FREDERICTON, TUESDAY, JANUARY 19, 1937

Miss Beverly's Work

Those who are aware of the excellent work done through the years by Miss Jeanette Beverly in connection with the S.P.C.A. organization in this city will appreciate the honor paid to her at the annual meeting last evening. Miss Beverly has been untiring in her efforts to prevent the cruelty of animals in this city. Miss Beverly is one of the founders of the Fredericton branch of this excellent organization. She has given her energy, her time and her means to promote its interests. In a large measure the society's success in this city is due to Miss Beverly.

Social Service Work

The reports that were heard last evening at the annual meeting of the Social Service Council showed that a tremendous amount of charitable work had been done throughout the year. The various organizations of the city presented reports which proved co-operation and practically absence of overlapping in this work of benevolence. Previous to the receiving of the reports some constructive discussion took place and committees were appointed to look into matters of interest to less-favored members of the community. The matter of subnormal youths and the providing of suitable shelter for public transients was also considered and further thought will be given to these matters.

Truly the reports and discussions showed a treasury of good works done in the community by men and women for the welfare of others.

The Journal is Funny

A few days ago The Daily Mail took occasion to criticize The Ottawa Journal for a slap which it thought necessary to take at New Brunswick and at our Minister of Federal Affairs. The Ottawa Journal editor appears to be quite funny and full of sarcasm. Under the heading "This Paper is Slapped," he says:

"Just because this peaceable family journal offered a few mild comments upon a statement by a New Brunswick Minister that his province wasn't going to 'recognize Confederation,' the Fredericton Mail rises up in a white wrath and all but challenges us to a duel. In an editorial almost as long and broad as Fredericton itself, The Mail says our mind is distorted, that we're just plain ignorant, and that we write as though we had a 'hangover,' or had 'just returned from a prizefight.'"

"Well (this is the second time we've made this vow) after this we're off the Maritimes. A few years ago we offered our sage advice to Nova Scotia about something, whereupon Senator Dennis' Herald fell upon us and remained there for months on end. From now on, therefore, we're going to leave the Maritimes to their own devices. If we have to write about New Brunswick it will be merely to point out that the St. John river is the 'Rhine of America'; that Saint John itself is the 'Liverpool of Canada'; that fog is unknown in the Bay of Fundy; that New Brunswick is a mighty mother of potatoes; and that Fredericton is Canada's loveliest city. Also, of course, we shan't forget the famous 'Paris Crew,' nor the ring exploits of Eddie Connolly, nor Saint John's City Cornet Band. New Brunswick will have the noblest rivers and the loveliest valleys and the bravest men and the fairest women. It will be the home of patriots and princesses."

This may all be very fine but how about the subject matter of the editorial in The Daily Mail which the editor of The Ottawa Journal studiously avoids.

Ottawa's Busy Leaders

Opening of Parliament is a reminder that intervals between sessions do not provide much of a holiday for Prime Ministers and their Cabinet colleagues. Mr. King took time away from his desk only to represent the country at the League of Nations and talk over affairs with Westminster. Mr. Euler has journeyed far and wide, but always with a capacious carpet bag to hold trade agreements. Mr. Crerar probably has established a precedent for home travel by his insatiable quest to develop mines. Mr. Dunning was absent for a short period, discussing business in England. In his desire to make the Ministry of Transport give the highest of service, Mr. Howe toured the United States and Canada for study. Messrs. Lapointe, MacKenzie and Power joined in the memorable journey to Vimy in official capacities.

When it is considered that men like these as a rule sacrifice personal interests and opportunities to engage in public service which makes inexorable demands on their time, the country has reason for confidence in the conduct of affairs of State.

Mr. Bennett gained a deserved reputation as a tremendous worker in office, doing enough for several busy men. But it is doubtful that any Cabinet collectively has been obliged to give such concentrated attention to business as the present one. The demands of the Provinces and the financial relations established have called for more than ordinary effort in this direction. Unusual developments within the Empire and in connection with foreign affairs were of such a nature that the Prime Minister could not have let up if he wished.

Conservatives and Liberals have praised the leadership of Mr. King during the recent crisis over the Crown, and whether or not Parliamentary curiosity will be satisfied with regard to details, remains to be learned. It is known at least that the close friendship between Mr. Baldwin and the Canadian Prime Minister served well at a time when a delicate situation had to be handled with great care, and to Mr. King's judgment is given much credit for the ultimate solution. Reports to the effect that some exchanges of opinion were conducted by mail personally written imply that there are matters in public life too confidential for general information. Yet Canada has been served as most loyal Canadians would wish.

If this could be the impression given at the opening and ending of every Parliamentary session, confidence in the institutions of government would grow. The high level of statesmanship exhibited during the crisis and the earnestness with which Ministers have been pursuing their respective duties ought to set a standard for the proceedings recently opened.

At the same time the amount of public business devolved on every Cabinet Minister should hasten some enactment for relief, such as the proposed appointment of under-secretaries. Ministers should have time, at any rate, to keep in touch with their constituents and the general public. A way should be provided to let the country know between sessions what is going on. Perhaps the use of the radio as demonstrated by Mr. Crerar and Mr. MacKenzie has to become more common.

SNAPSHOTS

The sand man was on the job in good time this morning. Congratulations to the Roads and Streets department. It is doing fine.

The proposition to have the Administration of Justice Committee of the City Council control the police, is along the right lines. We have had enough of the old rotten rule. The people are fed up on it.

The supply of rats in peoples' cellars in the West End seems to have dropped off since the city dump on Queen Street has been abolished. One cannot have everything.

Are the children getting any better service at the Arctic rink than they got in previous years. It would be well for the Council to check up on this before they pay out the city grant. In previous years the children got a poor deal.

It was unkind of the Montreal Star to refer to the new member for Gloucester, N. B. as "the late Dr. Clarence Veniot." They may find out that Dr. Veniot is not a dead one. They have probably found that out already.

Grattan O'Leary does get funny at times. His present opinion of New Brunswick is funny but not very solid.

CHARMINGLY FEMININE WHEN VOTE ACHIEVED

MONTREAL, Jan. 19.—Quebec's votes-for-women movement "may be only a puff at present, but by the time we're through it will be nothing less than a tornado," Mrs. Pierre F. Casgrain declared before a large rally of women here.

"And we're going back to Quebec session after session without miss until we get that vote. We're taking no chances of being told we missed our opportunity by staying away even once," Mrs. Casgrain continued. Proposals to extend the franchise in Provincial election to women were defeated twice in 1936 by two successive Quebec legislatures.

For legislators who feared that women would lose their femininity if given the vote, Mrs. Casgrain had the assurance that "we will be even more charmingly feminine with it."

Mrs. Casgrain urged that women should be represented on the Quebec Minimum Wage Board, which supervises earnings of women workers, and on the various school boards of the Province, "since a woman's psychology with children often goes much further than a man's". She also advocated a minimum salary for Quebec women teachers, 1,500 of whom were reported to be receiving from $125 to $225 a year.

Hitler Holds

Germany and other powers from being turned into direct intervention.

It is problematical that the scheme worked out by London non-intervention committee in order to control Spanish harbors, railways and roads should yield definite results, even if it is enforced, which is far from certain.

The true aim of the Paris government is to win Germany's assent at any rate to the principle of that scheme and thus make it more difficult for her to intervene directly and send new bodies of soldiers.

For that reason, great importance is attached to the fact that two German cargo ships were stopped by a Spanish Lefist cruiser and brought to Bilbao and that six German airplanes passed over Spanish Morocco.

It is realized here that such half-concealed contributions to the Nationalist cause will not be suppressed for a long time, but it is thought a break with Germany could be avoided if she agreed not to go further.

Fortunes Made

this is a big country. Down in the Soo the claims are recorded. There are tales told here of claims being "jumped" stories of dishonesty as old as the story of gold itself. There are men in the Soo, they say, who watch the recording office, and when a claim expires, they drop off the train at the tiny Lochalsh station and plod into the wilderness on snowshoes. In a day or two they are back. They buy their tickets for the outside and disappear again, and some one has lost what might have been a fortune.

There are other stories of men who made tiny fortunes overnight without ever turning a foot of ground. One prospector came in here a few days ago, staked eight claims and sold them the next day for $4,000.

A tractor 'snowmobile' arrived today for the Algold Mine, one of the properties being developed a few miles along the road to Goudreau.

COW SMARTER THAN HORSE, EXPERT SAYS

ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 19.—After all these years of saying that people "should have more horse sense," it now turns out it should have been "cow sense" all along.

The horse, as an animal of intelligence, rates behind old Bossy and just ahead of sheep, another much-maligned animal.

All this Miss Pearl Gardner of Cornell university's Agricultural school told today to the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

It took her five years to discover these facts. With infinite patience, she studied 72 horses, 48 cows and 11 sheep.

"When it comes to learning by observation, there's no question the cow is much smarter than a horse," said Miss Gardner. "Even sheep give horses a pretty good run for it, mentally."

Where the horse has been fooling everyone, apparently, is that he trusts man far more than any other barnyard animal.

"Now a cow, for instance," said Miss Gardner, "farmers say she's dumb because she won't walk right up to her stanchion and be locked in for the night. Actually she's smart. She knows she'll have to stand there for hours without moving."

"Cows catch on to things quicker, remember better."

Miss Gardner has started experimenting with pigs and preliminary results hint the lowly pig may wing up the winner.

No Bill Found

For the alleged violation of the Code. For some time now Hudlin has been out of jail on bail of $500 granted him by Judge Slipp after hearing in Minto police court.

Court opened at ten o'clock. There was only one case to come before the court, that of the King vs. Nehemiah Hudlin. Ralph V. Limerick with E. Allison MacKay, represented the attorney-general. Mr. MacKay moved for nul prosse in the first count, that of resisting arrest, leaving but one count to go before the grand jury, namely that of Nehemiah Hudlin at Ripples in the county of Sunbury and Province of New Brunswick on or about the 23rd day of October, 1936, did with intent to prevent lawful apprehension of him, the said Nehemiah Hudlin with a loaded gun shoot at Ralph L. Love, a peace officer.

The grand jury was composed as follows: Lawrence McMinn, Lorne DeGrassie, Don Noble, foreman, Earle Fulton, Clarence Howland, Stanley Howe, James Hall, B. A. Johnston, Percy Green, George White, and Harvey Boone. The jury after being out over an hour, returned with a verdict: No Bill. Mr. Hughes moved that recognizance be discharged and the court adjourned sine die.

If You Have a Child ASK YOUR DOCTOR THIS

Ask Him Before Giving Your Child an Unknown Remedy

Practically any doctor you ask will warn: "Don't give your child unknown remedies without asking your doctor first."

When it comes to the widely used children's remedy — "milk of magnesia," the standard of the world is established. For over half a century many doctors have said "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia." Safe for children. No other is "quite like it."

Keep this in mind, and say "PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA" when you buy. Now also in tablet form. Get the form you prefer. But see that what you get is labeled "Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

ALSO IN TABLET FORM: Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

$85,000,000 IS TOTAL OF FEDERAL LOAN

OTTAWA, Jan. 19 — Hon. Charles A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, announced that the Dominion Government today had filed a registration statement with the United States Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington in connection with a loan to be offered shortly in the New York market to retire the $89,787,000 Dominion of Canada five per cent. war loan bonds which mature on March 1.

The registration statement discloses that it is the intention of the Government to raise a new loan in the amount of $85,000,000, of which $30,000,000 will be in the form of seven-year two and one-quarter per cent. bonds due Jan. 15, 1944, and $55,000,000 will be in the form of thirty-year three per cent. bonds due Jan. 15, 1967. The balance of the maturing issue will be paid off in cash from the Dominion Treasury.

The Syndicate underwriting the new bond issue will be headed by Morgan Stanley and Company, and will include thirty-nine other underwriters.

The issue which matures on March 1 is payable in Canada and New York and is one of the two remaining tax-free issues of the Dominion Government outstanding. The last of the Dominion's tax-free issues will mature on Dec. 1, 1937, and is payable in Canada only.

Wheat Surplus

including the United Kingdom, desiring to build up wheat supplies against a possible war, Canada's store of wheat is no longer a worry.

The situation will not protest the Government, however, from attacks by the Opposition. The Conservatives will accuse the Ministry of forcing the surplus on the market at prices below $1 a bushel when it would have been wiser to hold back and realize present prices of over $1.20.

The Government's reply will likely be the reduction if the surplus enabled the market to advance and had Canada continued to hold its wheat the present strong market would not have developed.

The Opposition may also find fault with the Cabinet for turning the business of buying wheat from the farmers back to private interests instead of the purchases being made through its wheat board headed by James Murray.

However, this whole question is being investigated by Mr. Justice W. F. Turgeon of Regina, and a final Government policy on the marketing of wheat will probably be left in abeyance until Justice Turgeon has reported, which will not be in time for this session.

HOUSE DEFICIT IN DOMINION IS SEEN AS ACUTE

OTTAWA, Jan. 19.—Canada has a deficit of 75,000 houses which, at an average cost of $3,300 each, would amount to a total building requirement of $247,500,000, it was stated tonight by Tom Moore, former President of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress and now Vice-Chairman of the National Employment Commission. Mr. Moore spoke at a banquet of the Canadian Construction Association at the Chateau Laurier.

It is believed by governmental authorities that rejuvenation of the lagging construction industry would do more than any other single thing to provide work and wages for thousands of artisans and laborers now unemployed.

"Most promising for immediate results in finding jobs," said Mr. Moore, "is the building industry which, normally, employs over 10 per cent. of the wage-earners of this country and indirectly, through added activity in transportation and other industries, a great many more."

"Two fields have been explored in this regard, namely, the provision of low rental housing and that of renovation and repairs to existing homes. The Government has made known its intention to support measures in both these directions."

"Surveys and reports undertaken in numerous municipal areas," he said, "show the great need for the construction of housing units which can rent for sums which workers earning comparatively low wages can afford. Practically none of this type of houses have been constructed during the past decade, with the result that overcrowding in unsuitable quarters has become prevalent in practically all cities. This is both a menace to health and safety."

"The registration undertaken by the National Employment Commission," said Mr. Moore, "shows that out of 95,000 families on relief in Canadian cities of over 25,000 population, approximately 9 per cent. occupy one room and 11 per cent. two rooms, making a total of 20 per cent. living in one or two rooms."

"Again, information furnished by the Bureau of Statistics show that out of approximately 2,000,000 houses possessed by the Canadian people, based on the average life of a house at fifty years, 30,000 houses per year would be a fair estimate for new building, while the total reported for the last five years has not been more than half this."

"According to this approach there would be a deficit of about 75,000 houses, which, at an average cost of $3,300 each, would amount to a total building requirement of $247,500,000. The need, both for greater use of the Dominion Housing Act and the extension of financial aid to provide low rental houses, is an immediate requirement."

WOLF PACKS RAVAGE NORTH ALBERTA GAME

FAUST, Alta. Jan. 19.—Packs of roving timber wolves were reported today to be ravaging big game throughout North Alberta. The wolves move in packs of ten or more. Six moose carcasses were found at one spot.
