

TRAILER PARTY VISIT CAPITAL

Are Enjoying Outing at Cain's River

Traveling by automobile all the way from Oxnard, Southern California, and living with his wife and his mother-in-law in a trailer for over six weeks, was the experience of W. Roy Guyer, a rugged middle aged man, who was among the visitors to the capital this week. As a fitting climax to the long, long trail, the California male visitor spent three days fishing for salmon on the Miramichi River with Charles and Edgar Wade as guides, and made a good catch, including one fish that weighed 15 pounds. Mr. Guyer reached Fredericton on Monday morning with his rather spectacular outfit, and he joined the lady members of the party, who had remained during his fishing trip.

Mr. Guyer set out from his home at Oxnard on March 24, and proceeded over the southern route to Florida, making side trips to points of special interest. He arrived in Fredericton on Tuesday last, and on the following day proceeded to Saint John, where the party witnessed the coronation celebration and listened in on the radio broadcast. Returning to Fredericton on Wednesday evening he left his companions here and set out early next morning for the Mouth of Cain's River near Blackville, where the guides had made all arrangements for his fishing trip.

"I have fished salmon," he said, "on the Pacific coast, but never before have I indulged in the sport from a canoe. I found it rather ticklish work at first. In the excitement of hooking and landing fighting Atlantic salmon, I soon forgot everything else for the time being."

Mr. Guyer is a retired contractor, and having got rid of business cares he plans to enjoy life from now on. "This is sort of exploration trip," he said in an interview, "and they tell me that I made the mistake of coming a little too early to see your province at its best. I am planning to

SPRING MAGIC

If we are not subdued by city strife,
The pageant of the spring is ever dear,
And if our eyes are keen and ears attune
We catch the magic splendor of the year.

An air-borne whisper from some open glade,
An echo faint from brooks released and free,
A cloudlet floating buoyantly on high
The robin carol from a nearby tree.

Soon we shall find the violet's mossy bed,
And in the orchards see the pink cascade
Of petals, falling from the apple trees
In neighboring fields the fallows freshly made.

At eventide when purple shadows fall
And benediction hovers on the air,
We sense the mystery of life and death,
Then truly we are chastened into prayer.

—Mary Margaret Baird.

come back next year, indulge in some salmon fishing, see the rest of your beautiful province, make a circuit of the Gaspe Peninsula and also visit Nova Scotia."

Mr. Guyer stated that since leaving home he had covered a distance of 7,000 miles. He intends returning by way of Quebec and other Canadian provinces, and in the fall will go north from California to Vancouver Island to try his luck with Chinook salmon.

In commenting on New Brunswick roads, Mr. Guyer said that he had found them generally in good condition for travel by what he called his "gypsy caravan." "I have greatly enjoyed my stay in New Brunswick, and, I guess you will see me again next year," he said in conclusion.

HIGH PERCENTAGE IN ASSAYS FROM NIGADOO MINES

Expect Stock Will Be On Market in Short
Time

The Nigadoo Gold Mines in Northern New Brunswick have shown assays from "Trace" to $23.10 per ton of ore, said Wilfred N. DeGrace, Bathurst, interviewed at the Queen Hotel last evening.

Mr. DeGrace, who has prospected in this area of New Brunswick for the past twelve years, and who discovered the first vein on this property years ago, is now foreman of the operation and very enthusiastic over the showing of the locality so far. From the drilling operations which were carried on all last summer, and were begun again in April this year, five different prospects have been discovered, all showing a favorable assay.

Drilling equipment is on the site, under the supervision of Oscar Dowsley, drilling expert of years experience in the Northern Ontario mines. The drills, under his guidance, are drilling from 50 to 150 feet per day, with three eight hour shifts. These drills cutting into the core of the earth at about 1,500 revolutions per minute, push up an inch-and-a-half core of sample material.

Dykes Found

The strata in the different prospects is of different varieties. Much of the strata is greenish-grey sediment of the Silurian age, while many Quartz-Feldspar-Porphry dykes have been found. On the west of the operation is found much rock of Granite formation.

The claims of the Nigadoo Syndicate, which owns the property, stretch on both the North and South banks of the Nigadoo river, and the gold bearing formations run in this direction.

On the property, is also found what is called "The Old Silver Mine." This mine, discovered some 60 years ago, but never worked, has, according to official records shown assays yielding as high as $143.00 per ton, in silver and lead. No assay has been taken for silver since, but surface samples of ore from this mine, when assayed for gold, showed a figure of $32.90 per ton. The vein on which this shaft is sunk is nearly 20 feet wide.

To Receive Charter

A charter is being given the company, and it is expected that Nigadoo Mining stock will be on the market within a short time. Although no definite figure is set, it is expected that three and one half million shares will be sold, at the initial price of $35.00 per hundred shares.

The Nigadoo river will be dammed, about two and one half miles above the claims to supply power for the mill which will be purchased to refine the ore. This is one more fortunate circumstance in connection with this mine. At this point, the river flows through a gorge 120 feet deep, making an ideal locality for a power dam. This site has been surveyed, and is ready for construction as soon as the funds are raised.

These mines are situated on a ridge which runs through the greater length of the province, and the Nigadoo mines may well be ushering in a new era in the history of the province. The highest point in the lumbering era has been passed. Is the mining era now entering to fill its place?

Expect Arrangements

ers doing business in the Province. Deposits may be required when necessary, and provision is made for reciprocal arrangements with other Provinces as to the administration of deposits held in other Provinces. The provisions as to reciprocal deposits are new in New Brunswick. Part III deals generally with the provisions of insurance contracts in New Brunswick and Parts IV, V, VI, VII, VIII and IX contain the statutory conditions and other requirements of policies for the different classes of insurance such as life, accident and sickness, fire, automobile, etc.

The next four parts deal with the regulation of different types of insurer, Fraternal Societies, Mutual Benefit Societies, Provincial Mutual Companies (commonly known as farm mutuals) and Reciprocal or Inter-insurance exchanges. Part XIV provides for the amalgamation of companies and re-insurance.

Part XV provides for the licensing and regulation of agents, brokers and adjusters. The insurance fraternity have shown greater interest in Part XV than in any other section of the Act and in this respect there has been a marked change from previous legislation in New Brunswick although most of the provisions have been in effect in other Provinces for many years. No person may act as an insurance agent without a license from the Superintendent of Insurance. The Superintendent or a rejected applicant may refer an application to an Advisory Board. The Board will consist of representatives of insurers, a representative of agents and a representative of the Superintendent and the Board will advise and recommend on any application referred to it. The Advisory Board principle has been used in Ontario for many years with great satisfaction. Provincial insurance representatives welcomed its adoption in New Brunswick. Brokers and adjusters will be licensed and regulated under the new Act.
