

SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

The delegates of the Anglican Synod were entertained at breakfast this morning at the Parish Hall by the A.Y.P.A., assisted by the Women's Auxiliary. The hall was tastefully decorated in blue and white, the A.Y.P.A. colors. Covers were laid for one hundred and ten under the convenorship of Mrs. J. E. Akerley. The chairman and president of the local council J. E. Logan, welcomed the guests. Short addresses were given by His Grace Archbishop J. A. Richardson, Gerhard Magee of the St. John local council, Miss Lillian Bateman of the Fredericton local council, H. J. (So) ward, Dominion president of the A.Y.P.A., and Rev. Meeting closed with prayer. A social half hour followed, and delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Many friends will regret to learn that the condition of Mrs. Lansdowne Belyea is not much improved. Mrs. Belyea will be confined to her bed for another few weeks.

Mrs. J. P. Byrne and her sister, Miss G. L. Burns, who spent the winter in Montreal, have returned to their home in Bathurst.

W. I. REPLIES TO CITY'S WELCOME

The reply to the address of welcome given by Deputy Mayor Aid. C. Hedley Forbes, to the delegates at the New Brunswick Women's Institute at the opening session yesterday was made by Mrs. Lloyd Boulter of Carrieburg, as follows:

Officers and Members Of the Women's Institute of N. B. On behalf of delegates assembled here I thank Mr. Forbes, sincerely.

We come to this beautiful city of yours, With a burning desire to learn What can be done for the good of New Brunswick For all good things and true things, we yearn.

This year we are passing through perilous times, And the hearts of so many are wrung With financial worries and threatenings of war; A distress call to us has been flung.

Grave problems confront us on every turn; Problems we must face and we must win—

Infant Mortality! Our boys and our girls! Motor drivers who mix gas and gin!

We're hoping that seed planted during this week

In the future may bear much good fruit;

That thoughts for improvement of everyday life

Now may firmly, securely, take root.

Again, Mr. Forbes, we sincerely thank you,

For the welcome you've given today; May God bless us here as together we work;

May results be our portion, we pray.

Mission Grants Reduced by Synod

Meeting

Following breakfast the Synod delegates met in the Cathedral Hall on Church street and resumed their session, which opened yesterday.

Mayor Clark

His Worship Mayor Clark was introduced to the members of the Synod by Very Rev. Dean J. H. A. Holmes. Dean Holmes paid high tribute to the city of Fredericton and to the Mayor.

Mayor Clark expressed appreciation of the honor of having the Metropolitan of Canada, Archbishop Richardson, living in the city. Fredericton appreciates the presence of the Cathedral, said Mayor Clark, and the Cathedral chimes hold a great charm for me.

In referring to the members of the Church, he said that they were regarded as good citizens. "I have many good friends in the Church of England," said the Mayor.

In conclusion he extended on behalf of the city a hearty welcome to the members of the Synod.

The Archbishop

His Grace Archbishop Richardson replied briefly, expressing his gratitude to the Mayor on behalf of the Synod for extending such a warm welcome. His Grace mentioned the fact that although Mayor Clark was a member of the Baptist church, he was a member of no small account. He declared that Mayor Clark was a great worker for his church. In conclusion His Grace again expressed thanks to Mayor Clark for his fine expression of welcome.

Greetings were sent by the Synod to the Nova Scotia Synod, which opened its convention in Halifax this morning.

Committee Reports

Dean Holmes read the report of the Standing Committee on the Archbishop's charge, delivered on the opening day. The report accepted the charge and expressed congratulations to His Grace the Archbishop on his appointment to Metropolitan of Canada. The report was adopted by the Synod.

Lieut.-Col. B. R. Armstrong, Saint John, chairman of the Commission on Depletion of Capital Funds, read the report of that committee. Part of the report was adopted and the adoption of the remainder was open to discussion. Much discussion followed on the question of Diocesan funds not yielding interest, and several remedies to put a stop to the present loss of income were suggested in the report.

G. Percy Burchill, of South Nelson, spoke forcibly on the practice of the Synod dipping into the reserve fund because they could not pay expenses from income. He compared the finances of the Synod to that of a business concern, saying that the first thing to decide was whether or not they would continue to use the reserve fund.

His Grace the Archbishop declared that the drastic moves suggested by the commission would not be necessary if there were stronger appeals for contributions in the various parishes.

Recommendations Passed

After much discussion, the several remedies recommended by the Commission on Depletion of Capital Funds were adopted with only slight amendments. The recommendations were:

(a)—That the Board of Missions in making grants in aid keep within their estimated income for the following year, and as there is little prospect of substantially increasing that income through the Budget or by special drive, that the grants should be cut to a total of not more than $15,000 for the year 1936, namely the average of grants paid during the last five years, less the average annual deficit of the Mission Fund during the same period;

(b)—That should the Mission Fund account during any year, commencing with 1936, show a deficit, the amount of such deficit be deducted pro rata from the grants of the following year, such deductions to be made in three approximately equal instalments in February, March and April;

(c)—That both grants and contributions by missions to missionaries' stipends be paid to the missionaries direct and monthly;

(d)—That neither the Board of Missions nor the Synod assume any responsibility for the contributions of missions to stipend of its missionary, nor for any shortage in grants in aid there will be substituted a performance of saddle horses, and it is expected that riding clubs will enter a competition which will be arranged for that night.

Prominence also will be given to the fox industry one of the best paying industries in the Maritimes. Also encouragement will be advanced to new exhibitors and in this connection the highest prizes will be awarded to these new exhibitors.

Another feature at the November Winter Fair will be a Club Boys' Camp. It is planned to have forty boys from each of the three Maritime Provinces and those to be taken to camp, will be selected in competition. Full details of such a camp have not yet been made but the camp will be semi-military in discipline and a program will be drawn up and there will be competition in all branches of the club work.

Stanley Wood, in charge of the Livestock branch of the Department of Agriculture for New Brunswick, also attended the Amherst meeting, and is expected to arrive here this week.

SMALL FENCE FIRE

A slight fence fire occurred at College Field this morning, and considerable flame resulted before the fire was put out, which was started by children playing nearby.

if the funds available are insufficient for the purpose; but should the mission fail to pay according to its agreement that the mission be closed and the missionary withdrawn;

(e)—That every possible effort be made to have each mission increase its contribution to its missionary's stipend by the amount by which the present grant in aid will have to be reduced, and that new agreements be entered into with each mission embodying all of the above.

To give effect to the recommendations the commission are proposing certain amendments to Canon XVII, which is being taken up this afternoon by the Synod.

Old Times Recalled

The following paper on the History of the One Hundred and Fourth Regiment was read before the York and Sunbury Historical Society at its last meeting. Sterling Brannen, who read the paper, brings out much valuable historical matter not heretofore published.

One reason I have mentioned the matter of military preparations is that we of this age are so accustomed to peaceful and friendly relations with the people of the United States that it may be difficult to realize that at the time of the existence of the Old 104th Regt. the people to the South of the U.S.A. boundary had not the least vestige of love nor admiration for the inhabitants of British North America. They were very fond of continually showing evidence of this entire lack of respect for anybody or anything British, and the flame of hatred burst forth viciously in 1812, to be subdued in 1814. Having obtained their independence from Britain in 1776, the United States people so harassed their fellow-citizens who persisted in clinging to British ideals that the flight of the United Empire Loyalists has become an outstanding fact in history. Nothing would have pleased the United States people more than to have been able to drive the British soldiers and civilians out of every part of North America. No one now living remembers when the International Boundary line could be referred to as the far-flung battle line. A few years ago, however, when Prohibition was supposed to be enforced (but was really enforced), some one facetiously, yet not inappropriately, referred to it as the far-flung bottle line.

Thus far I have given no particulars of the famous snowshoe march of the 104th Regiment.
