time she made a list of the weapons that would be needed, including an axe, a knife, scissors and gasoline.

Saturday morning Christie picked her and the children up in his car and drove them to Brookhaven, Long Island, where the wounded boy and the body of his sister were found on Sunday.

There, in the woods, the mother held the girl while Christie hit her with the hatchet. Then the mother used the knife to slash both the girl and the boy, who was not struck with the hatchet.

Deputy Chief Inspector Francis K. Kear, who announced the first story said the mother at first asserted she and the children were attacked by a strange man, as they munched a box lunch in the woodlands 65 miles from New York city.

"Then she told me she committed the acts because she was in love with a man, but couldn't accommodate both him and the children in the small flat the family lived in," the inspector said. Mrs. Tiernan was formally charged with homicide.

Mrs. Tiernan was seized as she went to a day nursery to report she had left her children with her brother in Bergenfield, N. J. A short time later, while Mrs. Tiernan was reciting her alleged confession at the police station near where she lived, police brought a man into the station. They said he was Geo. Christie and investigator Harvey Morris of the Suffolk County district attorney's office, said he admitted being the woman's 'boy friend.'

Jimmy's story from his hospital bed and recognition of his photograph by officials of the day nursery where he had been left while his

NOT WHAT THEY WERE

Where are all the secrets, all the magic arts?
Why were lips like coral, cheeks like June's first rose?
Where is all the mystery that stirred our hearts
Before we saw her powdering her nose?

Gone the fascination of the clustering curls!
Yesterday's illusion is, alas! dispelled,
Now that we've discovered how these golden girls
Are water waved and hennaed and marcelled!

Beauty isn't guarded at milady's door
As in times when utter ignorance was bliss!
After Love's mad moment we remember more
The flavor of the lipstick than the kiss!

mother worked led police to order Mrs. Tiernan's arrest.
Investigator Morris said Mrs. Tiernan was shaken when told of her son's statement that he saw her strike and cut his sister, and then in turn attacked him.

"Everything James said is the truth," Morris quoted her as saying. Then he said, "Mrs. Tiernan admitted everything."

She said she first cut the throat of her daughter and then attacked her son, he said.

Mrs. Tiernan said she took the children to Brookhaven Sunday morning, he said. "She had with her a small bottle of gasoline which she threw over the bodies of the children after she killed the daughter and cut her son's throat."

Morris said that after covering the bodies of her children with leaves and setting them afire, Mrs. Tiernan went to Jones Beach, a third of the way to New York on the south shore of Long Island. There, according to Morris, she met her 'boy friend.'

"I met George at Jones Beach," Morris quoted her. "We stayed at the beach until night when he returned to New York."

A Brookhaven high school girl, walking through the woods to her home, stumbled over the dead girl's body. Frightened, she ran for aid, and searching officers found Jimmy, his throat cut and his head bruised. Jimmy was reported out of danger tonight.

company offices, immigration offices, pilot rooms and other quarters.

To the north of this will be installed gasoline tanks capable of holding 5,000 gallons of gasoline, and, opposite the building, floats, 20 by 30 feet, will support gang planks and give access to the wharf from the pontoons at which the planes will come to rest. Also there will be drum-float moorings for six planes, which will be stretched between Shediac and Point du Chene.

The stone fill contract was awarded to Fred Murphy, Shediac, and a contract for the pontoons and float to Severin Richard, Shediac, but building contracts have not been let yet.

Homestead Inn Tea Room

(Open in Few Days)

Fredericton's newest residential hotel, "The Homestead Inn," situated at the corner of Brunswick and York Streets is now open for guests. Formerly the palatial home of the VanBuskirk family here, the new hostelry is ideally situated in the heart of the residential district and provides high-class accommodations for permanent and transient guests. Established mainly as a tourist hotel the "Homestead Inn" will cater to the various classes of hotel trade. Commercial men will find it an ideal stopping place while other guests will also find the cuisine and accommodations most satisfactory.

Mrs. Isobel MacMurdo is operating the new establishment and she is familiar with the art of catering to the public and there is little doubt but that the Homestead Inn will be one of the most popular residential hotels in this section of the province.

A tearoom will be operated in conjunction with the hotel. It will chiefly cater to private parties and will likely be the scene of many enjoyable functions during the coming months. Miss Kay Troy, who is well known among the younger set in Fredericton, will be in charge of the tearoom. Mrs. MacMurdo will be assisted by Miss Margaret MacMurdo. Although the hotel is now open for guests, the tearoom will not be ready for operation for several days. The opening announcement will be made later.

Doherty—Arnold

A wedding of interest to friends here and at Victoria Mills was solemnized this morning at nine o'clock at St. Dunstan's church when Rev. Father McDonald united in marriage Miss Madeline Marie Arnold of Barker's Point and John Joseph Doherty son of Mr. and Mrs. John Doherty of Victoria Mills.

The bride was gown in grey crepe with blue hat and accessories to match and she carried a bouquet of roses and maidenhair ferns. The bridesmaid wore a gown of blue crepe with blue accessories and carried a bouquet of roses. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. James Murray.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom's parents. The dining room was beautifully decorated with flowers and white ribbon hung from the chandeliers to the four corners of the table. The bride's table was centred with a four-tier wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom. The bride and groom were the recipients of many useful gifts. A wedding reception will be held at St. Margaret's Hall Victoria Mills this evening. Dancing and cards will be enjoyed by the young people and Douglas Milligan and Arthur Gordon will provide the music.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doherty will reside in Fredericton where the groom is stationed with the Valley Motors.

CANADIANS AND THEIR INDUSTRIES...AND THEIR BANK

THE FOREST INDUSTRIES

The forest area of Canada on which there is timber of merchantable size is larger than the total area of France and Germany combined, the standing timber on this is estimated at 274 billion cubic feet. An area of even greater extent is covered with young growth.

This vast reservoir of wood is the source from which Canada drew wealth in excess of $110,000,000 in 1934 (the latest figures available) in the form of primary products such as:

- raw material for saw-mills, pulp mills, wood distillation, charcoal plants;
- logs, pulpwood, bolts, etc., for export;
- firewood, railroad ties, posts, poles, fence rails, mining timbers;
- maple sugar, balsam gum, resin, cascara, tanbark, moss, etc.

The total value of manufactured products made principally from raw materials of forest origin was $404,435,948. Forest products in 1936 afforded an excess of exports over imports—$158,560,000—very important to Canada's international trade.

The Bank of Montreal has co-operated with every activity of the forest industries—assisting in every phase of production and marketing. The Bank has had the privilege of financing a large share of the export business of these industries. Thousands of workers are depositors, sharing in the safety and facilities of the Bank with their employing companies.

Some of the Bank's services most frequently used by employers and employees in the forest trades: Commercial accounts, foreign currency accounts; financing of shipments; commercial loans and discounts, collections; trade and credit information, safekeeping of securities; savings accounts; personal loans, money orders; travellers' cheques; banking by mail.
