Will Attend World Congress

Mrs. Nugent, wife of Dr. G. I. Nugent and president of the Fredericton Branch of the Women's Institute, is leaving on Thursday for Washington, where she will attend the conference of the Associated Country Women of the World, which meets in that city from May 30th to June 8th. Others attending the conference will be Mrs. Charles Parker and Miss Alma Welton of this city.

Major T. C. Barker, A.D.C., left for Saint John this morning on business connected with the Lieutenant Governor's office.

Seymour—Thomas

The marriage of Donald Winslow Seymour of Fredericton, and Mildred Alice Thomas, also of Fredericton and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas of Stanley, was solemnized on Saturday evening at eight o'clock in the Parish church. Venerable Archdeacon A. F. Bate performed the ceremony. The young couple who were attended by the parents of the bride will reside in Fredericton.

Week-end Guests

Mrs. Thompson, wife of Dr. P. G. Thompson, Mrs. Thomas Fewer and Miss Kathleen Thompson of Woodstock, were week-end visitors in the city. They returned home last evening and were accompanied by Miss Eva Caldwell, R.N., who has been the guest of Mrs. J. B. Killen.

MacLellan—Wallace

An interesting event took place yesterday at the Parish Church when Miss Delphine Caroline Wallace of St. Andrews was united in marriage to Robert William MacLellan of Halifax. The ceremony was performed at two o'clock by Venerable Archdeacon A. F. Bate.

The bride was in a gown of delphinium blue silk with straw hat to match and wearing a sport coat. The bridal party were attended by Mr. and Mrs. James G. Badcock. Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of Dalhousie University. The bridegroom is now a medical student and is a son of the widely known Dr. Kirk MacLellan of Halifax. The young couple will reside in Halifax.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY

The meeting of the Horticultural Society which was to have been held at Experimental Station on May 27, due to the unfavourable season has been postponed until June 15.

M. MOORE,
Secretary.

Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. MacLaren entertained informally at luncheon at their residence in Saint John yesterday. Covers were laid for nine, and summer flowers artistically arranged in a silver bowl made attractive table adornment. Those present included Most Rev. Archbishop William M. Duke of Vancouver; Chief Justice Baxter and Mrs. Baxter, Captain Emmanuelli, commandant and Lieutenant Girouard, of the French sloop of war, Ville D'Ys, Mrs. D. Laurence MacLaren and Miss Margaret MacLaren.

Mrs. W. A. Loucoun and daughter, Iona, have just returned from Saint John after a pleasant week's visit with friends.

A large number attended the Golf Club opening on Saturday afternoon. A mixed foursome was played which was won by Prof. D. E. Turner and Mrs. C. W. Argue.

Personal

Mrs. W. D. Gunter of Parrsboro, N. S., is visiting Mrs. H. H. Gunter.

Miss Margaret Hall leaves this evening on a trip to Vancouver, B. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacKay of Halifax are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. MacKay.

Maxwell-Green

A popular young couple were united in marriage yesterday at Boiestown, when Miss Valerie Green, daughter of A. W. Green of that place was united in marriage to James Brown Maxwell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Maxwell of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. B. W. Turner of the United Church in the presence of a large number of friends of the happy couple. The bride, who was given away by her father, was becomingly attired in a light blue suit and a dark blue hat with shoes to match, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Leola Green who was charmingly attired in a similar costume. Little Ann Green, four-year-old sister of the bride, was flower girl and she wore a dainty little yellow dress. Charles Green, brother of the bride was best man. The ushers were R. Matthews and E. Green. Mrs. B. W. Turner presided at the organ. The church was becomingly decorated with spring flowers and white and purple streamers which were arranged by friends of the bride. The wedding took place under a handsome floral arch, and the bride, who is one of Boiestown's fairest daughters looked winsome in this floral setting. Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell after a short wedding trip, will reside in this city.

The Hon. Cairine Wilson entertained informally at the tea hour recently in honor of Mrs. John Buchan and her daughter, Miss Anna Buchan (O. Douglas), who are guests at Government House in Ottawa.

CANADIANA

Audrey Alexandra Brown

SONG OUT OF SUFFERING

As a little boy with a pocketful of marbles takes them out to admire their size and color, so Audrey Alexandra Brown used to repeat to herself favorite words for the sake of feeling their color and beauty on her tongue. It was a hobby that stood her in good stead when, a child of twelve, she was attacked with a rheumatic illness that crippled her for many years. During long suffering and (except for her family) isolation, she wrote such beautiful poems as those contained in "A Dryad in Nanaimo," with the now famous Laodameia, of which one distinguished critic has said Keats might well have been proud.

Of herself, the poet feels that there is little to be said, beyond that she was born thirty-one years ago in Nanaimo, B. C. and is still living. Her life has been quiet and sequestered, but not from choice. The zeal and fire that might have made an explorer, a missionary or a pioneer have been woven into the magic of her poetry; so that the white light which is the innermost shrine of us all, is a delicate rather than a flaming torch, and has brought such wonder to other lovers of the beautiful that Audrey Brown stands in the front rank of Canadian poets today. Verses in the Nanaimo Herald found their way, as great things eventually do, to critical eyes. Professor Pelham Edgar, The Honorable Martin Burrell, and Senator and Mrs. Barnard, of Victoria, have helped to introduce her to the Canadian public.

Today, Audrey Alexandra Brown is living in Victoria, making the human contacts for which she has longed, her poetry and essays finding a place in the literary world. She says, "I shall never express the spirit of the day, which is said to be that of unrest and disillusion—for I feel neither. I do not believe that any circumstances have power in themselves to overcome the immortal soul. To battle against them strengthens us spiritually."

What, one wonders, will the next five years offer or demand of an inspired young poet who is just now emerging into the maelstrom of modern Canadian life?

LIMBO

(By Audrey Alexandra Brown)
I never had a garden. All my flowers
Are of dim-amber and dream-amethyst
And twilight-rose—rainbows and stars and mist—
Too delicately fair for sun or showers,
Too frail for any wind to breathe upon
But they will blossom still when June is gone.
I never had a love. Therefore my heart
May weave its fair and faint imag-
inings,
And spread the timid dower of its wings,
And shape its dream, un-pried-upon,
apart—
Nor guess wherein it falls of final bliss,
Nor know the disenchantment of a kiss.
I have not known the ways of life
and death,
The paths of joy and sorrow. I am given
A quiet country neither earth nor heaven
In which to breathe, in which to yield
my breath:
Mine are the windless spaces, sea
and sky—
Because I have not lived, I shall not die.
