Canadian Mills Contract to Supply Paper to Antipodes

Secure New York Price On 175-ton Delivery Yearly to 1945 — Seven Firms Share

200,000 TONS CONSUMPTION

Tasmanian Supply To Be Protected After The Year 1942

MONTREAL, Nov. 19.—One of the most important contracts ever made by Canadian newsprint manufacturers, though not necessarily from the point of view of tonnage involved, has been entered into by a group of seven Canadian companies and the Australian-New Zealand press.

The agreement provides that from Jan. 1, 1939 to 1945, Canadian manufacturers will undertake to deliver up to 175,000 tons yearly at a cost based upon the New York price.

Parties to the agreement, on the publishers' side, include the Melbourne Herald group; the Associated Newspaper group, of Sydney; the Sydney Morning Herald group; Courier Mail, of Brisbane; Daily Telegraph, of Sydney; Advertiser, of Adelaide and a number of provincial papers.

On the manufacturers' side, the list includes Mersey Paper Co., Consolidated Paper Corp., Canadian International Paper; Price Bros. & Co., St. Lawrence Paper Mills, Powell River Co., and Pacific Mills. At present Australian and New Zealand publishers are consuming about 200,000 short tons of newsprint annually, of which Australia takes around 175,000 tons. Canadian manufacturers are supplying over 140,000 tons of their requirements.

Basis of New Price
The new seven-year contract is based on a New York price formula. The Australia-New Zealand group has agreed to pay the New York price, less freight costs to New York plus ocean freight charges, insurance etc., from North American Atlantic and Pacific coast ports to main Australian and New Zealand ports. The group has guaranteed to take at least 70 percent of requirements (Continued on Page Four)

Dr. Jos. Siros Succeeds Hon. Justice Rinfret

OTTAWA, Nov. 19.—Dr. Joseph Siros has been appointed to the Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial relations. Dr. Siros succeeds Hon. Justice Rinfret who resigned on account of ill health.

Dr. Siros is a member of one of the oldest notary firms in Quebec, a past president of the Quebec Board of Notaries, and is regarded as an authority on constitutional questions. He is publisher of the Law Review of Quebec.

The Legislative Library

WITH THE EXCEPTION of the members of the Provincial Legislature, some of the University students and a comparatively few Normal School students, very little is known in regard to the Legislative Library, an institution comprising about thirty thousand volumes and situated in the Provincial Legislation building. For many years after its establishment—in fact down to within the last five or six years—the way in that the library was conducted was more or less of a joke. In fact it was the subject of a very uncomplimentary report made by a member of a Dominion Library Commission which visited our province. Whilst in some respects the report was unfair, as far as it related to the way in which the library was conducted it was unfortunately true. The library was never intended, or is it intended still to be a circulating library for cheap and popular fiction and yet for some years that appeared to be its chief function. Year after year many dollars of the public money was invested in purchasing fiction which was circulated around amongst the comparatively few patrons of the Legislative Library. It is needless to say that this was far away from the proper function of the Legislative Library. The library is intended as a reference library for the members, students and others and is intended to contain standard works of reference not only for the present generation but for future generations. So that the library authorities were defeating the object for which the library is intended.

During the last five or six years a better system has been adopted in the library. The librarian who was appointed at that time put some system into her work and devoted herself, heart and soul, to the library. She succeeded with the assistance of an energetic library board in bringing the library out of the rut and placing it where it is today. The work so well started by Miss Margaret Evans is being continued by Miss Dorcen Harper. The Library is becoming more popular as people get to know it.

There is one thing that the Library Committee should keep away from; that is falling into the error that nearly killed the library some years ago. The Library is not intended, and never was intended primarily, as a circulation library for fiction. There are book stores and news stands for this purpose and the Legislative Library should not run in opposition to these establishments.

The Legislative Library is the child of the Legislature and it is under the control of a Legislative Library committee composed of members from both sides of the House. If properly conducted, as we believe it now to be, it can be made of much educational value to students from all over the province. The students are at all times welcome at the Library and its shelves contain many valuable works of reference. In preparing essays and in connection with their studies generally much assistance may be had from this library. The Legislature should be asked for an additional grant towards this library, as at the present time the committee often finds itself cramped for funds. There are about ninety subscribers to the library and these pay one dollar per year as subscribers. Students have free access to the library and the same applies to the general public which may come and look up books of reference. In this regard the library has in recent years become very popular. A record of the accessions to the library should be made out by the librarian each year and be on hand at the library. A copy should also be sent to each member of the committee, to the press and to those who have contributed books. This was done by Miss Evans and it should be continued under the present librarian.

B. C. Business Men Accused of Helping Japanese Control

Threatened With Exposure By Minister of Lands Eluding Their Names

NAZIS ACTIVE ON WEST COAST OF UNITED STATES

Working Under Direct Orders From Germany

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Representative Dickstein (D-N. Y.) listed in the congressional record today the names of 116 southern Californians he said were leaders in a "Hitler movement" on the west coast of the United States. He predicted the movement would spread to Canada. He described them as "100 percent Nazis" and said they "work up and down the west California coast" and as "public speakers and agitators" in "co-operation with the west coast 'Bund' leader, Herman Schwinn."

Schwinn, Dickstein said, is directly under orders from German Consul-General von Killinger of San Francisco.

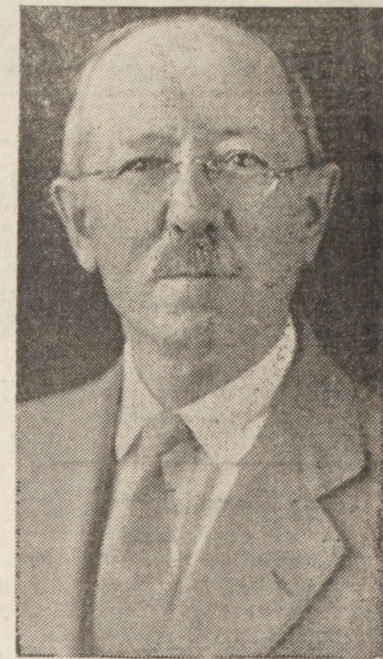

Dickstein said "American Nazis, known as the German-American Bund, have in the past two years erected over 20 camps from coast to coast, and have enlisted over 500,000 members, including several hundred thousand storm troopers."

"Their boldness is unequalled in the annals of this nation," he said.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 19.—So intense has been the feeling against continued invasion of British Columbia industries by Japanese that a minister of the Provincial Government has threatened to "expose" prominent Vancouver businessmen who have lent their names for the incorporation of limited companies in this province controlled by Japanese capital.

"Japanese intrusion into the forest reserves has been made possible only by British subjects lending their names for the purpose of incorporation," said Hon. A. Wells Gray, minister of lands. "These companies are owners of Crown grant lands obtained from the Dominion Government, and export of logs from those areas are outside the control of the provincial authorities."

The whole issue of Japanese penetration is expected to be one of the most controversial subjects in the coming federal by-election in Victoria. The Japanese Government replied to United States representations on the subject a few days ago, denying that there had been fishing in Alaska waters. A Tokio spokesman claimed that a research vessel had been sent to Bristol Bay and that the United States state department had been notified in advance. American fishermen protest that actual fishing was done, and state that they have proof in the form of photographs. (Continued on Page Four)

ONTARIO MAPLE LEAF WINS 1ST. HONOR CONTEST

Cash Prizes Are Given By C. N. and C. P. Railways

(Special to The Daily Mail)
MONTREAL, Nov. 19.—Ontario won the honor this year of producing Canada's most beautiful maple leaf when three Canadian artists today awarded $100 to Mrs. A. Mitchinson, 334 Woburn Ave., Toronto, for the perfectly formed vividly colored leaf she had entered in the fifth annual most beautiful maple leaf competition held jointly by the Canadian Travel Bureau at Ottawa, the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian National Railways. This leaf, which was gathered at York Mills, Ont., by Mrs. Mitchinson, won the honor for Ontario for the first time, New Brunswick and Quebec have each won twice.

Second prize of $40 in the competition was awarded to another Ontario resident, Alfred E. Jenner, Smiths Falls. This leaf was gathered at Rideau Lakes.

Third prize of $20 goes to Miss Therese Audet of Compton, Que. Miss Helen H. Arnold of Anagance, Kings County, N. B., wins fourth prize of $10 for a leaf gathered at Portage, N. B., while fifth prize of $5 is awarded to Frere-Gedeon S.G., Ferme Villa Grand Quebec, St. Bruno, Comte Chamby, Quebec.

Increasing interest in the competition is making the task of handling the entries a tremendous one. Four thousand leaves of all the shapes and colors found across Canada, the land of the maples, made mounting and sorting an onerous job. Judging which leaves have received the best treatment from Nature's paint brush calls for a knowledge of art, so the three judges this year were three prominent. (Continued on Page Four)

Development Forseen of One of The Biggest Mining Areas in Canada's History

W. R. (Wop) May, Noted Airman Visiting Toronto, Tells of Progress Made In Air Service

TORONTO, Nov. 19.—Development of one of the biggest mining areas in Canada's history in the territory lying in the Northwest Territories and the northern borders of the Prairie Provinces, was foreseen Tuesday by W. R. (Wop) May, famous Canadian airman, who arrived in Toronto for a brief visit while en route back to Edmonton from Montreal.

With the establishment this winter of a bi-weekly scheduled air service to Yellowknife and a tri-weekly service to Goldfields on Lake Athabasca in addition to numerous projected contract hauls, his firm, the ex-war flier said expects to be busier than in any previous year. Already, he stated, indications are that in the spring business will see the swiftest advance on record.

But, apart from business, the first recipient of the coveted McKee Trophy—most prized aviation award in Canada, chatted about a lot of things shortly after his arrival. Among them he revealed that once again a reunion is going to be held between two war pilots who were the central figures in one of the Great War's most famous fights.

To Meet Roy Brown
Wop and Roy Brown, both of them now important figures in civil aviation, will get together again. Every (Continued on Page Four)

NO PEACE UNTIL ENGLISH-SPEAKING NATIONS UNITE IN POLICY AGAINST AGGRESSOR NATIONS OF THE WORLD

Address By George M. Byron, King's Printer, Is Feature of Annual Banquet Of Fredericton City Club — Other Speakers

"There will be no peace in this world until the English-speaking nations unite to say to the rest of the world 'Thus far shalt thou go, and no further,' predicted George M. Byron, King's Printer, speaking at the annual banquet of the Fredericton City Club held at a local restaurant last evening.

About 45 members of the club and guests were present at the dinner, which was featured by addresses given by Mr. Byron, Honorary President Dr. G. C. VanWart, President J. D. Palmer, Vice-President A. W. Barbour, deputy minister of public works for New Brunswick, and R. L. Phillips.

Talking on Peace Week, which was observed throughout Canada last week, Mr. Byron remarked that peace to him, is merely a beautiful illusion. "Our forefathers carved out of the wilderness this Canada of ours," which, he foresaw, "is destined to become one of the greatest nations the world has ever seen. On this continent the highest type of civilization the world has ever known will develop," he concluded.

After proposing the Toast to the King, President Palmer read a telegram from T. Wiessman, New York, honorary member, which expressed the regret of Mr. Wiessman that he could not be present at the dinner. The absentee stated however, that he was contributing $25 to the club. A vote of thanks was moved by J. T. Jennings, seconded by A. A. Shute. Club Asset to City.

The president remarked on the decrease in the membership of the club during the past six months. It now stands at 76, as compared with 84 on April 30. The Club is a valuable asset to Fredericton, the president pointed out, stating that it is the only place in the city where prominent visitors can be met by business men in a friendly and social atmosphere. Therefore, if for no other reason, the Club should be supported, he remarked. In closing, Mr. Palmer noted the number of new and (Continued on Page Four)

BOYS LEARN HARD WORK IS THE ONLY ROYAL ROAD

Training Centre In Algonquin Park Lacks Frills, But Youths Get Training, and Lots of It

Algonquin Park, Nov. 19.—On the rim of a mountain-girt airport, one of the emergency fields of the eventual trans-Canada airline, thirty young men, proteges of the Dominion Provincial Youth Training Plan, are living in big bunk houses not far from here.

And if ever young men were undergoing a businesslike, thorough course of instruction, without any frills or fancies, these lads appear to be getting it. Whether it will eventually work out as planned, with the boys getting permanent jobs as a result of their training may be in doubt. But one thing now is certain: they are getting the training.

One Ranger to Ten Boys
An old-time, experienced ranger has been assigned to each ten boys. When they landed in here on Sept. 2, the boys took over the camp left by the relief workers, who had spent two years building the landing field. It is on the shore of the Lake of Two Rivers, a few miles from here. Equipment for the bunk houses, the bathhouse and the dining hall was sent in. Supply and preparation of food was handed on contract to a married couple.

The result is that it is costing approximately $2.50 a head to feed, sleep and train the young men and give them a small wage to keep them in tobacco, camera films and other needs. Instructors in various studies come to Algonquin Park to give them lectures. The teachers are the best available; some from timber companies who gave their services for the good of the cause.

So careful and businesslike has been the local administration of the scheme in this instance that a visitor can walk into Mr. McDougall's office at headquarters and see the complete record at a glance. Hours of work of everybody have been recorded; hours of instruction are listed in the various studies.

Conversation with the boys reveals that in every gathering of young men there is the occasional "grouser." But undoubtedly the majority are convinced that here is a (Continued on Page Four)

PREMIER KING WAITS DECISION NINE PROV. UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE ACT

New Brunswick Pronouncement Is Expected After Meeting Of Provincial Cabinet Next Week

MR. JUSTICE I. RINFRET
who has resigned from the Rowell Royal Commission on account of ill health

(Special to The Daily Mail)
OTTAWA, Nov. 19.—Premier Mackenzie King should be able this week to show how much favor with the Provincial Governments has been found in his proposal to establish a national compulsory unemployment insurance scheme. Prince Edward Island and Ontario have made known their decisions.

Most of the responses heard last week were unofficial, but as a letter to the Provincial Premiers was sent from here on Nov. 5 it is expected that either after the Cabinet meeting of Tuesday or Thursday a sufficient number of official replies will have been received to indicate whether or not the scheme is practicable.

It is also conceivable that in such a situation, the Federal Government might make known the fact that there is a preponderance of Provincial opinion in favor of the scheme, (Continued on Page Four)
