

IMPRESSIVE SYNOD SERVICE HELD IN CATHEDRAL LAST EVENING, REV. DR. W. R. HIBBARD SPEAKER

New Canon Enacted re Annual Contributions—
65th Annual Session of the Diocesan Synod

Discussed by Speaker.

At the opening business meeting here yesterday of the 65th annual session of the Diocesan Synod of Fredericton, a new canon was unanimously enacted which provides "that every bishop and duly licensed clergyman of this diocese shall make to the income of the incapacitated clergy fund, and the clergy, widows and orphans' fund, jointly, an annual contribution at the rate of one percent of the stipend received in each case."

This move had been supported by Most. Rev. J. A. Richardson, D.D., archbishop of Fredericton, in his charge to the Synod and by George E. Main, secretary of the pension fund of the Church of England in Canada, Toronto, who addressed the Synod briefly in this connection.

Last evening the Synod service held in the Cathedral, with Rev. Dr. W. R. Hibbard of Rothesay, headmaster of the Rothesay Collegiate School, preaching the sermon.

Mr. Main yesterday afternoon emphasized the emergency with which the pension fund was faced at the present time.

The operating deficit in the fund for the current fiscal year was estimated at $10,000. Last year the deficit was $6,000. This year's deficit was one which it was hoped the maintenance fund could take care of, but this was not assured.

The situation could be remedied in two ways—by an increase in the parochial contributions or by contributions from the clergy from their stipends. Mr. Main sounded an optimistic note when he declared that the church was making progress in spite of setbacks.

In line with his suggestions and that of the Archbishop, contained in the latter's charge, the new canon was enacted. It was left to the executive committee to provide the machinery for the collection. Considerable discussion ensued, after which the mission fund schedule for 1935 was adopted.

The archbishop urged upon the clergy the adoption of a cent a meal boxes to raise the mission board's budget apportionment.

By resolution, the board of missions was asked to reconsider its curtailment of the services of the Sunday school by post.

Dr. Hibbard stressed the fact that the clergy of the diocese might help immensely by soliciting the attendance of students at the school. His remarks were supported by the archbishop.

Synod Service
The Synod service last night was made impressive by a large procession composed of most of the clergy of the diocese and the attendance of the combined choirs of the Anglican churches of the Fredericton district, under the direction of Professor W. J. Smith, A.R.C.O., Cathedral organist. A number of the clergy participated and the benediction was pronounced at the conclusion by the archbishop.

Dr. Hibbard took as his text the question: "They, having heard the word, kept it, and bring forth fruit with patience."

At the present time there was a great urge for speed, he said, contending that too high a price was being paid for it.

While England was looked upon as a country of law and order, it was shocking to realize that there the daily death toll in motor accidents averaged about 20, while that in the United States was as great or greater, Canada's was probably somewhat lower.

The old-fashioned Sunday was marked by a restful leisureliness, Dr. Hib-

GERMAN MATERIALS SHORTAGE SO ACUTE USE OF NONFERROUS METALS IS ALMOST PROHIBITED

BERLIN, Germany, May 22—Germany's raw material shortage, which led some time ago to the issuing of detailed regulations regarding how Chocolate Easter eggs must be made, now has resulted in new and far-reaching limitations on the use of non-ferrous metals.

Orders published today by the supervising office for nonferrous metals rigidly restricts the use of copper, nickel, tin, mercury, lead, chrome, and their alloys. Products for exports are exempted from the new orders, but articles for the domestic market must be made with substitutes, which producers are allowed from one to three months to discover and employ.

Restrict Copper Nickel
By today's orders the use of copper, nickel and their alloys is forbidden, except for parts actually carrying electric current, in the manufacture of parts and accessories for automobiles and other self-propelling vehicles, household appliances, lamps, clocks and watches, locks buttons, hooks and other items of clothing as well as other articles.

Water pipes may no longer be made of lead. Tinplating of household appliances is forbidden. Mercury cannot be used in thermometers except those for scientific use and those which register temperatures above 100 degrees centigrade. Chrome-plating is no longer permitted.

Show Critical Isolation
These new orders show once more how critical Germany's international isolation has become in the economic, as well as political spheres.

The reich cannot get foreign raw materials because it has no foreign exchange with which to buy them. It has no foreign exchange primarily because its prices are too high.

Yet the only way Germany can lower its price is by either deflation or devaluation. The regime has refused to devalue. To deflate would be to throw hundreds of thousands, if not millions of men out of work and so the cycle continues.

Credit Is Inflated
Credit is inflated to create employment. This raises prices. This in turn reduces exports and tends to make imports rise. This in turn makes the payment of German foreign debts virtually impossible. Finally as a result of this, funds due to foreign creditors pile up in the reich—and these are borrowed by the government to raise funds to continue to finance government spending to create employment.

One source after another of foreign raw materials has been cut off since the Nazis came to power. The position has now become such that if the great owners could and would get together, they could shut off German imports altogether. The Nazis try not to think of this possibility. But when they do, they usually decide that the great powers cannot and will not do so.

YOUR HANDS

Hands tell tales about us. They betray our disposition, our breeding, our occupation, and the condition of our health—in fact, hands tell the observing stranger a great deal more about ourselves than we may care to reveal. What are your hands saying about you? Is the skin smooth and soft, or do your hands tell tales of neglect? Regardless of their size and shape, your hands can express beauty if you will give them a little attention each day.

Keep Them Protected

Before gardening or housework, it is helpful to insert a little white soap under the nails to prevent discoloration. Wear gloves at all times if possible, and after each washing rinse with lemonized water, and apply Lemon Lotion. This is important because the skin of your hands contains fewer oil glands and therefore dries out more readily.

Keep Beauty Aides In Your Kitchen
It is a good idea to keep a bottle of Lemon Lotion in the kitchen as well as in the bathroom. Keep half a lemon in a saucer, cut side down, in your beauty kit, and apply it to the hands immediately after using kitchen soap or cleansing powder. This will neutralize the alkali, remove stains, destroy onion and fish odors.

Keep Them Manicured

Be sure your hands have a manicure every week. Dip a cotton-tipped orange stick into a cup of warm lemonized water. Your nails will take a better polish when cleaned with lemon juice. Try it.

Make Them Up

Don't think make-up stops at your face; it works miracles for your hands and arms. Powder them, but always use a powder base first. Just because you don't see your elbows don't think they escape the eyes of others—keep them soft and smooth with Lemon Lotion.

For Your Elbows

If your elbows are in very bad condition, scrub them in warm soapy water with a bit of pumice stone. One beauty authority suggests placing the elbows in two halves of cut lemons for a few minutes each day.
