

TO CLAMP DOWN ON NAZIS

Britain Moves To Expell Unwanted Reich Members Within Next Two Weeks

Home Office Have List of Those Accused of Anti-British Actions and Number Already Said To Have Been Told To Leave Country

LONDON, May 2.—Britain moved today to crack down on Nazi activities in England, and as a result it is expected that a number of "unwanted" Nazis will be expelled from the country within the next two weeks.

Close watch is being kept on Nazi activities it was learned this morning, and drastic measures are predicted to check the spread of the Nazi doctrine. Observers feel that the greatest danger of Nazism in Britain at the present time is the stirring up of unrest among the people in the time of a national crisis and when national unity of purpose and action is necessary.

The Home Office has at hand, it was announced today, a list of those who have been watched in the last while and who are accused of anti-British actions. It is reliably reported that a number have been ordered to leave England already and that a further number of considerable extent will be deported from the country immediately as soon as necessary machinery can be set in operation.

Considerable interest is centred around Britain's conscription plans. The plan will cost the nation $138,000,000 annually, it is stated. Observers predict the conclusion of the Anglo-Russian talks before the end of the week and the formation of a standing agreement that will bring Russian support to the side of the Democracies in the event of aggression. An announcement of the success of the agreement is expected in informed circles before the end of the week.

MAY ESTABLISH TWELVE MILE LIMIT FOR U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The United States department of state today began consideration and study of the defence value of a 12-mile zone of territorial waters around the United States instead of the present three-mile zone.

The twelve-mile zone is now considered necessary, it is reported, due to advances of modern times. The three-mile limit was set at the time when the usual cannon would fire only that distance.

For some years the United States has had a treaty with Great Britain setting a twelve-mile limit to assist in the battle against rum-runners and other smugglers. It is understood that the United States will seek similar agreements with other nations to have the greater limit approved from their point of view.

NORMAL SCHOOL LOST IN FLAMES ON MAY 2, 1929

Residents of Fredericton recalled today that it was just ten years ago that the old Normal School was destroyed in one of the most spectacular fires in the history of the Capital City.

Originating from sweepings in a dust-bin in the basement of the building, the flames shot up through the waste chute and in scarcely minutes were licking hungrily through the walls of the old building that had stood on Queen Street from 1876. The fire occurred on Sunday, May 2, 1929.

Firemen were hampered by the intense heat and had great difficulty in battling the blaze. It was regarded as almost a miracle at the time, that the other sections of the school, which now houses the Model School was not destroyed. The heat drove spectators from Queen Street, and blistered paint on nearby buildings across Queen Street.

BERLIN, May 2.—May Day activities were forgotten today by the German people as the political situation again came to the forefront. Greatest attention centred on Poland's reported intention of acting to bring the Free City of Danzig within the Polish state.

The Nazi press termed Poland as "too audacious" and some sections of the press charged Poland with attempting to provoke war and bring about the termination of the peace of Europe through selfish motives.

In the meantime, Warsaw reported today that the Polish press is countering German claims with assertions that Germany is preparing to bring into action a plot of long standing to cut off Poland from the Baltic Sea through her demands on the Polish Corridor. Poland, it is reported, as well as many competent observers in other nations, believe that the proposed railway and passage across the corridor would be essentially for purposes of military gains. Poland fears she would then face a fortified German area.

Polish papers today declared that Germany is not and will not be a good neighbor of Poland, and that they have only intentions of harm to the nation.

TRANSFER ELK TO PARK IN SASKATCHEWAN

OTTAWA, May 2.—Another shipment of elk from Buffalo National Park to Saskatchewan is reported by the Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa. Twenty-one elk were shipped from Wainwright, Alberta, to Shipman, Saskatchewan, a railway siding northeast of Prince Albert, where the animals will be released. The elk were in splendid condition when loaded and in order to ensure their safe delivery they were placed in four separate compartments, and were accompanied by a park warden. This is the second carload of elk to be transferred to Saskatchewan, a previous shipment of twenty-five animals having gone forward two years ago to Cypress Park in the southwestern part of the province. Ranchers in the Cypress Hills area are taking a particular interest in the elk and report that this initial group has increased to thirty-seven. The stocking of suitable areas with these animals provides an outlet for the elk surplus to the grazing capacity of Buffalo National Park, and arrangements have been completed for a further shipment of approximately twenty-five female elk to Cypress Park, which will go forward at a future date.

Once threatened with extinction, vast herds of elk now range in several of the national parks of Western Canada, and the restoration of this magnificent member of the deer family in different parts of the Prairie Provinces is considered a conservation effort of the first rank.
