BRIGHT LIGHTS KEEP AWAY BURGLARS

Home Dwellers Leaving on Vacations Advised Not to Advertise the Vacant House

This is the season of the year when some good advice should be taken on the subject of protecting homes when owners close up the places and flee the summer heat for the seashore or the mountains. Don't telegraph all the burglars and house breakers of your territory that you have gone away and that the home is vacant. If you do you will return and probably find your valuables have been moved out and that the police have no idea who did the job. William D. Clark, an expert in the burglary insurance field has this to say on the subject:

The average citizen rather prides himself on his shrewdness in guarding his family possessions and protecting them from marauders, and yet, though he would scoff at the fellow who buried his hard-earned bankroll in a tin can in the backyard instead of putting his cash in a sound bank, he is apt to be equally foolish when planning to leave his home for an extended period.

He locks the doors, makes sure the window catches are all latched and carefully pulls down the window shades to shield the interior of his home or apartment from prying eyes.
Yet those drawn window shades are as good as a telegram to the vigilant eyes of the prowler seeking a likely spot for a raid. They fairly shriek that the people who dwell in that abode are away and that he is free to roam the premises unmolested and safe from surprise.

And that isn't all. Mr. Average Citizen forgets to stop the newspaper or the milk delivery, and as a result the pile of newspapers and milk bottles at his doorway proclaims the family's absence as boldly as a full-page advertisement to sharp-eyed individuals who are alert to just such signals. As for the ordinary window fastener, it is a good deal of a joke to the professional prowler. Sash pins are vitally necessary on all windows that are easy of access from outside.

Losses due to burglaries in private residences and two-family houses during the year for which latest figures are available totalled $1,011,000 for those insurance companies reporting to the National Bureau. Other insured losses and the termi-dous volume of uninsured losses by burglary multiply this amount many times, supplying ample evidence that householders are not careful enough in guarding their possessions.

Now that Mr. Clark has told some of the things house dwellers should take heed of, he also gives some good advice on the care with which they should close the house for the summer. He says:

"Precautions are very essential in large communities, and one of them is substantial deadlocks for all doors —springlocks offer slight resistance to thieves. Install window fasteners of approved design—the sort that cannot be easily opened. Valuables should never be left in the house when the family is absent for any long period. Don't draw window shades and thus advertise an empty house. Just before departing make a final check to see that all safety devices are functioning. Finally notify the police of your departure and likewise of your return. Should a burglary or theft be discovered then or at any other time, the police should be notified at once.

If you live up to the advice given you will probably return from your vacation to find everything in your home intact.

One Flatbush family moved to the Westchester Hills for the summer only to find after being absent two days evidence that somebody had tried to jimmy into the house. Thoroughly alarmed, the owner reported the incident to the police and they promised they would keep an eye on the eighteen-room dwelling which housed really valuable things. But that did not satisfy the owner, so he returned to the house and turned on every electric light in the house.
Then he went to the street and surveyed the structure. It looked as if it was tenanted, all right, and he returned to Westchester. He made two visits and found everything fine.
When he got his electric bill for the month it was pretty heavy, but Mr.
Owner was content that it was fairly reasonable theft insurance after all.

SINGLE GIRLS WHO
ENJOY CAR RIDES
ARE SINNING

REGINA, July 2 — "The girl who puts her foot on the running-board of an automobile today commits mortal sin," Father P. F. Hughes warned members of his congregation at a Sunday service.

"The girl of 25 years ago would not dare be seen out riding in a horse and buggy with a young man unless they were engaged to be married, especially at all hours of the night. A girl who did that was just out, that's all. She was looked down upon by the whole community. But today no one seems to care," he said.
Car rides and "parking" were criticized also.

Catholic young people had no right to dance modern dances. They were impure, he said in his sermon. They were animal dances.

He was of the opinion the only solution was segregation of sexes as in the old days in Quebec.

RATS WARN OF MINE CAVE-INS

ROY, Mont., July 2 — There is a bounty on rats in some western cities, but not at Zortman mining community.

There they are credited with frequently saving men from injury or death.

The mines are in a soft formation and cave-ins are common. Hundreds of rats live underground and, through some faculty, know before the men do that a cave-in is about to occur.

When the miners see the rats running, they run in the same direction.
Invariably there is a cave-in within a few minutes in the place from which the rats ran.

GRASSHOPPER HAS
REVENGE ON BOY
TORMENTORS

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, July 1—A flaming grasshopper, set afire by two small boys, turned on its tormentors today, sent on to hospital and the other to his home suffering from burns.

Authorities said the boys, Walter Rude, 9, and Clifford Snipes, 8, partially embedded the grasshopper in putty and poured gasoline on it, meantime carelessly drenching their clothes.

They applied a match to the grasshopper. In flames, it leaped into the air, first landing on Walter and then on Clifford.

Walter was burned severely and taken to hospital.

ROBBED AND PUT ON TRAIN

NEW YORK, July 1—Masse Mc-Grini, a 27-year-old messenger employ-was carrying $700 along Broad Street today when, he told police, two strangers fell in step beside him and produced him suggestively in the ribs.

They walked him down into a sub-through the turnstiles, took the $700 away from him, placed him on a train just as the doors were closing, and waved him good-bye.

OLD FARMERS

Bunch of Johnsville and W. R. Carter of Selden. Each has farmed in Erath country more than half a century. For the first time the aged men are terracing their land, explaining that "when we came here over 50 years ago we shared the belief our farms would outlive us. Not so. We find it necessary to rebuild our soil."

The three veterans are using their own machinery in the terracing. Each is an active "farm hand."
