Moncton Maroons Capture New Brunswick Hockey Championship

Papermakers Falter at Barrage of Rubber to Lose Encounter 17-4

Victors to Meet Abbies In Maritime Semi-Final Series

MONCTON, March 6—The Moncton Maroons turned loose both barrels on the Bathurst Papermakers here last night by swamping them by the score of 17-4 to win the New Brunswick hockey crown. The victory puts the winners in the race with the Charlottetown Abbies for semi-final honors.

The victors battered the invaders through three bruising periods; completely outclassing them at all stages. Bathurst was helpless before the onslaughts of the Moncton attackers, and wilted under the barrage of rubber which buried their hopes for a provincial championship.

The Maroons will meet the Abbies here Monday night in the first game of the two game total goal round of the Maritime semi-finals. The second game will be played at Charlottetown Friday night.

Only in the second period of tonight's encounter did the Papermakers show signs of life. Despite the fact that their defence was wide open and the raids of the Maroons had their goalie, White, working overtime the Papermaker's efforts were rewarded and three of their four goals came in the session.

Maroons went to work from the opening gong and after a weak shot on the Moncton goal by a Papermaker, they rushed into Bathurst's defence zone and livened the proceedings.

Second Period

The second session supplied eight goals, three for the Papermakers and five for the maroons. Chapman nailed a pass from Carroll following the faceoff and picked his spot to drill the nets. White had no chance on save. 'Moose' LeBlanc came back with two beautiful counters, the first alone when he took a shot from the side that White barely saw and the second on an assist from Carroll. The second shot was but five feet out and had the Bathurst goalie beaten all the way.

In the third the Papermakers wilted miserably. For some time they confined the game to the old pastime of 'shinny.' They could do nothing right and their defence was split wide open as the Maroons rode in to sink eight goals while Clint Gammon collected the fourth and last score for Bathurst.

ANNOUNCE DATES ANNUAL QUEBEC GOLF TOURNEY

MONTREAL, March 5—The Province of Quebec Golf Association for this summer. William D. Taylor, honorary secretary, announced the dates and most of the courses for his association championships and tournaments yesterday after the list had been approved at a luncheon meeting.

Laval-sur-le-Lac will be the venue of one of the most interesting events of the P.Q.G.A. competitive calendar this summer. The Lesley Cup matches, an international event, will be held over this club's picturesque course for the first time in four years. It is a two-day affair and takes place on September 18 and 19.

Another major event to be held over a course affiliated with the provincial association is the Canadian Amateur at the Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club from Monday to Saturday, inclusive, July 26 to 31. The interprovincial matches will be held in conjunction with the amateur.

The season here commences one week later than usual with a start being made with the invitation Saturday, June 12, over a course to be announced later. Last year the Spring tournament was combined for the first time to include both the open amateur and this policy will be followed this summer.

Provincial Tourney

The provincial amateur championship will be played July 15, 16 and 17 over a course yet to be selected, and like last year will be decided by match play. As this event is being held prior to the Canadian amateur, local golfers will be given an excellent opportunity of tuning up their play for the Dominion classic. It should serve as an excellent conditioner. Play in the Quebec Open is slated for Friday, August 13. No course has yet been selected for this tournament.

The association will make a strong effort to have the Metropolitan district well represented in the Metropolital Trophy competition at Royal Montreal on August 6, 7 and 8.

17 YEAR OLD SCHOOLBOY MOST TALKED OF PLAYER IN BEES' CAMP

Harry Kahre Displays Unusual Hitting and Pitching Ability

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 6—A 17-year-old schoolboy is the most talked of player in the Bees' camp today. He is Harry Kahre, a young infielder, who possesses a rifle arm and ability to hit.

In camp only three days and hardly in condition to keep pace with the rest of the squad, Harry displayed both—his arm and his hitting ability—to the delight of some 2,000 spectators at Waterfront Park, and, more important, to the satisfaction of grimvisaged Will McKechnie.

Kahre was easily the most potent batter in the 1 1-2-hour batting drill, despite the fact that the pitchers, Bobby Smith, Big Bill Ford, Lefty Bill Perrin, Ira Hutchinson, Loi Wette, Truett Sewell and Ray Chamberlain, reacting to the stimulus of a warm sun, were breaking curves for the first time.

Not Steady At Short

In the field, playing shortstop, Kahre was not so steady, which may have been due to his lack of condition. Yet his rifle-arm had even the heavily-gloved flinching in fielding practice, and it was noticeable that McKechnie hovered over him, uttering murmured instructions, which were inaudible on the sidelines.

Kahre has completed only two years of high school in St. Louis, where he played semi-pro ball in the Municipal League. He intends to complete his education, but it appears McKechnie has other plans for him, and it may take the youngster several semesters to win his diploma.

"That boy," said McKechnie within the privacy of the club-house, "is almost certainly a Major League prospect. He can hit, which is the most important thing of all. In fact, he's been a home run hitter ever since he began to play baseball.

"He'll have to be farmed out, of course. But he's young, so he can start right at the bottom, probably at Columbia.

"We'll see what he can do there—and bring him along slowly."

School In Off Season

So it seems, Kahre, like Bob Feller, the 18-year-old Cleveland fire-baller, will see the inside of the school room only during the off season.

Just how the youngster escaped the far-reaching tentacles of the St. Louis chain-gang is not known. But he reported to the Bees at Sportsman's Park last summer and asked for a tryout.

And since he was a sizeable lad, despite his apparent youth, tall and rangy, with long dangling arms, he was given a uniform.

After one brief workout he was told to report at St. Petersburg in the spring, and here he is, apparently to stay.

Physically, Kahre is a counterpart of Red Rolfe, former Dartmouth star, and N. Y. Yankees star. . . . Once the Bees passed up an opportunity to sign Rolfe. . . . But, perhaps, they have another Rolfe in Kahre. Today's practice was the most satisfactory to date. . . . The weather has improved. . . . And the players simply raced through 2 1-2 hours from 11 to 1:30 o'clock. . . . John Reis, brother of Bobby, hit the longest fence shot of the day, to the scoreboard in left field off Ira Hutchinson. . . . Although Hutchinson was repeatedly too fast for the batters.

Now Dean Says He'll Lay Off Game for Year

DALLAS, March 5—Dizzy Dean's latest: "I'm laying out of base ball this year; I'm tired of all the publicity."

The ace right-handed pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals thus expressed his mood yesterday as he boarded a train for his Bradenton, Fla., home.

"You can just say I'm laying out of base ball this year," he said, "and that's final and definite. I've made up my mind. I'm not asking the Cardinals for $50,000 or any other salary this year and I won't play ball for anybody regardless of salary.

"I'm tired of all the publicity that has gone out about my base ball status and I'm going home and take life easy for the rest of the year."

Samuel Breadon, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, last night would make no comment on Dizzy Dean's announcement that "I'm laying out of base ball this year."

"I have nothing to say," was the reply to questions by Breadon.

EXHIBIT READY AS SPORTSMEN'S SHOW IS OPENED

HARTFORD, Conn., March 6—Assembling of the New Brunswick exhibit in preparation for the Connecticut Sportsmen's and Boat Show had been completed well in advance when the doors opened on the woodland creation at the State Armory here today.

A position flanking the main entrance to the Armory building has been assigned to the New Brunswick unit and from this point of vantage the boys in attendance will easily capture their share of attention for the Province next door to Maine. The layout again utilizes the log cabin, the tank of live game fish, the miniature brook, the mounted animals and many other objects of outdoor interest used in both the Boston and the New York stands earlier in the winter. The little bear, gaining daily in weight and popularity, will again be much in evidence. The New Brunswick properties were first on the floor of the Armory and the accompanying guides, under the direction of D. W. Griffiths, director of the Bureau of Information and Tourist Travel, followed up their advantage to the full and began immediately with the work of assembling their material.

During the New York engagement, it is estimated by the Campbell-Fairbanks Expositions, under whose management the Sportsmen's Shows are held, that upward of 300,000 paid admissions were recorded during the ten exhibition days. Probably the greatest daily grosses were clicked off during the week-end which terminated in the public holiday commemorating Washington's birthday, Monday, February 22nd. A heavy gate also marked the final day of the Gotham stand, Saturday, February 27.

After a successful ten day stand in New York, the New Brunswick exhibit was completely dismantled by noon on Sunday, February 28th, and on the following day was loaded out of Grand Central Terminal for Hartford.

Here in the Insurance City, the Sportsmen's Show assumes the atmosphere of a community event. The dates, March 6th to 13th, are well advertised and the appearance of the guides, many of whom are already familiar figures here, stimulates plenty of local interest. In hotels, restaurants and other public places the boys with the mackinaw jackets are greeted:

'Oh! yes, you were showing over in the Armory just before the flood last spring."

On each such repetition the answer was: "We snowed there during a flood—of questions. But we managed to stem it. Now we are back again for more."

ROYALS WIN BRIER TROPHY

TORONTO, March 5—Canadian curling supremacy was wrested from Manitoba today with considerable flourish by Cliff Manahan's Edmonton Royals, a newly-assembled unit guided by the maestro who last won the Macdonald's Brier Tankard in 1933.

In a playoff for the championship, the Alberta rink humbled Jimmy Welsh's Winnipeg Deer Lodge titleholders 19-7. Far below the form they showed in winning eight of nine bonspiel matches to tie with Alberta for the leadership, the Welsh curlers were outclassed.

The customary accuracy of Manitoba's sniping was absent as Manahan assumed control of the first end. While 27-year-old Jimmy himself made brilliant recoveries, the support of his rink wavered in the crisis. Towards the finish an amateurish inefficiency prevailed.

Astounding Reverse

The astonishing reversal of form, causing a playoff without thrills for one of the biggest galleries in Macdonald's Brier history, closed out a week of curling in which the West's traditional superiority was maintained. Only twice in 11 years has the east produced a winner.

Manahan became the second skip to hold two victories in the classic bonspiel, won in 1928 and 1929 by Gordon Hudson of Winnipeg Strataconas. In seven of the 11 years, Manitoba rinks won. Last year it was a quartet skipped by Ken Watson of the Strathcona Club.

Score by ends:

Manitoba	001	010	202	201	—	9
Alberta	320	305	040	110	—	19

John P. MacDougall, president of the Central Hockey Section M.A.A.A. received word today from President Hanson Dowell, delegating him to look after the interests of the M.A.H.A. in all the remaining games of the junior playdowns that will be held in Amherst.

Third baseman Robert "Red" Rolfe today signed an $11,000 New York Yankee contract and reduced Col. Jacob Ruppert's little holdout drama to its inevitable crises. Gehrig and Dimaggio are due there Monday.

PERRY'S FORTUNES RISE ON PRO TOUR

MONTREAL, March 5—When Fred Perry reckons up his financial status at the end of the current barnstorming campaign he will have no cause to regret his desertion of the amateur branch of lawn tennis.

Indeed, right now he does not resemble as he glances over his bank book. In his first five weeks as a professional, he earned $30,000 and, last week, in southern California, he picked up an additional $5,000, which is good money even for a bright young man with plenty of personal color and a gift for lawn tennis.

Working on a 37½ per cent. of the money which his sponsors, the Tennis Enterprise, Inc., receives as its share of the proceeds from the matches between Perry and Ellsworth Vines, it is estimated that, when the present touring season is ended, the former world's champion will have come close to amassing the sum of $50,000. Vines, reported to be working on a 12½ per cent. basis, is adding materially to the small fortune he has already banked.

From an excellent judge of tennis form in Los Angeles, the writer receives work that no doubt exists in his mind as to the good faith of the two eminent racket-wielders in their contests. Both men, he says, are obviously highly-keyed for competition and both realize that supremacy of one over the other means money. They are, he thinks, very evenly matched.

Tennis enthusiasts on the west coast, some of them at least, were at first inclined to believe that the two players were juggling victory and defeat; but few, if any, believe this now. Vines, himself, when questioned of this score, took a judicial rather than irritable attitude.

"Why should I throw a match?" he asked. "And why should Fred? Both of us have too much at stake to do any tampering with out matches.

"Both of us realize that we have at least two more seasons of competition and that the one that holds the edge will get top billing and, as a consequence, more money. So far as I am concerned, if I don't stay out in front with Fred, I shall be gradually eased out of the top-flight professional picture just as is beginning to happen to Bill Tilden."

Vines is at present leading Perry by eleven matches to ten in the closely-waged series.

Incidentally, Vines at the present time has about $75,000 banked in Los Angeles.

New Brunswick Booth Attracts Large Crowds, Sportsmens Show, N. Y.

Thousands Comment On Attractiveness of N. B. Exhibit

(By Ray Buff, Rod & Gun Editor, Brooklyn Daily Eagle)

Huge throngs, flocking to the National Sportsmen's Show in Grand Central Palace, New York, have been crowding daily around the New Brunswick exhibit which has been one of the outstanding hits of the 10-day event. The Show itself has been one of the most successful in history, with an all-time record attendance of close to 300,000 people.

The New Brunswick display, where typical outdoor scenes of that Canadian Province have been recreated, midst genuine outdoor atmosphere, is drawing excited comments from thousands attending the afternoon and evening sessions. Visitors, inspecting the exhibit from one end to the other, are figuratively taken on a tour of the main fishing and hunting sections of the province and, as a result, many New Yorkers who may not before have considered its extensive facilities for sport and outdoor recreation are now planning sojourns this spring, summer and fall to the province.

Beginning with the log cabin set at one end and going through the remainder of the colorful array at the exhibit, the invigorating atmosphere of the New Brunswick wilds and woodlands has literally been transported hundreds of miles and is presented in as natural a fashion as man can make it to the New York City dwellers who constitute the greatest tourist market on the Continent.

The seven-months-old live bear cub has prompted many inquiries concerning the bear hunting in New Brunswick. Many sportsmen, learning that the Province is waiving its customary non-resident license fee on bear for April, May and June of this year, have indicated their intentions of taking advantage of the opportunity to go gunning for Mr. Bruin in the province during that period. According to D. W. Griffiths, director of the Provincial Government's Tourist Information Bureau, who is directing the exhibit, the fact that the usual license fee will not be charged during those three months as been enthusiastically received and, it is expected, will result in many New York sportsmen taking a crack at other game and some of the angling when they go to New Brunswick for their bear this year.

The motion pictures being shown almost continously at the exhibit have introduced New Brunswick's famous salmon fishing to many New Yorkers for the first time. Large crowds are assembled during almost every moment of their showing.

The mounted white otter is the cynosure of many eyes from its point of vantage alongside the tank where the live salmon and trout swim about in a natural setting. These features naturally excite many questions and the guides stationed at the exhibit have been kept busy supply information about the Miramichi, Restigouche, Upsalquitch, Nepisiguit, Cains, Tobique and St. John Rivers. The fact that New Brunswick has both Atlantic sea run salmon and land-locked variety is also proving to be a great inducement to sportsmen now contemplating vacations spent at angling.

One of the outstanding hits is being scored at the exhibit by the live silver fox brought down from the estate of Lowell Thomas, noted author, explorer and radio commentator, especially with New York feminine population, most of whom are limited in their experience with silver foxes to the fact that that's the kind of fur they insist upon having when hubby feels generous and wants to present wifey with a gift.

The presence of the New Brunswick guides, who are defraying their own expenses at the Show, has proven of great importance in acquainting local sportsmen with the type of courtesy, service and knowledge of the outdoors which they will find in New Brunswick. Their colorful tales of trout and salmon fishing to the assembled anglers and narrations on hunting have found extremely interested audiences. They have also been the means of creating considerable favorable publicity in the New York press through their participation in performances at the big tank which is part of the Show.

Visitors to the exhibit were also told of New Brunswick's plan to open the new ninety-mile road between Plaster Rock on the Tobique and Quarryville on the Miramichi, which will make accessible miles of what heretofore has been practically virgin fishing and hunting territory.

With that class of sportsmen, who operate on a limited budget the $5 7-day license for the family has proven popular. The recent reduction in the season license from $25 to $15 and the inclusion of the family should be an added incentive for sports anglers to prolong their stay in the province. This reduction was recently announced by Hon. F. W. Pirie, Minister of Lands and Mines for New Brunswick. Many sportsmen likewise were surprised to learn that the $10 fall hunting license in effect from September 15th to November 30th entitles them to two deer in addition to two bear whereas in many of the eastern States the non-resident must pay anywhere from $5 to $15 and is entitled to only one of these much sought after game animals.

U.N.B. CAGERS TIE LOYALIST SQUAD HERE

Phil Trainor's red and black clad hoopsters tied the Saint John Intermediate squad at the college gym last evening in a hard-fought game, which ended 30-30. The game throughout was closely contested, and both teams threw up a stubborn defence, while their aerial attacks were clicking to perfection. The main cogs in the U. N. B. machine were Corbett, lanky guard, and "Scotty" Donaldson, who lined up with the U.N.B. quintet for the first time this season. The Loyalist stars were Tait, Ralston and Patterson.

Cameron, U.N.B., scored on a penalty, and then Patterson, Saint John, sunk his half of a double foul, Donaldson scored on a beautiful long shot, and a rally by the down river quintet brought their tally up to eight, but U.N.B. tied the score with another penalty as the half ended.

Second Half

Patterson sunk one to open the second half, but U. N. B. countered to tally three points. The locals turned on the heat but Saint John came back, Patterson putting one in, as did Cramm a few seconds later.

After a score each by Malcolm and Donaldson, Gale Currie sank a lovely one arm shot, followed by a Currie to Donaldson combination, under the basket. Another shot and a penalty put Saint John in the lead, but Murray produced the equalizer.

Cameron tallied two, and then Ralston scored after U. N. B. lost the ball for travelling. Murray to Cameron accounted for another. The play went back and forth for a time, neither team being able to find the basket until Ralston again tallied. After time out to Saint John both Patterson and Donaldson scored.

Several penalties were called in the last minute of play, U. N. B. and Saint John both scoring once. Patterson and Ralston then scored, but Cameron took Donaldson's rebound to pop the ball in from under the basket to tie the score 30 all as the final whistle blew.

Lineups:

1934 Club (Saint John)—Ralston, f, 11; Patterson, f, 6; Macdonald, f, 1; Tait (Capt.), c, 7; Malcolm, g, 2; Ivany, g, 0; Cramm, g, 3.

U. N. B—Smith, f, 3; Cameron, f, 12; Donaldson, f, 10; Gale Currie, f, 2; Corbett (Capt.), c, 0; Bell, g, 1; Murray, g, 2; Harris, g, 0.

Referee, Lawrence Hashey, Fredericton.

MOOT FORMATION BASEBALL GROUP

AMHERST, N. S., March 5—Formation of a Maritime Baseball Association on lines followed by the Maritime Hockey Association is now being advocated by a number of leading sportsmen in Cumberland. The proposal has already been presented to A. J. Mason of Springhill, president of the Nova Scotia Baseball Association with the suggestion that he take up the matter with William Whitlock of St. Stephen, president of the New Brunswick Baseball Association, as well as interested sportsmen in Prince Edward Island.

Under present conditions baseball is governed by provincial associations and the Maritime Provinces Branch of the A.A.U. of C. has no control of the sport with the exception of issuing amateur cards until the actual playdowns for a Maritime championship get underway. It has been expressed that a Maritime baseball association would solve a number of difficulties that have existed in connection with playdowns in past years.
