SAYS PARLIAMENT HAS LUNATICS AND DONKEYS

OXFORD, Aug. 14—If Parliament were fully representative of the community, it would have as members one or two criminals, a few lunatics, some hefty children and in true democracy an elderly donkey, said Miss Margery Fry, speaking at the summer school of the Howard League for Penal Reform.

The next speaker, George Benson, Labor member of Parliament for (Cheshire), retorted: "I can assure Miss Fry that Parliament is fully representative, and our democratic system is far more perfect than she seems to realize. We have criminals, lunatics, children, and even donkeys in the House of Commons."

EGG TRAVELS THOUSAND MILES WITHOUT CRACK

WINNIPEG, Aug. 13—Western Canada postal clerks are very careful about the handling of his Majesty's mail. It became apparent here today when evidence showed that a Northern Alberta woman had mailed a hat with an egg in it, and when the package was opened here after a 1,000-mile journey, there wasn't a crack in the egg's shell.

CHAOS FOR

for another month before he will tell it—after Sept. 15, when his resignation takes effect, and he is no longer "muzzled" he said yesterday.

"I will give the world a story on Sept. 15—the story of the past two years," he promised in an interview at the Royal York Hotel yesterday. "I don't want to enter into any controversy with Aberhart with respect to his methods, though I don't approve of them," Mr. Huggill declared. "But I can't see Alberta pioneering a lonely furrow."

"By all means, let every one have $25 a month—if they can get it honestly," he added. "The methods that are being employed threaten chaos, or what will have almost as bad an effect morally—disillusionment."

Thick-set and energetic, Mr. Huggill is a polo player and a life member of the Alpine Club. Horses are his hobby. He was born in England, but in early life was brought to Halifax and attended the University of King's College, from which he holds a D.C.L. degree. His law apprenticeship was served in the office of Hon. R. B. Bennett, Federal Conservative Leader.

Outlining his theory of the British North America Act, he believed the Fathers of Confederation "did a good job," and that Canadians had derived great benefits from it and should respect it.

"There is room for growth and expansion," Mr. Huggill continued, "but it must be accompanied by compromise and discussion. We can't start out with a bludgeon to break this down and throw that down. I believe in stabilizing. I don't believe in demagoguery."

Without previous political affiliations, he had gone in with Aberhart because he had thought "there was something in his ideas for getting rid of the stigma of the dole."

Mr. Huggill's brisk and cheerful manner was convincing evidence that he was not downhearted over the resignation. Comfort, moreover, had come in the shape of a mass of telegrams and other expressions of regret. And he felt that he continued to enjoy the "respect and confidence of the Bar."

"In fact, my only real regret in getting out," he said, "was in leaving behind the excellent staff in my department which was appointed by the previous Government."

Mr. Huggill has come to Toronto to attend the sessions of the Canadian Bar Association, which open next week.

CHILE MAY

Chile is greatly interested in Canada and he believes that a considerable trade can be established between the countries, they taking seed potatoes in exchange for fruits and kindred products.

No definite figure on the magnitude of the Chilean market for New Brunswick potatoes could be given, since the matter is only under preliminary study and consideration. Nothing has been considered yet as to the matter of importation other than the inspection of field conditions which Mr. Mujica is carrying out, and the decision on the matter will be developed on the observations made here.

MOTOR CARS

No fewer than 1,865 accidents were attributed to the carelessness of automobile drivers. Only 536 accidents were believed to have been caused by various mechanical defects.

Persons killed and injured respectively per category of population were: Pedestrians, 68 and 1,016; Motorists, 32 and 690; drivers or passengers of horse-drawn vehicles, one and 65; motor-cyclist, two and 52; bicyclists, five and 168.
