war, although there have been several incidents involving interference.

Neither government nor insurgent fleets have shown any great willingness to engage in decisive battle, both preferring to use their ships for sudden coastal raids and evidently hoping to win the war and take over the other side's fleet intact.

Most dramatic naval encounter hitherto was bombardment of the government arms-bearing freighter Mar Cantabrico by the insurgent cruiser Canarias in the Bay of Biscay, March 9.

Insurgent trawlers also drove the Spanish freighter Mar Caspio ashore near Bayonne March 29.

A report from Santander relating the sinking of the Espana said the fatal aerial bomb burst through the smokestack, dropped below deck and exploded her munitions magazine.

Loss of the vessel left the insurgents with the cruisers Baleares, Canarias and Almirante Cervera; the government have the cruisers Miguel de Cervantes, the Mendeznunez, the Liberty and the Republica.

The Republica, however, is believed disabled. The Baleares and Canarias are comparatively new, completed in 1932.

BERLIN, April 30—Germany received word of the Spanish insurgent battleship Espana's destruction with surprise tonight.

The Berliner Tageblatt saw the incident as a sensational contribution to theories on air and naval strategy, recalling that Great Britain, in particular, had cast doubt on the ability of an air bomb to sink a battleship.

COMMUNITY "Y" DRIVE FOR FUNDS NEAR OBJECTIVE

Officials Confident That Campaign Will Be Successful

Officers in charge of the Community "Y" campaign for funds reported today that the drive is rapidly reaching the objective of $3,000. The exact figures of the amounts collected since the campaign opened were not available this morning. However, the various team captains will submit their reports at the dinner meeting to be held in the Y on Monday evening to mark the conclusion of the campaign.

Officials are confident that the objective will be reached. The response of the citizens has been very gratifying and there is every indication that the drive for funds will have been most successful when the campaign closes.

The extensive program of activities sponsored by the local organization involves much expenditure. The cause is a worthy one and merits the support of all interested in the welfare of the youth of the community. Figures show that 275 boys and girls are included in the various gym groups, and 225 boys played organized hockey here during the past season under the auspices of the Y. More than 500 girls and boys directly benefit from the playgrounds, while the Y provides recreational facilities for a large number of young people.

The Y hall is equipped with ping-pong tables, checkers, chess, several novel game tables comfortable chairs and reading material. It is supervised afternoon and evenings. No fees are charged. It is a meeting place for many groups and increasing numbers of young people find companionship and recreation there.

Two important service organizations with the Association are the Ladies Auxiliary and the Y's Men's Club. Twenty-two committees functioned during the year.

Closing Meeting of Y.P.S.

Last evening an unusual and interesting program under the direction of a committee was presented to the Young People's Society of the Wilmet church at the closing meeting. A short devotional and business period was carried out by the president of the society after which Charles McCordick took charge of the remainder of the entertainment. The first item on the program was two pretty solos by Miss Anne Sypher. This was followed by entertaining readings by Miss Netta McMillan. Monte Chapelle ventriloquist and his talking dog next presented two amusing skits to the large audience. Lloyd Lewis accompanied by Miss Mildred Barbour gave two saxophone solos. This was followed by two delightful solos by Richard Locke accompanied by R. C. Bailey. Mr. Bailey gave two selections by special request. Douglas Fox gave two horn selections. The Valley Vagabonds brought this part of the program to a close with several fine melodies. Before the recreational period which followed Rev. Dr. J. W. Bartlett gave a farewell address to the members of the society. Next followed the auctioning of the baskets which were originally decorated by the young ladies. A delightful social hour followed after which the meeting was brought to a close by the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

Bus Men's

Only For Emergencies

After completion of the night's regular runs the bus men declared they would operate no more buses unless emergencies produced a call for special services, such as ambulance work.

By morning the strike was certain to disrupt the normal habits of more than 5,000,000 bus-using Londoners and throw a severe strain on other traffic arteries, such as subways and trams, already glutted with throngs pouring into the city for today's Football Association cup final at Wembley Stadium and the early celebrations in connection with the coronation.

Tram workers announced they would not stop work unless the bus companies tried to hire non-union workers to continue the service.

Meanwhile the possibility remained that some solution would be found within the 12 days before the coronation ceremony. Most of the bus workers appeared disposed to accept a temporary improvement in working conditions under which their demand for a 7-1/2 hour day would be submitted to negotiation.

Union circles suggested the possibility that the state would grant the bus company a temporary subsidy if it were established they could not afford a reduced work week for their employees.

The bus companies, through the London Passenger Transport Board, declare they cannot afford to meet the cost involved in the shorter day.

See Long Struggle

Others of the men believed it would be a long struggle. Pickets were stationed in front of all bus garages to see that no vehicles start their regular trips, normally beginning about 5 a.m. As the buses reached their terminals they were washed as usual, then parked in long lines.

The transport board, which refused the strikers' demands, was represented as counting heavily on the reaction of the throngs compelled to walk or jam into other conveyances to quell the strike.

Buses carry 58 per cent. of the passengers in the London area, enclosed

Snapdragons and roses were the floral decorations.

Victor Archer, prominent young business man of Carquet, is in the city today.

Miss Constance M. Jones who is the Carleton County Grammar School representative to attend the coronation, left here recently for Quebec, where she joined her party. Prior to her departure Miss Jones was honored guest at several enjoyable functions. When St. Luke's Church choir entertained the young people of the church Miss Jones was presented a purse of money, the rector, Rev. J. T. Abbott, making the presentation. The evening was spent in games and dancing. The following evening at the conclusion of high school play, Miss Jones again was honored at an informal dance, when W. S. Brownrigg, on behalf of those present, presented her a bouquet of roses, and the girls of her class gave her a large supply of camera films for use on her trip. On a later evening she was entertained by a number of her friends at a dance in the Knights of Pythias hall, when she was presented a camera. C. Perkins making the presentation. Prior to her departure Miss Jones received a check from the town of Woodstock for $25, and one for a like amount from the members of the Woodstock Rotary Club.

Community Concert

York City, through their representative, Ben H. Lobdell, who is in the city this week conducting the present membership drive, the local association will discontinue the use of the New Member Guest Plan which has been in operation for the past two or three seasons. This plan is only used in the early years of the life of a concert association, and is regarded definitely as a promotional feature only. The plan is not a permanent one, and is employed only until the local concert association has become well-established. Inasmuch as the Fredericton concert association has now entered its fifth year, the New Member Guest Plan is no longer necessary, and will not be in use during the membership campaign next year. Thus, only those persons who have joined the association during this week's membership drive will be eligible to attend the closing concert next season. It is also probable that next spring's membership drive will occur following the closing concert.

In view of these changes of policy, all persons of Fredericton who are planning to enjoy the entire series of concerts for next season are urged to secure their memberships before the deadline at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Memberships may be obtained by coming to the campaign headquarters in the R. B. VanDine's Shoe Store, or may be reserved by telephone.

Within a 30-mile radius from Charing Cross. The subway system will not be capable of taking care of more than a part of the customary bus riders. Many commuters live miles from the subway lines.

There is also the prospect that if the bus strike lasts more than a day or two subway workers will join. In London itself the strike involves 5,000 buses, covering about 200 routes, a daily mileage of 600,000, consuming about 100,000 gallons of gasoline and taking in about $175,000 a day.
