NEW SECRETARIAL SCHOOL HERE PRESENTS ULTRA MODERN FEATURES IN BUSINESS TRAINING ACCOMMODATIONS

Pond's School Ready For Opening In Fall Term

In Central Trust Bldg.

The opening of "Pond's Secretarial School" in the new Central Trust Building presents the ultimate in modern business training accommodation and ideal working conditions for business students. Linked with this are the long years of training and experience of Guy V. Pond head of the school, and the new Educational Institution provides the student with a training which may well rank with any on the continent.

The school, which occupies the entire second floor of the building, has been designed primarily for the purpose of business education, to comply with Mr. Pond's personal specifications. The plans have been drawn with respects to proper lighting, ventilation and air conditions, and efficiency in the procedure of the classes.

All classrooms have large window space, literally presenting a glass wall for the proper lighting. They are also equipped with modern indirect lighting systems.

High ceilings and the large windows assure fresh, clean air, enough air space being supplied per student being supplied, to comply with the most strict tables of health requirements.

The layout is one of the fine features of which the school may boast. Access to the school is made by elevator. A short hall, and the entrance to the school opens into a convenient central room, with which the different departments connect.

The office of Mr. Pond on the right, connecting with it, the shorthand department. This is only one of the many fine rooms of the school. The typing room and bookkeeping rooms are also examples of fine study facilities. The typing room has been soundproofed so that no other departments will be annoyed while they are working, and the bookkeeping room has a fine desk arrangement for the student's benefit.

The most modern equipment has been installed in each department.

"FREAK" CORN

James Shannon, 480 George Street, found an oddly shaped cob of corn on a stalk in his garden this morning. The cob bears a remarkable resemblance to a parrot, each detail being perfectly shaped in the form of the bird. The specimen was one of the oddest garden "freaks" found here for some time.
