SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Fashionable Wedding at

St. Paul's Church
St. Paul's United Church was this afternoon the scene of one of the most fashionable weddings of the season when Dorothy Jardine, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Palmer was united in marriage to Dr. James Gordon Petrie of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Petrie of Newcastle.

The ceremony was performed at three o'clock with Rev. George Telford officiating. Given in marriage by her father the bride's attendants were her sister Mrs. Lewis A. Murray of Niagara Falls as matron of honor, with Miss Helen Neill and Miss Jean Thompson as bridesmaids. The bridegroom was supported by his brother Byron Petrie of Montreal. The church ushers were Richard Jardine Palmer and John Dickinson Palmer Jr., brothers of the bride, Lewis A. Murray of Niagara Falls and Dr. J. Gilbert Turner of Fredericton.

The bride was beautifully gowned in heavy white satin model dress made with long pointed sleeves, cowl neck and white satin buttons down the back. Her veil of tulle was fastened with a halo of orange blossoms. She wore white satin sandals and carried a shower bouquet of pale pink rosebuds, lilies of the valley and baby's breath.

The bridal attendants were gowned in coronation colors—the matron of honor in blue, carrying an arm bouquet of red roses; the bridesmaids in red carrying arm bouquets of blue delphinium. The coronation colors being also carried out in the church decorations. The bride's mother was in navy blue crepe with embroidered bolero and cerise vest. She wore a navy blue hat with accessories to match, the dress and hat designed by a French modiste.

As the guests were assembling, Professor J. Harrison Wade, organist rendered appropriate music. The guest pews had been marked with white satin ribbons and tiny bouquets of bridal flowers.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. The bride's table was artistically and beautifully appointed. The tiered wedding cake was surmounted with a miniature white sponge sugar candy basket bearing candy orange blossoms and silver leaves and fastened with a small bow of white maline. The polished mahogany table had points de Venise dollies. Long dainty white satin streamers were suspended from the white dome to the table. Mock orange blossoms filled the dome and marked the streamers while roses in bud vases and ivory tapers were at each end of the table. The wall lights were fastened with white roses and bows of white maline. The drawing room and reception room were fragrant with a profusion of red and white peonies blue delphiniums and ferns. The guests' table was centred with a huge basket of American Beauty Roses and tall tapers were interspersed here and there and pink sponge sugar candy slippers bells and horseshoes were also displayed.

Mrs. A. J. Thompson and Mrs. J. Fraser Winslow presided over the tea and coffee cups. Serving at the bride's table were Miss Betty Gregory of Richibucto, Miss Barbara McCunn and Mrs. Maynard Harrison. Others assisting were Miss Barbara Wetmore, Miss Katherine Wetmore, Miss Bettina VanWart, Miss Hope Hanson, Miss Mary VanWart, Miss Ruth Hanson, Miss Grace Oltis, Miss Dorothy Pond, Miss Margaret Seeley, Miss Alice Bird, Miss Margaret Ann Morrison, Miss Marion Morrison, Miss Marjorie McMurray and Miss Christine Howie.

REVELATION

At twenty, I had fixed ideas
About my Galahad—
He must be handsome, blond and tall
A generous, carefree lad.

He must be witty, wise, yet young.
With charm—and savoir-faire,
And as was then my preference,
He must have curly hair.

At thirty, much to my distress
(Alarmed at how time flies!),
I find myself most eager to,
Effect a compromise!

—Cecily Curran.

Mr. Picobac's Advice
to Anglers

"I WANT you to put a piece in the paper where everybody will see it," said Mr. Picobac to his friend, Herb Smith, editor of the Essex Centre Gazette and County Advertiser (circulation guaranteed). "It'll save me a lot of time writing letters in answer to correspondents."

"Sure," said Herb, feeling for the pencil behind his ear.

"It's poetry," confessed Mr. Picobac, handing it over.

The editor read it aloud:

"Angler's Calendar for April"

"Give your good trout rod a coat of shellac,
"Glue up the ferrules if any be slack;
"Test all your tapers, silk, linen or cotton,
"Cut off the ends of all such as be rotten;
"Take last summer's leaders now frayed and worn,
"All moth-eaten trout flies, tattered and torn,
"Make one last cast with them—throw them away,
"Stock up with new stuff for Trout Opening Day."

"Sounds like an ad," said the editor. "What about the smokes?"
"Picobac, of course," said Mr. Picobac briefly. "In handy seal-tight pouches."
