Vox Pop Reporters In Cupid Roles

Whenever Parks Johnson and Wally Butterworth mention that the person being interviewed on the NBC Vox Pop program is either an attractive young woman or a handsome man, the boys are deluged a few days later with sealed mash notes which they are requested to pass on to the interviewee. Twenty-five mash notes came in for a girl who was interviewed several weeks ago, one note accompanied by a large picture of the listener.

"Snooks has been with me on the stage and the air for nearly 20 years now. I used her in the Ziegfeld Follies and on many guest radio appearances. But until four months ago I never realized where Baby Snooks really came from. It suddenly dawned on me that my brain child was the projection of my desire to play Topsy as a child. Snooks is really a White Topsy."—Fanny Brice, comedienne on NBC's Good News of 1938 broadcasts.

THEY CAN SING AND PLAY A ROLE

Rosemary Lane, vocal star of the Lucky Strike show from NBC's Hollywood studios, can handle a dramatic script as well as a score. Rosemary who often has had occasion to show her histrionic skill during the broadcasts, was recently starred with Dick Powell in the films "Varsity Show" and "Hollywood Hotel."

When producers of the NBC serial, Those We Love, learned that Nan Grey could sing, they made her the program's prima donna as well as leading lady. Nan's program is broadcast over the NBC-Blue Network on Tuesdays at 8.00 p.m., EST.

Idol of Silent Screen Happier As Radio Actor

He made and spent $6,000,000 during his career as idol of the silent movies and now he's working in radio—sometimes in supporting roles, occasionally in semi-leads—but Francis X. Bushman has no regrets.

"If I had my life to live over," Bushman told an interviewer, "I'd live it the same way. I make no apologies, I have no regrets and I have never been happier than I am right now working in radio."

Though his own life is far stranger than many of the fictionalized serials in which he appears, Bushman is an unassuming hard working actor these days. Now and then memories of the purple limousine, with his name in gold on the door, of the crowds which police had to hold back whenever he appeared, of his racing stables and his trips around the world come back to him. Not to make him unhappy but to make him happy.

Did the Right Thing
"I did everything," he says. "I had everything. My old mother, now 91, thinks I did the right thing to enjoy what I had when I had it."

Bushman, who is heard from time to time in Margot of Castledown over the NBC-Blue Network, says the most fun he ever had was in foreign travel and he particularly recalls the mountains of Japan.

Bushman raised six children, gave away thousands of dollars and got back only one dollar which he had lent to an extra.

Set Shirt Style
Bushman will be remembered for many years as one of the leads in "Ben Hur," but few know even now that he invented the first sport shirt with short sleeves and open throat.

Now in Chicago to act in radio, Bushman is rapidly making a place for himself in a medium that wasn't known about in his heyday.

Margot of Castledown is sponsored by the Quaker Oats Company and heard Mondays through Fridays over the NBC-Blue Network at 10.00 and 11.00 a.m. EST.

Steamboat Drama Next For Campana

Steamboat days on the Mississippi as Mark Twain knew it will be revived at the Little Theatre Off Times Square on Friday, March 11, at 10.00 p.m., EST, when Campana's First Nighter presents a new radio drama by Leon Ware, entitled "Mississippi Steamboat."

Les Tremayne, star of the show, will be cast as Roger Stuart, a Yankee whose pride and joy is his side-wheeler "Silver Mary", but who risks it in an exciting steamboat race to help Colonel Brandon, a Southern planter, recover a fortune he has lost to a crooked gambler.

Of course, Roger does it all for love—love of Colonel Brandon's beautiful daughter, Lucy, played by Barbara Luddy.

Campana's First Nighter is sponsored by the Campana Sales Company, Batavia, Ill.

TWO WITNESSES
Two witnesses were on the stand today in the civil action in Circuit Court, Leonard Foster, Halifax, and Walter P. Barnett, an employee of Farmers Dairy, Ltd., testified for the defence. The case of the plaintiff, E. S. Inch, has been concluded.

HER COCKNEY'S BETTER

The best dialect of Fanny Brice, star comedienne of the NBC Good News of 1938, is not Jewish. "I can do a Cockney dialect much better," says Miss Brice, whose Baby Snooks is one of radio's newest sensations.

Wants Recognition

The further extension of the services and benefits of hydro to the residents of other sections of my county in the near future would be a great step in the right direction towards improved living conditions in our farming communities and the enhanced value of the properties served by electric services, is a permanent and lasting asset to the country at large.

Our Highways

The main highway artery of this province Route No. 1 crosses Charlotte County from the border of the United States on the western side, to the Saint John County line on the eastern side. This main artery of travel is followed by the great majority of motorists visiting our province and by many of our residents who visit other sections of this continent by motor.

This principal highway has been receiving attention in the matter of making it dust free for travel and with many improvements in the route it follows and the elimination of many dangerous curves and hills. All these changes to make a better highway for the benefit of our residents and touring visitors cannot but help and improve the living conditions for residents of this country and act as a decided attraction, inducing more people to visit this noted section of our Dominion.

The establishment of a number of small camping and picnic sites at various points along the paved highways would be a benefit and would be appreciated by many of the travelling public. In many cases, where it has been necessary to change the route of the paved highway from the established route as followed by our gravel roads, there are easily available spaces to permit shelters or camp sites to be established without any excessive cost. This type of picnic or camp site is available to the travelling public on many highways through Canada and the United States.

Among the various benefits implemented by the present administration of the province of New Brunswick and available to our residents in Charlotte, I would like to make special mention of the Old Age Pensions Act. In the County of Charlotte there are approximately 600 recipients of monthly dividends from the provincial resources.

The beneficiaries under the Old Age Pensions Act, are receiving amounts which, in the great majority of cases, are highly appreciated and permit of additional comforts and aids in their later years.

Old Age Pensions

The prompt action of this government in implementing the provisions of the Pensions Act, making pensions available to the blind of our province is worthy of highest commendation. The pensions available to the blind under this act will help greatly to alleviate the handicap under which these unfortunate people of ours live.

The establishment of a commission to investigate ways and means of improving the great fishing industry of this province, was further indication that the welfare of our fisheries is considered of paramount importance by our provincial government.

The recommendations of this commission resulted in prompt action being taken in an effort to develop new markets for Charlotte County fishery products and to expand the markets now drawing supplies from our producers. A delegation of two qualified men from the fish producing section of Charlotte County are at the present time on a mission to southern countries and it is hoped that the expected benefits will soon be realized and result in very favorable impetus to this harassed industry upon which a large proportion of my county's population are dependent for their livelihood.

Over sixty per cent of the population of my county are dependent on the fishing industry in its various branches and therefore, the fishing industry is of paramount importance to Charlotte County.

A good deal of winter employment is furnished a large number of men through the winter from the amount of lumber of one kind and another that is used every year in the operation of this important industry.

About Fish

I must ask the indulgence of the members of this House for a few minutes while I endeavour to outline a policy that I submit is of interest to many of our residents and would also be of decided benefit to our growing and lucrative tourist trade.

I am referring in general to the wild life of this Province and today to the sport fishing industry in particular. The time is coming when this Province will have to take some definite steps to replenish our lakes and streams with sport fish and the remarks to follow are in reference to trout, salmon and land locked salmon. At present, a weak kneed effort is being made to replenish and restock some of our sadly depleted fishing waters throughout this Province. This work is conducted by the Federal department of Fisheries. This department has a number of hatcheries in operation in New Brunswick where the spawn is hatched and the fry are kept for a certain time until ready to be distributed to the various sections of the Province and liberated in the lakes and streams.

The great majority of these small fish, known as fry, are distributed at this stage in their life when they are about one inch long. Many millions of these fry are distributed annually in this Province which at first glance would give reason to believe that our lakes and streams would soon be overstocked but there is not likely to be any overstocking of fish for many years to come if ever.

These small fish are the natural food for larger fish of many species as well as being preyed upon by various birds. A very small portion of these fry survive until they are large enough to pass the size limit set for sport fishing. In many countries tests have been conducted under very favorable conditions and the various government reports state that there is a loss of 95 to 98 per cent; that is from two per cent to five per cent of these fry survive and attain sufficient growth to be of interest to our resident fishermen or to add to the wild life and game attractions for tourists. The need of some definite change in the manner of handling these fry and restocking fishing waters is manifest in the enormous loss of the fry after they have been hatched.

The fish hatcheries are operated with a great deal of care and attention being given to the selection of proper spawn for hatching and this involves the expenditure of a great deal of money.

Some means to help a greater number of these fry from the hatcheries attain the size stipulated by our game laws would quickly result in decided improvement in the sport which so many residents of New Brunswick are interested in and would certainly be a great attraction to bring more visitors from outside our Province and keep them here longer which would mean additional revenue to various Departments of our Government and also to the large number of individuals who cater to the tourist trade.

Experiments have been conducted along various lines to determine what is the best means of conserving some of the great waste of fry. The generally adopted plan in several Provinces of our Dominion and in numerous sections of the United States is to place these small fry in rearing ponds until they have attained the same size desired before they are liberated.

These rearing ponds act in much the same capacity for the fry that a brooder does for small chickens; a form of nursery until they get able to take care of themselves. The ponds are usually established in series so that a number of these nursery ponds can be taken care of with a minimum of effort and at very small expense in proportion to the great number of these small fish that can be handled in a limited area.

I would like to see this Government take an active part in restocking our sport fish waters and not rely as at present on what the Federal Department of Fisheries does in the matter. This Province receives a fair revenue now from fishing licenses, and at least a part of this money would be well invested by further development of the restocking policy. If the Government does not care to undertake work in this line it would be well advised to help and sponsor the efforts that are being made at present in a very limited manner by organized groups of our citizens who are interested in the wild life of our Province.

The organized groups are working quietly and well for the benefit of all who enjoy an outdoor life and who are able to spend a day on lake or stream or in the forests of our Province. A great deal of good work with resulting benefits could be done through these various groups of outdoor sports in collaboration with our fish and game department and at a minimum of expense.

I would like to point out in closing that a fine start has been made towards introducing pheasants to New Brunswick and there is now quite a well equipped pheasantry at Fredericton which this year will have a considerable number of young birds available for liberating in each county of this Province.

The principle of replenishing the supply of fish and game birds has been carried on in England and Scotland for a great many years and it is now time that we took stock of our game resources in New Brunswick and make provision to assure us of a continued and bountiful supply.

The subject of fish and game may be difficult to reconcile to a Budget debate but I do believe that they would in a very few years be a decided factor in the revenue of this Province as well as keeping our citizens assured of the pleasure and healthy pastimes of hunting and fishing.
