The Port Royal Mills at Saint John have recently announced an expansion in their business, and this will give employment to a large additional number of men.

The policy of the Provincial Government in making it necessary for lease holders of lumber lands to carry on operations in the same should also result in increased production and more employment, according to word received this morning from Prime Minister King who is now in France, endeavoring to promote trade with that country.

Today's local market shows that the price of farm produce is soaring. It looks like better times for everybody.
