

New York Yankees Whitewash St. Louis Browns in Hard Slugging Bee

Charley Ruffing Hurls Team to 10-1 Victory

DiMaggio Clubs Two Homers and Gehrig Collects One

NEW YORK, June 11.—New York Yankees blanked the Browns 10 to 0 at St. Louis as Joe DiMaggio banged out his 10th and 11th homers of the year and Charley Ruffing held St. Louis to five hits.

The victory, second in a row for the Yanks, maintained their one-game lead in the American League race.

"Murderers' Row" clicked on all cylinders, clubbing Jack Knott and rookie "Butch" Trotter for 17 hits. After two scoreless innings the world champions found the range and thereafter coasted in, with Lou Gehrig contributing his ninth homer of the year in the final inning as an anticlimax.

The win was Ruffing's fifth in six starts since he ended his holdout.

Philadelphia Athletics assaulted 4 pitchers at Cleveland for 16 hits, including two home runs by Wally Moses, and defeated the Indians 11 to 3. The defeat dropped the Indians into fourth place.

Moses got his first home run off the delivery of Willis Hudlin, who lasted only a little more than two innings after winning his first six games this season. Lloyd Brown, who succeeded him, left the game during a four-run rally in the first inning.

Zeke Bonura was given an automobile by Chicago fans today and the big first baseman showed his appreciation by banging out four hits, driving in five runs and leading the White Sox to a 14-8 victory over Washington Senators.

Outstanding For May
The fans voted Zeke the city's outstanding performer for May and the automobile was the prize.

His homer, two doubles and a single and Luke Appling's double and three singles set the pace for the season's biggest two-club clouting spree as the Sox found Monte Weaver and two other Nat pitchers for 17 hits and Washington walloped Johnny Whitehead for 13. Four Washington hits were contributed by Buddy Lewis, one of them a homer in the ninth.

The victory, the White Sox 11th in their last 12 starts, boosted them back into second place in the American League.

The Ferrell brothers, Rick and Wes, and outfielder Mel Almada, all received from Boston Red Sox in trade yesterday, made their debut in Washington uniforms. Wes filed out as a pinch hitter; Rick caught the last three innings, and Almada played the full nine innings.

At Detroit, the Tigers extended their winning streak to five games by defeating Boston Red Sox 6 to 5 although Bob Grove struck out 11 Detroit batters.

"Boots" Poffenberger, making his debut as Detroit's newest recruit, relieved rookie George Gill in the third inning and held the Sox to four hits in 6 2-3 innings to gain credit for the victory.

The winning run came in the seventh inning when Pete Fox singled and scored on a long fly by Charley Gehringer. Gerald Walker smashed a home run over the scoreboard in the second inning for two scores.

Something happened to the Legionnaires last night. Nobody seems to know just what did happen, but all agree that sumpin's wrong. We think that the tide in the first two innings "got" Lefty. No one can say that they have ever seen him go like that before, which more or less proves that it isn't a loss of ability, but a mental defeat. Surprising what Diz Dean can do when the breaks are coming, and what he can't do when the tide is turned against him.

Speaking of Diz, they may say that he is temperamental, some that he is cowardly, given to childish outbursts; they may ridicule him, talk about his braggadocio, and his table manners—but after all—he they have to say that he is a great pitcher.

We find that the Braddock-Louis go will be broadcast on the N.B.C. on June 22. Good for the N.B.C.! We will have a ringside seat at the loud-speaker, and expect to see (or hear) the wallop.

Joe Louis will still be the betting favorite when the fight comes off, despite the fact that the papers are leaning towards Braddock. Both men are a little slow on their feet, and both are fine boxers. It is conceded that Jimmy is the better of the two, but Louis carries a little heavier wallop.

Lanky Phil Edwards, who served Canada so well in the Olympics last year, is giving up athletics to go into his medical practice. He will be resident house surgeon in the Barbados General Hospital.

An American pug isn't champ any longer when he loses his crown. Then, is an English champ still champ when he loses his belt? We wouldn't say, but it so happened that Lee Wickwar, the English featherweight champ had the $750 gold belt stolen from his training quarters.

CASH SPENT TO SWING TRADE IN SOX, SENATORS

BOSTON, June 11.—Object of general controversy today was the trade with Washington which brought Ben Chapman, mercury footed outfielder, or of the Sox, refuted the insinuation and Louis Norman "Buck" Newsom, the pitcher with the windmill motion, to the Red Sox in exchange for the Ferrell brothers, Wesley and Rick, and Mel Almada.

But Eddie Collins, general manager that he had been out-maneuvred by Clark Griffith, owner of the Senators. "Of course, we had to pay a lot. But I'm happy to say we got what we wanted."

"We've been trying to make this trade for more than a month. We originally offered the Ferrells for Chapman and Newsom. Griff held out for something extra, an infielder, outfielder, or any extra, which would make it appear that he had the best of the deal."

"To satisfy his horse trading instinct, we finally added Almada."

Three For Two
Although he was forced to give three players for two, Collins apparently doesn't think he "got the worst of it."

"As far as Wes Ferrell and Newsom are concerned, the trade is a standoff. Neither has been successful this season—and the change may

ZONE BOSSES FOR EMPIRE GAME TRIALS

Include Montreal District Athletes in Zone 4

TORONTO, June 11.—Conveners and members were announced last night for the four zones into which the Dominion was divided by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada for holding trials to select athletes to represent Canada at the British Empire games.

It has been decided by the National track and field committee and the British Empire Games Association that the members of the respective zone committees shall be composed of the members of the executive committee of the British Empire Games Association, the members of the National track and field committee, and representatives of the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation, if it is decided by that organization that their trials will be held in conjunction with the A. A. U. of C. zone trials.

It is also suggested that the respective zones may add additional members at their discretion. The conveners named are:

Zone 1—John Muter, Vancouver.
Zone 2—G. S. Halter, Winnipeg.
Zone 3—Professor N. C. Hart, University of Western Ontario, London, Ont.
Zone 4—Thomas L. Macdonald, Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Personnel of Zone 3—Prof. N. C. Hart (convenor), Oshawa, Ont.; A. W. Steel, Toronto; Dr. McGregor Eason, Oshawa; Leo E. Burns, Dr. A. S. Lamb, Montreal; J. G. Neay, T. H. C. Allison, Toronto; Pat Earl, Montreal; Robert Campbell, Oshawa; Robert Kerr, H. R. Gillard, Hamilton; P. M. Mulqueen, Toronto; W. A. Fry, Dunnville; C. E. Higginbottom, Toronto; J. W. Davies, Montreal; Arthur Flacke, Toronto; A. S. Mitchell, Oshawa.

Personnel of Zone 4—Thomas L. Macdonald (convenor), Halifax, N.S.; Sheriff C. D. Shipley, Amherst, N.S.; A. A. Chisholm, Moncton, N.B.; Mrs. W. E. Stirling, Halifax.

As the chairman of the National track and field committee, Mr. A. S. Lamb will act as general chairman for the zone trials, and zone conveners are requested to communicate to him the details of the organization of their zones.

Ferrell, one of the most consistent winners in the American League at Cleveland and for the Red Sox, has been victorious only three times this season, while losing six times; Newsom's record is three victories and four defeats, although the big right hander has pitched only three complete games.

"The one thing which held up the deal on our side," continued Collins, "was our own hesitancy about releasing Rick Ferrell, who is still one of the best catchers in the league. But Gene Desautels has filled in so well while Ferrell has been injured that we decided to let him go."

"By sacrificing Rick Ferrell, we've obtained the outfielder we wanted. As far as Almada is concerned, we don't believe he'll ever be any better than he is now."

The Sox first began their pursuit of Chapman a year ago, when New York turned down repeated offers by Collins and Yawkey and sent him to Washington in an even swap for Jake Powell.

Although he is hitting under the .300 mark at the present time, Chapman possesses all the physical qualities that the Sox have been seeking in an outfielder.

He is one of the fastest men in baseball, possesses a rifle-arm and is a right handed hitter, who will be aided by the short left field wall at Fenway Park.

PETS SWAMP LEGIONNAIRES WITH 17 RUNS

Last Evening Saw Pets Wielding Snowy Brush at Expense of Legionnaires.

The Fredericton Pets white-washed the Legionnaires last evening at Queen Square with a tally of 17 to 1. Larry Leech, snappy young hurler for the Pets, pitched a no hit game, in one of the finest tossing demonstrations the Junior League has yet seen.

McNaughton of the Legionnaires started the game off, but couldn't seem to keep the pill away from the Pet bats. Control was missing, and in the first two innings, he allowed four runs. Yanked out by manager Joe O'Connors, he went to the bench, and Lefty Fox, stellar Legion hurler was called to the slab.

The disastrous first innings, had the smooth little southpaw down though, and he never got settled into his winning stride. Thirteen runs went around him, giving the Pets the most decisive win in the league.

FITZSIMMONS TO BROOKLYN TEAM

NEW YORK, June 11.—Bill Terry, manager of the pace-setting Giants of the National League, traded a 35-year old pitcher for a promising 22-year-old hurler today when he sent fat Freddy Fitzsimmons and cash to Brooklyn Dodgers for Tommy Baker.

Although neither pitcher has shown much this year, the deal figures to benefit both clubs. Fitzsimmons, a consistent right-hander since starting his major league career with Giants in 1925, should fill a gap in the Dodgers' mound staff as a starting hurler.

Baker, less than two years out of the minors, has failed to live up to expectations in the matter of games won and lost but Terry believes he has a corner in the young Texan.

Fitzsimmons has pitched only one complete game this season, holding the Dodgers to five hits in that encounter, and the record books show two defeats, as compared to as many triumphs.

In his 12 previous campaigns with the Giants, he finished below the .500 mark only once and that was in 1935, when he won four and lost eight.

Last year he received credit for 10 victories while being charged with seven defeats.

Reds' Southpaw Joins Select Hurling Outfit

Grove, Hoyt, Haines Only Ones to Attain Mark

Earl Whitehill, the doughty little southpaw of the Cleveland Indians, has just been initiated into that select little club of major league pitchers who have hurled 200 victories.

There are only three other club members still active in the majors today. They are "Lefty" Bob Grove, the sour old gaffer of the Boston Red Sox who rang the bell most of the time for the Philadelphia Athletics; and Waite Hoyt, the one-time "Boy Wonder" of the New York Yankees who is at present tolling for the Pittsburgh Pirates now and then; and ancient Jesse Haines, of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Grove has scored 243 victories to lead the parade, while Hoyt was won 207 triumphs.

Carl Hubbell, the New York Giants' masterful southpaw, is right up close to the mark and may soon be eligible to join up. If he wins 30 games this year he'll pass the mark. Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox is even closer than King Carl. Ted needs only 14 victories this season. It is doubtful that the old fellow can do it this year, because 14 is a lot of ball games to win this day and age, but he is sure to pass the mark before he retires.

But, looking at the names of the men who belong to the pitchers who have, etc., club, you can see that it is a most exclusive organization and Mr. Whitehill should, indeed, be very proud of himself, although if you know Mr. Whitehill you realize that no one need tell him to feel proud. He's funny that way.

There was quite a celebration, incidentally, when Mr. Whitehill won his 200th game.

Celebrate Victory

His teammates, the rampaging Cleveland Indians, joined in the festivities and killed a couple of fatted calves—in the futile form of a couple of Washington pitchers—and exploded fireworks—in the form of base hits and such—around the premises for a couple of hours.

The score, you see, of Mr. Whitehill's 200th victory was 17-5. It's a shame they didn't make his election into the major league pitchers who have, etc., unanimous.

"I should've won that 200th game long ago," says Mr. Whitehill. "I've been way off form this year—especially in the two games right before. I was wild—terribly wild."

Control has been Mr. Whitehill's greatest asset in his 14 years in the major leagues. Unlike most southpaws he was never a wild galoot—of course, he issued passes but as sparingly as the producer of a hit in Edinborough.

Most baseball men have always been intrigued by Earl's pitching form, and his control always seemed the more amazing to them because of it.

You see, he is actually a twirler. He pinwheels on his left leg, twirling his body completely around to face second base and then whips his head back fast as he unwinds so that he manages to catch a glimpse of the batter before he lets fly with the pitch.

It is a thing of beauty, really. But the "Black Earl" did not master such a wind-up and delivery for the sake of beauty. He had a most practical reason. It gives him added power and he needs this power.

BOY DISCOVERS DISTANT PASTURES TRIFLE SPARSE ON BEING REACHED

HAWKESBURY, June 11.—This is the story of a boy who ran away from his father's lunch counter and found that the price of adventure was an empty stomach.

It's the story of the glamorous visions of youth, of the lure of the circus, and the realization that home is sweet after all.

Patrolling No. 17 Highway three miles east of here, Provincial Constable R. H. Wannell spotted a boy lying in the long grass near the road, just lying there and sobbing.

At first the lad didn't want to tell the officer anything. But this much was certain. He was pretty miserable. And he was hungry.

The police got him a meal in Hawkesbury, and that straightened him out. He talked. His name, he said, was Henry David, and he was 14, and he came from Ottawa. He had slipped away from home before dawn on Sunday to join a travelling carnival that had played Ottawa.

What did his father do, the police wanted to know. Oh, said the boy, his father ran a restaurant in Ottawa.

So now young Henry is back home where there's lots to eat. His parents came here and got him.
