TWENTY-TWO TEAMS TURNED ON HEAT IN SATURDAY'S 'Y' HOCKEY BATTLES AS SHORT TIME REMAINS IN SCHEDULE

Several Teams Upset Dope; Games Fast, Rugged As Representatives of Different Schools in City Fight for League Honours

With just two Saturdays left in the regular playing schedule of the Community "Y" Hockey Leagues, the various teams turned on all their power in order to annex the necessary points to assure them of a place in the play-offs. Twenty-two teams were involved in the games played at the Arctic Rink on Saturday morning, and on several occasions the dope was upset when teams beat opponents who were above them in the standing. The first game, Charlotte, who had been in the cellar position of their division, gave St. Dunstan's a 5-1 trouncing and are pressing them hard for third place now, being only one point behind them in the standing. In the next game, Model pulled another surprise by nosing out the division-leading Smythe Street aggregation by a score of 1-0. Another game which upset the calculations of the dopsters was the one between Pre-Vocational and Marysville. Pre-Vocational held Marysville to a tie, neither team scoring a goal. This makes three teams tied for first place in Division 1 with eight points apiece. In Division 2, Smythe is still out in front with 11 points. Details of the games played on Saturday are as follows:

CAPS-ST. CROIX CLASH HERE; THE BEAVERS AT HUB
Beavers - Maroons To Decide on Top Spot In The League

Fredericton Capitals tonight play the St. Stephen Maple Leafs here in the last game of a season's schedule which has seen the locals advance to second place in the loop standing, only to lose it again to the Saint John Beavers. With Fredericton definitely assured of a spot in the league play-off and with the Leafs completely out of the running after tomorrow night something in the line of an exhibition contest is looked forward to here.

The locals will be minus the services on defence of Ralph Goodine, who leaves tomorrow morning for Chatham with the University of New Brunswick sextet of which he is coach. However, the presence of Bill Gill back in the lineup will more than make up for Goodine's absence.

'Bun' McLennan also will not play tomorrow night, the cut he received over his eye when hit by Vince Livingston's stick here last Thursday night not having healed sufficiently. With Doucet shifted to centre to fill Bun's shoes, there will be a general shakeup in the lineup.

Young will hold down the net job, while in front of him will be Gill Thompson and Kilburn. One line will be composed of Doucet at centre with Chod Haining at left wing and MacIntyre on right. Keenan at centre will be flanked with Mills at left wing and Morehouse for the other line. Lifford will be utility man.

Beavers at Hub
MONCTON, Feb. 14—With the first spot position of the Southern N. B. Hockey League and the bye in the loop playdowns at stake Moncton Maroons will be hosts to the Saint John Beavers here tonight. Indications are that a packed house will witness the clubs as they square off for the most crucial battle of the current season.

Maroons are at present holders of the first rung, with a total of 36 points, while Beavers are but a single point behind and a win for either club tomorrow night will give them the league first place. The losers will take the third place Fredericton Capitals on for a two of three game series for the right to meet the first place team in a three of five series.

For the first time in several weeks Coach 'Dud' James will ice a full squad tomorrow night, while Coach Herb Gibbs will be without two and possibly three of his players. Beavers have defeated Maroons but once on Stadium ice during the Southern N.B. loop campaign, and that on their last appearance here when they gave the Jamesmen a 3 to 0 shutout.

George Harris, midjet Chatham goaler, will wear the big pads for Maroons, while Charlie Phillips, Clarence Bastarache, Dud White and Dickie will look after the defence work, with George Appleby pivoting for George Bell and Captain Babe LeBlanc while Len LeBlanc will return to the lineup after an absence of several days and work in the middle slot between Eddie Powers and Hal Ingram. Ken Carroll and Flea Chapman will look after the relief roles.

Jim Weaver, tallest man in baseball, is now with the Browns. And the Browns can at least see out of the cellar while Jim is there to serve as the human periscope.

Braddock is Not Totally Through

Through With Gloves, Sure Enough, But Will String Along With Gould as Manager and Other Interests

GALENTO ALMOST PROMOTER'S JOY

Has the Carefree Allure That Made Sullivan and Kilrain Tops With Public

Just how far Tony Galento goes we're not sure. But if the promoters had their way he'd go on and on.

Tony is a card—a throwback to the days of John L. Sullivan, Jake Kilrain, and on through and stopping at Tom Sharkey.

In the old days the heavyweight fighter of prominence at once opened a tavern, to which his friends and admirers flocked. Sometimes his enemies came in, too, to give him a ribbing, and add to the allure.

Tony is like that. He gets behind the bar and fills up the schooners. He even assists in emptying them.

He has a following. He has a style that draws fans. He has a punch, and for all his beer drinking and late hours seems to have a super-abundance of stamina.

He isn't very clever with his dukes. Of course, that quality isn't missed as long as he can lay the opposition out. But just what he'd do against class opposition we're not sure.

CHING JOHNSON SOON THROUGH WITH GAME

Pretty soon now, Ching Johnson, famous ice hockey star, will go into retirement.

At 40 he has put in 12 years of professional ice hockey. And in those 12 years everything about Ching, excepting his spirit, has been broken.

Ching Johnson probably is the most spirited of all major league hockey stars.

For four years straight he was the highest salaried star, because he was the Babe Ruth of the game. Even so his top salary was $7,500, and he made a little extra bonus money one year, amounting in all to $8,600. Rather poor pay compared to baseball.

Ching didn't become a pro until he was 28. There was a reason, they say. He was a good amateur player

Jimmy Braddock, the man who came back from "nowhere" to win the world heavyweight championship and a lot of money he needed badly, has reached the place most fight fans thought he was in 1933. He is all through with fighting.

Jimmy's confirming the belief that he's a pretty smart fellow as fighters go, as announced his retirement. He has been fighting since 1926, he admits to 32 years and he proved he still is a pretty good fight man when he outpointed the hustling Tommy Farr recently.

15 Years In Game

That being settled Jimmy announced: "I have spent 15 years in the game, and in fairness to everyone, and especially my wife and children, I believe it is time for me to withdraw."

There has been talk of his retirement ever since he lost the title to Joe Louis last summer and took a terrific beating before he was knocked out by the Brown Bomber.

After handing out thanks to his "manager and friend" Joe Gould, the fans, newspapermen and boxing officials, Braddock went on to explain he would continue his association with Gould in a new business venture.

"My retirement does not mean the end of my professional association with Joe Gould," his announcement said. "I will be as helpful to him as I can in the management of other boxers and he and I will engage in another business enterprise, plans for which will be announced shortly."

A Farewell to Arms

"This is my farewell to boxing, a sport which owes me nothing and to which I owe everything, the many friends I have made and the means and he couldn't afford to turn pro. He had a timekeeper's job that paid him $4,000 a year.

He can be an amateur player again in Canada. All he has to do is rest up for two years. Two years after he quits the pros he becomes an amateur again. That's the law.

This will be Ching's last year. They have already tendered him the usual testimonial banquet, and he knows the end is very near. But he's still with the New York Americans, and the New York Americans are still in the league.

with which I have been able to provide for my family."

Jimmy, perhaps, was a bit too modest in summing up the debts. Boxing did get him off the relief rolls and provide a comfortable bankroll, but only because Jimmy had the will and the ability to make an unparalleled comeback.

Just a pretty good fighter during the first part of his career, he missed out as a light-heavyweight title contender after whipping most of the leading 175-pounders. After losing to Champions Tommy Loughran in 1929, he went down grade and finally quit fighting entirely after cracking his hand in a bout with Abe Feldman in 1933.

Lost in the Market

His savings were lost in the stock market crash and in the bankruptcy of a taxicab company and Jimmy went on relief for a while. Finally he went back to the New Jersey docks from which he had started his fighting career. Then came his comeback.

Hauled out of oblivion as "fodder" for Corn Griffin, a 1934 heavyweight contender, he won the fight on a three-round knockout and went on to make himself a heavyweight title contender. He was given a title shot against Max Baer—a 10 to 1 favorite, and lifted the crown from Maxie that put him into the big money again and he collected a lot more when he lost to Louis.

The fans aren't likely to forget that comeback nor his latest rally to beat Tommy Farr after he had again been tabbed as "all through." They may remember, too, that he was wise enough to retire while Promoter Mike Jacobs was trying his hardest to sign him up for a return bout with Farr which might have brought him a lot more money and perhaps another fling at the title.

Londos Hits Weight Cuts

Jim Londos, in some sections the world's heavyweight wrestling champion, has come out with a blast against college and amateur coaches who cut the weights of their youngsters to make them fit into classes lower than where they belong. The weight of a growing boy should never be reduced, Londos holds.

GRAND FINALE TO AUSTRALIAN GAMES SEES FOUR TRACK AND FIELD MARKS SHATTERED WITH CANADA PROMINENT

Greatest Meet or Record Breaking Since Games Originated; Clarke and O'Connor In Spotlight

SYDNEY, Feb. 13—Four new marks were added to the Empire's record pages today as track and field stars wound p the third British Empire games, greatest record-shattering meet since the games originated eight years ago.

A pair of South African hurdle ace opened the way for the final day of record lowering in the eight-day competition that saw 21 of 30 marks toppled.

Thomas Lavery sent his country's colors floating high with a hurdle performance that brought 30,000 spectators to their feet in cheering admiration when the South African whizzed over the 120-yard distance in 14 seconds flat.

Canada shared the acclaim with her sister dominion in the hurdle spotlight as Larry O'Connor pounded behind Lavery to finish second by a matter of inches, and, according to M. M. (Bobby) Robinson, manager of the Canadian team, to equal the present internationally listed record of 14.1.

Referee Langford stated Lavery's run was made with an assisting wind. Manager Emery of the South African team and several other visiting team managers maintained there was a cross wind.

Bill Fritz of Toronto was inches behind Bill Roberts of England in the 440-yard dash where the Englishman equalled the games record of 47.9 seconds in a preliminary heat Thursday by Denis Shore, South African.

To Art Clarke of Toronto went the complimentary title of fastest miler in Canadian history.

Robinson placed Clarke at the top of his country's mile runners after the Toronto lad finished second in the mile final, won by James Alford of Wales in the new games time of 4:11.6. The Welshman's time topped the 4:12.8 mark set by New Zealand's Jack Lovelock in 1934.

Adds 200 to Titles

Decima Norman, Australia's feminine track streak, added the women's 220-yard dash championship to the 100-yard and broad jump crowns she won earlier in the games. The 22-year-old Australian girl raced home in 24.7 seconds with two teammates, Jean Coleman and A. Wearne bringing up the next two places.

Barbara Burke was the other South Africa hurdler to score a victory, winning the women's 80-metre hurdles in 11.7 seconds, a tenth of a second better than the record set in 1934 by Marjorie Clark, also of South Africa. O'Connor's blazing finish, victory in the one mile men's relay and second place in the 440-yard dash and shot put, constituted Canada's major contribution to the final program.

Jack Orr of Vancouver, Bill Dale of Victoria, Jack Fraser of Vancouver and Johnny Loaring, London, Ont., carried the Canadian baton to easy triumph in the relay over England, New Zealand and Australia who finished in that order. Canada's time for the event was 3:16.9.

Eric Coy, Winnipeg's husky weight tosser, threw the hammer 45 feet 9½ inches to place Louis Fouché of South Africa who won with a heave of 47 feet six inches.

Alien Meagher of Halifax was unable to do better than fourth in the 220 although she made a gallant effort.

It remained for Canada's top-ranking freestyler, Toronto's Bob Pirie, to be the individual star of the aquatic division of the games this year.

The lanky Canadian record-holder won the men's 110-yard and 440-yard freestyle events, clipping 5:2-10 seconds from the existing mark for the latter distance. He was the only swimmer to win two finals at the meet.

Pirie's time of 59.6 for the 110 yards was established as a record for the new distance which had been 100 yards at previous games.

Australia Plans To Insure Stars

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Feb. 14—Officials of the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia today considered a plan for a nation-wide insurance of amateur tennis players.

The scheme offers insurance for ten years to the 10-ranked men players of Australia between the ages of 1 and 20, provided they are ranked for four years during that period.

In event of a player, once insured, not fulfilling the ranking conditions, the policy would revert to the Association to be carried by the player at his own expense.

"LET THE OTHER MAN DO THE TALKING" SAYS DALE CARNEGIE

Author of the famous book "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

HAVE YOU SMOKED A TURRET LATELY?

WE try to be modest in what we say about Turret cigarettes. After all, the purpose of a cigarette is to give you smoking satisfaction—nothing else. Turrets will do that. For Turrets are made from an original and unique blend of fine Virginia tobaccos. And you can always be certain of finding Turrets well-filled, firmly rolled and the same unvarying high quality. But, instead of our talking about Turrets, let them speak for themselves. In other words, if you haven't smoked a Turret lately, try a package today!

① "Most people talk too much when trying to 'put their ideas over'. Do you?"
"It's a far better plan to let the other fellow do most of the talking. He knows his problems better than you do. So get him to talk about them. Ask questions."

② "If you disagree with what he says, don't interrupt. Besides being rude, it is bad policy for he won't pay any attention to you until he has expressed his own ideas. "So listen patiently until he has talked himself out. But don't abuse your turn even then."

③ "Your best friends would rather talk about their achievements than listen to yours. Why expect a stranger to be more tolerant?"
"By all means let the other man tell you about his accomplishments if he wants to. But don't start boasting about yours."

④ "A modest man never offends anyone, and really, we ought all to be modest, for none of us amounts to much. "Do you know what keeps the smartest men in the world from becoming idiots? About five cents worth of iodine in their thyroid glands. Five cents worth of iodine isn't worth getting a swelled head over, is it?"
