Life Is Like That

Some evenings I don't hesitate, I'm positive you'll come. I wait in gorgeous house-coat, dusty-pink, with silken skirts a-swirl!

My curls brushed high and charmingly.

I'm just as cute as I can be, And that's the night you chose to call on some darn other girl!

But when I think you're out of town And let my beauty standards down And fling my old blue flannel on, and never mind my hair,

Curled up to read and yawn and snooze, My feet half-thrust in scuffed red shoes,

Why, then—your finger on my bell, your foot upon my stair!

—Norah Smaridge.

DR. H. L. STEWART REVIEWS SITUATION IN FAR EAST BEFORE LARGE AUDIENCE

Japan Claims She Is Following Example Other Nations, Has Economic Problem

LEAGUE FAILURE THROUGH LACK OF CO-OPERATION

Nippon Thought Not Improved In Race For Arms and Industries

That Japan claimed she was only doing as other nations had done by invading China and that lack of willingness to support the League were the highlights of an interesting lecture in the auditorium of the Provincial Normal School last evening by Dr. H. L. Stewart of Dalhousie University and noted radio lecturer. The lecture was sponsored by the Fredericton Branch of the League of Nations Society and was well attended. The chairman of the evening Dr. F. C. Toole, president of the Branch introduced the speaker. Dr. Stewart in his opening remarks expressed his pleasure at meeting one more of his many unseen audiences who hear him regularly on the air. The speaker expressed his approval of the changed mentality of the masses who nowadays as a rule desire a knowledge of what is going on in other parts of the world and who wish to know the attitude which is the proper one for them to take on international questions. The first part of the lecture was devoted to the study of the view point of Japan as well as that of China and the other powers who are immediately concerned in the Far East crisis.

The Japan of today is but seventy-five years old. Previous to this, the country of the Nippon had gone through a process of centuries of slow progress unnoticed by other nations. During the last century however the small country of the rising sun had quickly absorbed western methods and modes of industry but had not progressed from the standpoint of mentality. The result was that Japan was today equipped with the modern instruments of warfare and industry but her mode of thinking was still that of cruelty and ruthlessness of the tenth century. Her problem with her seventy million population was also an economic one. Unable to gain an entry in Australia, in New Zealand, nor in British Columbia for reasons of color and race she had decided, in spite of treaty after treaty and pacts, to invade the north of China where she would establish a puppet state as she had done a few years ago in Manchuria. The Japanese did not hesitate to state that their present policy was one for the glorification of Japan. It was also stated and with some truth by the Japanese that other countries had increased their powers and territory in the same method that Japan was doing today. Had not England and France done the same thing in North America and Italy in Ethiopia and had not the British Empire become the Great Empire that she is by similar action.

Other nations had also shared in the breaking up of China and Tokyo was today following the example of several European nations who had years ago established themselves in the country of the Orientals. Moreover Japan although she is doing the utmost of her soils by intense cultivation is unable to make a living by remaining in her own country. She is bound to prosper, she needs material, there are vast territories of undeveloped country in the north of China and she is going to take it. In 1929 when Japan was threatened with bankruptcy through the great depression nothing was done to assist her in her plight.

China has been through long periods of chaotic rule. At the close of the Great War she asked Versailles to consider her case. Woodrow Wilson fourteen points announced a new beginning but China was told that the mission of the Versailles did not include the solving of her troubles. She turned to Soviet Russia which grasped the opportunity to come in to China and there establish principles of Communism. A military college started in 1924 spread ideas of the Soviet. The history of China had been a story of nibbling of her territory by various nations. Foreign populations were allowed to come in and control business and yet were not under the authority of the Chinese rule. At the close of the war Shantung which has formerly been under German rule was passed over to Japan. Japan had taken the entry of Communism into China as another pretext for its invasion. She had bombed city after city and butchered innocent victims attacked British ships and British subjects and is always ready to give as an excuse that it was all a mistake. It is the belief by some observers that many of the incidents which have roused the ire of other nations such as bombing of their ships and killing of foreign subjects is the result of a series of conspiracies. Since the members of the military forces are impatient for quicker action.

The policy of Japan is being encouraged by other nations such as Italy who should know better. The League of Nations has not been destroyed it is merely suspended, four of the original members being left. Her failure was due to lack of co-operation so that she is afraid to attempt anything at the present time and her greatest need today is support and co-operation from other nations. The Brussels Conference had accomplished little for much the same reasons. The speech of Pres-

Many Mourn Passing Of Mrs. Robert E. Curll Here Monday Afternoon

Many friends throughout the Maritime provinces will hear with deep regret of the passing at this city of Mrs. Georgie Elizabeth Curll, wife of R. S. Curll, this city, which occurred yesterday afternoon at the Victoria Public Hospital. The late Mrs. Curll underwent a serious operation some weeks ago. She seemed to be recovering but other and fatal complications developed.

Lines For About This Time Of Year

Neither snow, nor rain, nor sleet Stays these dogged, clammy feet From their daily survey of Weather as outlined above, Though they'd much prefer to lurk Home in bed, than go to work.

There is but one consolation In the bitter contemplation Of congealing months to come, Just one reassuring crumb— One bright, gratifying boon: Days begin to lengthen soon!

—Margaret Fishback

ident Roosevelt urging a simultaneous statement from Great Britain as to their combined policy against the present tactics of Japan had brought a chorus of warning against possible boycott and embargo. Certain individuals who feared economic loss as a result of such a procedure had managed to exert their influence on any such procedure. Thus any action in a preventive way has been hampered.

At the conclusion of the lecture questions were asked by members of the audience and answered by the speaker, Dr. W. C. Kierstead of the University inquired about the proceedings of the Brussels Conference. Professor R. E. D. Cattle inquired as to what could still be done to meet the needs of Japan as an underprivileged nation. F. H. Park asked the speaker his opinion on the strength of popular opinion and their effect on Governments. The speaker in answer to further questions stated that he did not see why a boycott on Japan silks would bring Canada into war, although it would strike Japan in her weak point. He also stressed the unwillingness of the members of the League to co-operate this being a great object lesson for the need of co-operation in any undertaking of this nature. Wilfred Richardson inquired of the speaker his view of the effect of an embargo it being his belief that Japan could secure arms by shipping through Italy. Before the singing of The King, Dr. R. H. Wright President of the Peace Council announced a massed meeting of the citizens which is to be held next week in the Provincial Normal School in the interest of collective action for peace.
