Havas News Agency reported that heavy rains over the Yangtze River delta prevented the Japanese air fleet from taking off to bomb Nanking. Japanese military forces have stated. Havas added, they believed the suspense created by postponement of the scheduled attack would have a demoralizing influence on the Chinese population.

WILLIAM T. WALKER
Popular Sport Promoter, Enters
Business for Himself

The new store of William T. Walker & Co. in the premises formerly occupied by Mavor Bros. will be one of the finest men's furnishing stores in the Maritimes when ready for occupancy on Thursday of this week.

The interior of the store has been refurnished in a harmonious color scheme of cream and white. The same tinting has been used for the window backgrounds.

The windows are of a new and striking design especially planned for this store by Kenneth Campbell, well known local architect. The entrance is very attractive and the windows ideally suited for purposes of display.

The interior of the store is sumptuously finished in walnut panelling with various compartments for different varieties of men's wear forming individual illuminated unit displays.

There is a space reserved for modern style hat display racks, two panel mirrors and a lighted alcove for triple mirrors to give the customer a back and front view of any garment tried on.

A fitting room, and Plateau type counter display cases with sanitary bases, complete the store fixtures.

Schools May Not Open

Whether or not the re-opening of the public schools of the province will be again postponed has been an undecided issue for the past few days, and no official announcement has been made in regard to this as yet. It was rumored today, however, that there is a possibility that a postponement will again be made.

No more deaths have been reported, so that the total still stands at three. It is stated that the new cases of the disease are of a mild type, and the danger of a large percentage of fatality is not acute with the care which is being taken by the Department of Health.

THE LARGEST DEER SO FAR?

T. W. Sanson, and Irvine Wade, of this city, bagged two deer yesterday at Renous, one of which is believed to be the largest shot this year so far. The big buck, which proudly carried a perfect 10 point head, dressed 175 pounds. The other deer, a yearling doe, was large for its age.

The Grass Beyond the Fence

Bessie the cow believe there's something better Than any grass within her own ten acres,
Beyond the barbed wire fence that marks the road:
Something that waits and ripens for the takers
And would not fall for scythemens or for rakers.

She can't escape the milking soon enough
To poke her head between two strands for sighting,
Be the brush there ever so tall or tough;
Her head gets tangled and she bleats for righting.
No doubt she thinks her horns were meant for fighting.

Bessie, beware in mockings man's invention.
The fence will not be always blundered through.

Defining pasture is the wire's intention;
Some day the harbs will have a job to do,
And then, my girl, the grass will gobble you!
