DR. NICHOLSON'S HALF CENTURY OF PRACTISE

Newcastle Physician Is Lauded on Attainment of Golden Jubilee As
Med. Practitioner

The medical men of Northumberland county foregathered in Newcastle last Wednesday evening, Nov. 10, at the residence of Dr. J. A. M. Bell who was their host at a dinner tendered in honor of Dr. Robt. Nicholson. The occasion marked the golden jubilee or 50th anniversary of Dr. Nicholson's entry in the medical field. He is the doyen of all the medics in the county and his long and successful career has brought him the highest respect of his fellow practitioners as well as the deep gratitude of a host of patients.

To Dr. Wilson of Derby, as the next oldest physician in the county, was accorded the honor of delivering the chief address of the evening and to a fellow townsman, Dr. Morrissey, that of presenting to Dr. Nicholson as a gift from those assembled in Dr. Bell's hospitable home, a large silver platter suitably engraved to mark the unique occasion.

Dr. Nicholson was deeply touched by the honor paid him and in thanking his colleagues made interesting reference to the earlier days in this district and the great changes that have taken place in the personnel of the medical fraternity here, as well as to the methods and equipment at their disposal during the past half century.—Union Advocate.

N. B.—Mrs. Scott, wife of Rev. Robert Scott of this city is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Nicholson.

TWO WITNESSES

city by-law, Westmorland street was a stop street, all vehicles being forced to come to a full stop before entering Brunswick street. There is no exception to this bylaw, Mr. West emphasized.

The fire truck, driven by Ed. Finnegan, a civic servant, proceeded up King street at a dangerous rate of speed, Mr. West claimed. It turned southwest into Westmorland Street.

"The speed of the vehicle was so great that it surged from side to side, flamed the attorney. The driver speeded up on Westmorland Street as he approached Brunswick Street, he said, adding that Mr. Finnegan did not keep a reasonable watch for vehicle on Brunswick Street.

Prof. Perry was driving at a reasonable rate of speed, and had entered the intersection before the truck, he alleged.

After taking the stand as the first witness for the plaintiff, Fred I. Haviland, City Clerk and Secretary-Treasurer since 1927, said he was the custodian of the city by-laws.

He produced a certified copy of by-law number 57, which was passed April 2, 1935. It was accepted in evidence.

The witness stated that Mr. Finnegan is employed by the fire department as a driver. A certified copy of the official approval of by-law 57 was then received in evidence.

Explains Survey

Edward W. Hagerman, assistant instructor in drafting and surveying at U.N.B., then took the stand as witness for the plaintiff. He stated that he had made a survey of the intersection of the two streets where the accident occurred, and identified a plan of the intersection, which Mr. West handed him, as the one which he had prepared.

The plan was accepted in evidence. Council for the plaintiff then questioned him to very great length as to the details of the plan, and especially as to the distances between various points and objects represented on the drawing.

SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Local Young Man Recently Married
Friends will be interested to hear of the marriage of Miss Dorothy Helena Holmes and Frank Gordon, which took place on October 21st in the city by Rev. Aubrey Horwood, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Springer of North Devon were the attendants. The bridegroom a graduate of the Fredericton High School having been class valedictorian. He is a former student of U. N. B. and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gordon of Victoria Mills.

Leaving For Calgary

The Right Hon. R. B. Bennett will return from Halifax at the end of the week and will leave early next week for the West.

Miss Margaret McMullen was hostess at a charmingly arranged tea on Saturday afternoon at her home on Alexandra Street in honor of her sister Mrs. John Gilchrist, Montreal. The guests were received in the drawing-room by Miss McMullen and Mrs. Gilchrist and were invited to the dining room by Miss Helen Brewer. Mrs. J. C. McMullen presided over the tea-cups and assisting were Miss Marjorie Macredie and Miss Margaret Hughes. Miss Greta Brewer replenished. The dining-room table had a lace cover and a floral centre of yellow mums in a silver basket on a reflector. The table was also lighted with yellow tapers in silver holders. About forty guests were present.

Pretty Wedding This Morning At Stanley

A pretty wedding took place at 9:30 o'clock this morning at St. Thomas' Church at Stanley, when Miss Phyllis Forbes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Forbes of Nashwaak Bridge, became the bride of Forrest Cecil Palmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Palmer of Avery's Portage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. L. Belyea in the presence of relatives and friends. The bride was becomingly gowned in a navy blue crepe dress made with long sleeves and the skirt being street length. She wore an off-the-face hat in matching shade and she carried yellow roses. Miss Lalah Palmer sister of the bridegroom was bridesmaid and she wore a wine colored crepe dress and hat to match. Charles Wasson of Ripples acted as best man.

Following a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer will reside at Avery's Portage, where the bridegroom is engaged in lumbering. A reception will be held this evening at the home of the bride.

Bridge Hostess

Mrs. F. H. Wetmore was a charming hostess as a mixed-bridge on Saturday evening at her home. The prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Nevers and the hostess was assisted by Miss Jean Belyea and other guests.

CANADIANA

THE HISTORY OF CENTRAL NEW BRUNSWICK

(By Lillian M. Beckwith Maxwell)
This book of one hundred and seventy-five pages by a local author Mrs. J. Brown Maxwell has just been issued. It deals with the history of this city and the adjoining district of Central New Brunswick, from the early Indian period down to the period of Confederation.

The book is divided into two parts. The first part deals with the Indian period and the French period. The second part treats in an interesting manner of the English period including the pre-Loyalists, the Loyalists, the laying out of the capital, and of the early days of Fredericton. The early days of Magerville, Oromocto, Gagetown, Nashwaak and other parts of central New Brunswick are covered in an interesting manner. This history of Mrs. Maxwell's contains much information regarding our early days which we have not seen elsewhere, such as the names of the early Acadian settlers, and those of the Loyalists and of the original owners of our city blocks and regarding our churches and other institutions.

The book shows the result of careful research work on the part of Mrs. Maxwell. There are a few places throughout the work, especially relating to the Acadian period, where the writer does not agree with Mrs. Maxwell, but they are very few and are connected with points which can not be decided definitely without more far reaching research work than has yet been made by any person. One of these refers on page three to the old graveyard above this city in the vicinity of the R.C.M.P. Barracks and to Dr. Wintenberg's report on the same. As Dr. Wintenberg made some statements regarding the graveyard when he was in this city and contradicted himself in a later report, we do not place much value on this as an authority. Although Dr. Wintenberg is considered an authority as an archaeologist we never heard of him being an authority on anatomy and there was nothing in the graves which were opened to settle the matter from the standpoint of an archaeologist. We believe that if the local historical society had been sincerely interested in the history from an unbiased standpoint they would have followed up the research in regard to this old graveyard.

However, to go back to Mrs. Maxwell's history we feel that it is a valuable contribution to the history of this province and that it is a work that should be in the hands of every person interested in the origin and growth of New Brunswick. It is on sale by local booksellers and it should have a place on the shelves of our Legislative, University and school libraries. The book contains many maps and sketches of value and also many illustrations. It is nicely gotten up and is written in an interesting manner. Mrs. Maxwell is to be congratulated on presenting such a history to the public.—J. L. N.

At the Wilmet United Church, the morning sermon, preached by Rev. Dr. J. W. Bartlett, was on the subject, "The Making of a Church," yesterday being the 146th anniversary of the founding of the church. Special music was a feature of the service, Miss Margaret Sterne, Charlottetown, P.E.I., singing several solos, while the Men's Chorus rendered a special musical number. In the evening the sermon "The Church of the Index Finger" was dramatized.

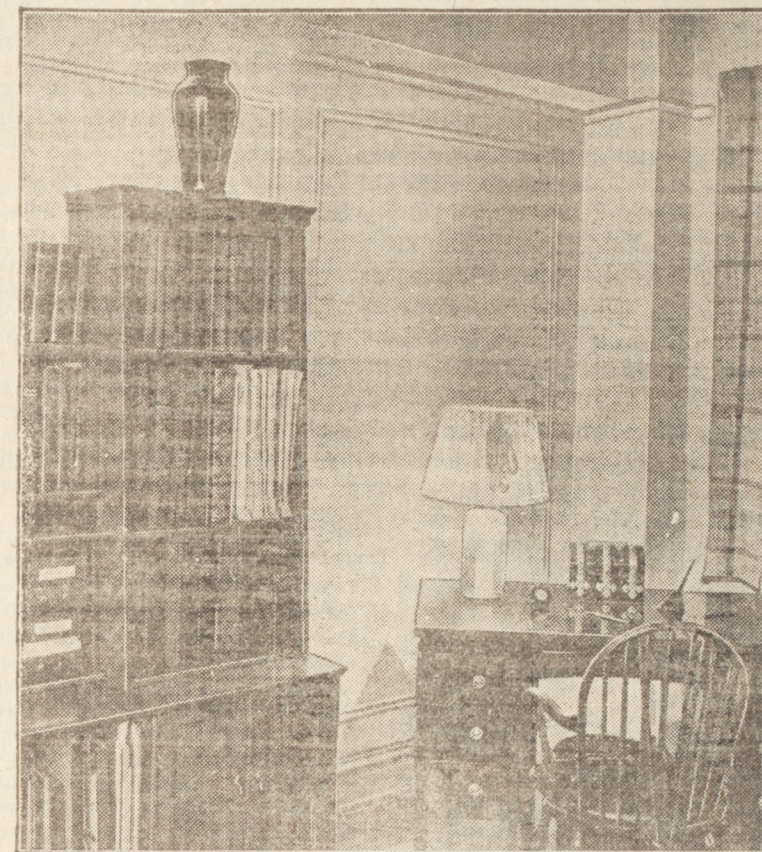

The minister was assisted by about 30 members of the congregation in dramatizing the sermon, which was based on the history of the church. In all, nine scenes were presented in dramatic form, beginning with the actual founding of the church by Duncan Blair, who was personated by Walter Blair, a descendant of the founder. The founder of the Sunday School, Miss Dayton, was personated by Mrs. Nathan Squires, a member of the family to which Miss Dayton belonged. Another scene represented

Ever Make Lights From Vases?
It's Worth Trying!

By Jean Prentice

Vases make charming decorative lighting units when wired and equipped with 100-watt bulbs. The interiors of the vases must be pure white, of course. Some stores carry them already wired. The effect produced is charming indeed.

WE hear so much about indirect lighting nowadays. Architects and decorators who strive for soft, pleasing effects invariably incorporate it into their plans and designs by means of built-in coves and panels.

A very simple and effective way to achieve lighting of this type is by means of ordinary vases. That is, ordinary vases that are given a different sort of treatment. Let me tell you about it. It's really quite simple, and costs a mere trifle.

Must Harmonize With Furnishings

The vases are selected to harmonize with the decorative scheme of the room, then wired to accommodate a 100-watt bulb. Some of them come ready-made in this way, and may be obtained at most department stores and specialty shops handling objects of this kind.

Should you decide to use an old vase and do the wiring yourself, or have the work done for you, be sure that you get vases that are white on the inside, so that they will properly reflect, and not absorb the light. The small hole through which the wire runs from the lamp socket to the wall plug or convenience outlet should be drilled not at the bottom of the vase, but at the side, about an inch or so from the bottom, so that the fixture will rest on an even base. A small reflector attached to the socket inside the base will throw more light upward and onto the ceiling, where it will be reflected in all directions. (Better have the wiring done by an electrical expert unless you are quite experienced at this sort of thing.)

Results Should Be Checked
Light thus obtained is very decorative in character, and provides soft general illumination. I have seen as many as four in a room, mounted on bookcases and tables, where they couldn't glare into anyone's eyes, and the result was really something to enthuse about.

Of course, even the best of decorative lighting effects must be aided by light of sufficient amount from floor and table lamps, and the general result checked by a light meter to make certain that there is enough illumination for such severe eye tasks as reading and sewing. Among the advantages of supplementary decorative lighting is that the illumination in the room becomes more flexible, and may be adapted to the changing needs and requirements of the family.

the first marriage performed in New Brunswick under the new marriage act. Mrs. V. B. Barnes, assisted by Mrs. Fred Segee and Miss Netta MacMillan, was in charge of the dramatization, in which the choir also took part.

Describes Mission Work

The morning service at Christ Church Cathedral was broadcasted, with Archbishop Richardson officiating. In the evening Rev. G. A. Andrew who for 18 years has been a missionary in Honan Province, China, described the work being done there. The Diocese in Honan Province, one of the interior provinces, is supported by the Canadian church. Both services were well attended.

At the Devon Baptist Church yesterday morning, Rev. D. L. Kennedy took as his subject, "The Happy, Radiant, Brilliant and Militant Church." The idea of the Church Militant, he said, is the working out of redeeming forces through human personality. Last evening he took as his topic "Typical Men." Festus, a governor of Judea at the time of Paul the Apostle, he said, was a typical man absorbed by worldly affairs. Paul was just the opposite—he was absorbed by Christianity. He offered as a third type of man King Agrippa, who sat as a judge over Paul, as the "almost Christian." Rev. Mr. Kennedy also conducted a service at Kingsley yesterday afternoon, where a number presented themselves for baptism.

Dr. Kierstead Speaks

"James, the Apostle of Jesus," was the title of the morning sermon delivered by Rev. John Linton of the George Street Baptist Church. The Sunday School in the afternoon had a large attendance, especially in the Men's Class. The evening service was conducted by Rev. Dr. W. C. Kierstead. Rev. Mr. Linton spoke at the Marysville United Baptist Church in the evening on "The Victorious Christ," describing Him as one who overcame all handicaps, difficulties and sin.

Both morning and evening services at the Brunswick Street Baptist Church were conducted by the Rev. Dr. N. A. McNeil, while Sunday School and Bible classes were held in the afternoon. Here also a large attendance was noted.

At St. Dunstan's

At St. Dunstan's Church on Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Carney read a statement of the amounts contributed during the year towards foreign missions. The amounts contributed by the three missionary societies during the year, including the Children's Society was in the vicinity of $650. This is amongst the largest amount ever contributed for missions by St. Dunstan's church. St. Dunstan's is one of the leaders in the Diocese in contributing to foreign missions.
