MRS. L. W. BAILEY GETS MEMORIAL MEDAL IN NOVA SCOTIA

Aged Fredericton Lady is Oldest Living Client of the Cunard Line—Was a Friend of the Founder

HALIFAX, June 17—Two Nova Scotian women, one aged 103 and the other aged 94, were presented with medals commemorating the maiden voyage of the super-liner Queen Mary.

The older of the pair, Mrs. Fanny Lenoir, of Halifax, is the only living person to have visited the Cunarder Britannia on her maiden voyage to Halifax in 1840. The other woman, Mrs. Loring W. Bailey, of Wolfville, is the oldest living client of the Cunard Line.

Smiling happily, but a little dazed by the large crowd that had gathered for the noonday presentation at Province House, the two women appeared in perfect health and in perfect spirits.

"Goodness gracious," murmured Mrs. Bailey, and Mrs. Lenoir also looked a little startled when the red-carpeted legislative council chamber was brightened by the flare of photographers' flash bulbs.

Premier Angus L. Macdonald had just referred to the women as "two of our most worthy and esteemed citizens" and Highways Minister Hon. A. S. MacMillan had then presented them with the medals on behalf of the Cunard White Star Line.

Enter Chambers

Accompanying Mrs. Lenoir when she entered the chamber was Col. T. E. Powers on one side and Mrs. Guy Stayner on the other. All three are from Halifax.

Directly behind them came Mrs. Bailey accompanied by her grandson, D'Avary West, and her daughter Mrs. West, of Wolfville. Mrs. Bailey, who had just arrived in the city following a 65-mile motor trip from her home in Wolfville, was "a little bit tired" after the trip.

Both women appeared particularly bright for their years. Mrs. Bailey, it was learned from a friend, plays an excellent game of bridge.

They were escorted to the head of the council chamber facing an audience that consisted of a large number of delegates attending the National Council of Women convention here, as well as officials of the government and city.

When Premier Macdonald had expressed pleasure at seeing so many present to witness the unique event, the highways minister then made the presentations.

"At the reception last week to the steamship Queen Mary in New York city I was commissioned by Sir Percy E. Bates, chairman of the Cunard White Star Line, to present these medals to Mrs. Fanny Lenoir and Mrs. Loring W. Bailey," said Mr. MacMillan.

"It is interesting to note," he continued, "that one side of this medal bears a picture of the Queen Mary and an inscription in Latin which reads: 'Queen Mary has commissioned (or sent) me to the Sea.'"

As camera flashlight bulbs flared the minister turned toward Mrs. Lenoir, who was standing next to Mrs. Bailey.

"It is a great pleasure and an honor for me to be privileged to present to you this medal especially made in your honor in view of the fact that as far as is known you are the only living person who was on board the Britannia on her maiden voyage to Halifax in 1840. To few people has been given a span of life covering more than a century and we hope and pray that you may appreciate and enjoy this medal for some time to come," said Mr. MacMillan, handing Mrs. Lenoir the medal, which she accepted with a happy smile.

To Mrs. Bailey he said: "It is a great pleasure and honor for me to be privileged to present to you this medal especially made in your honor in view of the fact that you are the oldest living client of the Cunard Line, who made the cross-sing from Liverpool to Halifax in the Cambria 87 years ago.

"We hope and pray," he continued "that you may appreciate and enjoy this medal for years to come."

Friends of Fortune

The highways minister then handed the other medal to Mrs. Bailey. Again the flash bulbs flared. Mrs. Bailey said there was something she wanted to say, and she told the gathering that she had been a personal friend of Sir Samuel Cunard, founder of the line, and of Mrs. Cunard.

"We are very happy. We are very proud," remarked Mrs. Lenoir after the presentations were made and the loud applause had died.

Mrs. Bailey remembered Sir Samuel Cunard as an old friend, and was anxious to tell about him.

Both were congratulated heartily by Mayor E. J. Cragg, by government officials and members, and by scores of others in attendance. Both said they had taken a keen interest in the Queen Mary's maiden voyage.

"It's too bad," said Mrs. Lenoir when the Queen Mary failed to break the Normandie's record. "But I'm sure she will hold the record yet."

THE NEED FOR ADULT EDUCATION NEVER SO GREAT AS IT IS TODAY

Unless the Mind Can Be Trained There May Arise
a Fascist State

Adult Education and its beneficial effect on social and economic conditions was discussed recently in an admirable address delivered before the Home and School Association in this city by Rev. John Linton, pastor of the George Street Baptist church. The subject is one which is attracting the attention of leading educational authorities throughout the country. Leading Maritime universities in Nova Scotia and in Prince Edward Island and also Mount Allison University in this province are taking practical steps towards including some measure of adult education in their programme.

Rev. Mr. Linton's address was as follows:

Some years ago the thought was quite prevalent everywhere that only the child could learn, that an adult's mind was set and was thus unable to absorb ideas and facts. This suggestion has been happily dissipated. We are learning that adults can and do enjoy the thrill of a new idea and can master the most difficult branch of learning.

A professor of biology in one of our Maritime universities said quite recently that he found his summer classes of adults more stimulating and quicker to learn than his winter classes of younger men and women. Life with its experiences gives to the adult an adequate background so that he is not simply memorizing ideas but rather he is enabled to relate them to life and life's experience.

The need for adult education was never quite so great as it is today. Our radio announcer tells us that "Time marches on with rapid pace," but we know it takes more than a stick of "spearmint" to enable us to properly meet and adjust ourselves to life. Witty demagogues rising on all sides telling us that they have the way out and trying to herd us like sheep into that way, mankind needs as never before, a keen mind that is critical and an accumulation of sufficient knowledge to evaluate. Unless the adult mind has been trained in the act of self-government, there is little hope that we will be relieved from petty politics. Unless the adult mind can see at least some of the basic ills of our present economic setup there is no hope but that we shall pass through severe depressions and possibly a Fascist state.

In another sense too, we have a great need for adult education. The machine age has come to stay. The man in the street may say, "Let us throw the machines in the Bay of Fundy," but he does not mean what he says, for he would be the first to cry out if the machine was taken away. This machine age is here to stay and no doubt will change our active lives as much in the future as it has in the past.

As our economic and financial life adjusts itself to this age of abundance man will find more leisure in which to express himself in the fine art of living. But man is not prepared for this day of leisure. Man has been so jiving with the material side of life that the spiritual side is weak and emaciated. A world of music, a world of art, a world of literature, a world of science, a world of beauty, lies before, but only a few have the key that opens into this palace beautiful. Adult education can aid a great deal to open up a world so near and yet so far. It is time that more adults became dissatisfied with themselves and start developing in this city and surrounding communities adult classes not simply for the "3 R's" but that we older people might know more of the truths of life for the truth shall make you free indeed.

No Happiness In the Home When the Mother Is Sick

The tired, worn out mother cannot make a happy home if she is sick and worried by the never ending household duties. She gets run down and becomes nervous and irritable, downhearted and discouraged, can't rest at night, and gets up in the morning as tired as when she went to bed. Women suffering in this way will find in Milburn's H. & N. Pills a remedy with which to recuperate their health, build up the run down system, and bring back their bodily vigor.
