personal chaplain to the Duke, he observed, "I prefer to make no statement about that."

Captain Reginald Jaffray, wealthy American, stood his ground today, and the situation was well in hand.

Yesterday he defied practically the entire city of London, fellow tenants real estate agents and lawyers, by filling the balcony of his Piccadilly apartment with expensive flowers and displaying a banner which said: "Long life and happiness to the Duke and Duchess."

This, obviously, referred to the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. Jaffray was ordered to remove the banner. But he replied: "Go to —. You will take it down over my dead body. Nobody complained when I displayed $500 worth of loyal decorations at the Coronation."

Jaffray met the Duke of Windsor at Bermuda and admires him greatly. The Duke of Windsor followed the custom of bridegrooms the world over early today when he carried his bride over the threshold of their new home, fairylike Castle Wasserleonsburg.

The Duke carried his bride into the castle without stumbling, which believers in superstition said means their days here will be happy.

Terminating their 24 hour train journey from France at Arnoldstein, the newlyweds sped by motor five miles to the ancient Austrian castle where they hoped to find peace and seclusion for three months.

Between Milan, Venice, the Duke sat at a table and wrote replies to some of the congratulatory telegrams and letters.

Signing himself alternately David or Edward, he dispatched these telegrams:

"The King, Sofia, Bulgaria: We thank you both sincerely for your good wishes, David."

"Italian Ambassador, London: We thank you sincerely for your good wishes, Edward."

"Pier, Surete, Paris: Our sincere appreciation to you and all concerned for arrangements during our stay in France and for our wedding, Edward."

The Duke printed the teleggrams in broad, firm pencil strokes, despite the rocking express. He used paper of heavy block, linen, bearing the Dukes crest.

The couple then sat down to lunch in their flower-decorated room in the centre of their private car, while others of their staff ate in the dining car.

After lunch, the Duke sat watching the rolling hills of northern Italy unfold until he reached Venice.

There the newlyweds took the speedboat "Calorendra" from the Grand Canal just outside the railroad station, and rode with British Consul Allen Napier until train time.

Their car was switched from the French Simplon Express to the train for Udine, Tarvisio and Arnoldstein, whence they are to drive to the honeymoon castle in Carinthia.

For the most part during the journey, the Duke and Duchess spent their time alone, talking and reading with pleased smiles the messages of congratulations.

At Venice, the Duke marched briskly from his car.

The Duchess wore a belted dark blue and white printed travelling dress with white straw hat. Two gleaming brooches were fastened about her neck.

The first honeymoon appearance at Milan was after numerous cries from the crowd: "The King."

Shouts and clappings at first were ignored, but as they persisted the Duke's hand fumbled with the corner of a curtain. Then he yanked up two blinds at the centre of the car, and the couple waved acknowledgement of the cheers. He pulled the shades again as the train left for Venice.

CLEAR SUMMER CAMPS OF POISON IVY PEST

The eradication of poison ivy in the vicinity of holiday camps, summer cottages, and tourist resorts is being undertaken by various communities throughout Canada. Although nothing is so effective against poison ivy as tillage, this method is usually out of the question where eradication is most needed in nooks and rocky situations in the close proximity to temporary or permanent residences. As pointed out in the circular issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture entitled "Poison Ivy," eradication by hand is a laborious substitute for tillage, but removal of the pest bodily is often the simplest and surest way to clean out small areas around dwellings. Incidentally, it is an interesting point that cattle, sheep and goats can eat poison ivy with impunity and seem to relish it.

Extensive tests of chlorate herbicides have shown them to have advantage in several respects over other chemical weedkillers. Sodium chlorate is a compound at present cheapest and easiest to procure, as it is sold by all wholesale druggists. A ten per cent solution (one pound to a gallon of water) of sodium chlorate is applied as a spray at the rate of a gallon for 200 square feet. The first application may be made about the first of June when the leaves are well spread. Information on the treatment of ivy poisoning, and how to recognize and eradicate the plant will be found in the circular which may be obtained free on application to the Publicity and Extension Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

ARRANGING FLOWERS

Flowers from Paul!
I'll place them in this jar,
One here, one there
How beautiful they are!

Did he intend
Merely a gay caress?
These jonquils are
Pure sunshine, I'll confess.

Or is it love?
The tulips are so red;
Or just "good-bye?"
This lovely bloom is dead.

Perhaps they have
No message to impart
Yet flowers always speak
The language of the heart.
—Josephine Hemsley.

SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Cecilian Singers Well Received

The Cecilian Singers yesterday motored to Sussex and put on a concert last evening under the auspices of the Royal Chapter of the I.O.D.E. at the Sussex High School. There was a fair attendance and the program was cordially received. R. C. Bayley director expressed himself as being delighted with the performance of his charges and the soloists who assisted. Miss Doris Bayley gave two groups of readings and Robert Vandine baritone was heard in group songs. Among others in the Fredericton party besides the twenty-nine members of the Cecilian Choir were Mrs. G. R. Lister, Miss Lalia MacVey, Miss Nellie Winters, Mrs. C. A. MacVey, Hargrove Locke and Donald Pringle. Following the concert the ladies of the Chapter entertained the artists at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bayley on Paradise Row. Following a social hour the party left for the capital arriving home at two o'clock a.m.

Women's Institute Elects Officers.

A message from Queen Mother Mary sent out some time ago to the Women's Institutes of Canada, was read at the meeting of the Women's Institute last night. In the message the Queen Mother sent greeting and congratulation on the good work being done by the institutes, not only in Canada but the Empire as a whole. Great appreciation was expressed in the interest taken by the Queen Mother in the work of the women of the Empire.

Mrs. G. I. Nugent, the president, was in the chair and reports for the year submitted by the secretary, president and treasurer. Delegate to the Loyalist convention was appointed and a letter of appreciation read from Morrison's Mill school which has been given milk by the Institute during the past number of months. Correspondence was read after which the chair was taken by Miss A. E. Weldon while the election of officers was carried out as follows: President, Mrs. G. I. Nugent; 1st vice president, Mrs. G. A. Farris; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Harry Brodie; secretary, Mrs. J. Allan Horncastle; treasurer, Mrs. D. J. Shea; directors, Mrs. A. E. Mathewson, Mrs. C. E. Batt, Mrs. C. F. Parker, Mrs. E. A. Moore; auditors, Mrs. C. E. Belyea and Mrs. D. C. Tompkins. The following committees were appointed: Home and refreshments, Mrs. Harry Brodie; Mrs. H. W. Steen; Mrs. Murray Kierstead; ways and means, Mrs. Vernon Rogers; Mrs. W. R. Dunbar, Mrs. E. A. Moore, Mrs. C. F. Belyea, Mrs. Dell Hossack, Mrs. Clowes Hall; sick and visiting, Mrs. Fred Close; Mrs. Laura Donovan; relief committee, composed of directors; programme committee, Mrs. A. E. Mathewson; Mrs. Murray Kierstead; flower committee, Mrs. H. W. Steen; delegate to convention, Mrs. Clair Young; substitute, Mrs. Henry Harvey; convenors of standing committees: education, Mrs. Havelock Coy; agriculture, Mrs. Hembert Knight; publicity, Mrs. A. E. Mathewson; child welfare, Miss Pond; Canadianization and national events, Mrs. J. H. Caldwell; legislation, Mrs. J. H. Maxwell; home economics, Mrs. E. E. Burdon.

At the close of the business period a social hour was enjoyed followed by the singing of the National Anthem.

The following is the message from Queen Mary to the Institutes: Buckingham Palace.

Her Majesty Queen Mary's message to the Women's Institutes of the Dominions:

I would like to take this opportunity of sending to one and all a word of greeting and congratulation on the good work they have done. I take great interest in the movement, not only in Great Britain, but throughout the Empire.

I am well aware how much the institutes have already done towards the improving conditions for women in rural areas; how they have made for better citizenship, happier homes and good neighborliness.

I hope that this spirit of mutual help and goodwill will be extended to the countrywomen of all lands, for wherever countrywomen are organized they work for the great human causes along the paths of true progress.

I would like to add that I am much interested in the Women's Institute at Sandringham, and I attend the afternoons as often as I can. It makes a nice meeting place for everybody.

The Women's Institute movement should prove a fresh and valuable link between all parts and peoples of the Empire, and I hope ultimately between all parts of the World.

September 1936. MARY R.

Visiting in the City
Mrs. W. H. Barnstead of Halifax is the guest of Miss Isabel Jennings. Mrs. Barnstead who before her marriage was Miss Katherine Allen is well known in the city where she attended school and is the daughter of Mrs. J. W. Gillen of San Diego and the late J. C. Allen of this city. She is also a great granddaughter of the late Sir John Allen, Senator Temple, Stephen Glasier and Thomas Hilyard.

Pretty Noon Wedding Nuptials of Miss Irvine and Mr. Barbour

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. McAdam was the scene of a pretty wedding today at eleven o'clock when Miss Mary Eleanor Fairley Irvine, daughter of Dr. W. H. Irvine, and the late Mrs. Irvine of this city was united in marriage to Kenneth Fowler Barbour, son of Mrs. Allan D. Barbour and the late Mr. Barbour of Saint John. The bride is also a sister of Mrs. McAdam at whose home the ceremony was performed with Rev. Dr. J. W. Bartlett officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was winsome, wearing a beige jacket dress. The lace jacket was made with a high neckline. She wore a picture hat of beige felt with brown suede trimmings and brown suede shoes. The couple were unattended.

Mrs. Harold Limerick played the wedding marches and during the signing of the register Miss Anne Sypher sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told."

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served. The bride's table had a Venetian lace cloth and was centred with a three tiered wedding cake which was surmounted with a miniature bride and groom. Bud vases with sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley flanked the central decoration while streamers of white ribbons were extended from the chandelier to the four corners of the table. Assisting at the reception were Miss Louise Hanson, Mrs. Jas. Badcock, Mrs. Lloyd Ingram, Miss Betty Irvine, Miss Eileen Oltis and Miss Marjorie Macredie, Mrs. R. O. Trent poured, Miss Doris Barbour cut the ices.

Mr. and Mrs. Barbour later left on a motoring trip to Montreal, Boston and New York and on their return will reside in Saint John. For travelling the bride chose a suit of sky turquoise jantzen trimmed with brown and yellow buttons and tiny bows, with which she wore a small hat and accessories in matching colors.

The bride is one of the most popular members of the younger set in the capital where she attended the public schools being a graduate of the Fredericton High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Saint John High School. There were about forty guests present. The out-of-town guests included Mrs. A. D. Barbour, Miss Doris Barbour, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Trent, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Mellinger, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Currie, Miss Nora Thompson, Mrs. Clarence Barbour, Reginald Barbour, Lawrence Currie, Miss Jean Smith, Miss Audrey Bell, Miss Barbara Berry, Willard Lingley, George MacDonald, Walter Logan, all of Saint John, and Mrs. Lloyd Ingram of Presque Isle, Maine.

The bridegroom is on the staff of Irving & Brennan in Saint John.

Miss Phyllis McCafferty was a luncheon hostess today.

We're all Links in this Chain!

For the benefit of local business, the Government Bureau of Information has undertaken to bring tourists to the Province. But we're only the first link in the chain of operations necessary to make the tourist trade a success. The next links are the hotels, restaurants and the tourist camps. You who are in any way associated with catering to visitors have a tremendous responsibility. It's up to you to serve the kind of native foods so popular with strangers. You must supply comfortable beds; be most particular about all sanitary arrangements; and keep all your charges moderate. These things are essential.

COURTEOUS SERVICE ALWAYS PAYS

Merchants are the next link in the chain. You will find that courteous service in shops will immediately result in increased business. The filling stations form the next link. Attendants see all tourists what to see and where to go in New Brunswick. Don't let visitors use New Brunswick merely as a road to some other place. Keep them here as long as possible.

EVERYBODY CAN HELP

The ordinary citizen fills the last link. We can't over-estimate his importance. All of us can be courteous and helpful. And all of us will be repaid, for a successful tourist industry in this Province means increased prosperity to every individual New Brunswicker.

If there is any way that we can be of assistance to you, write us.
