TEACHERS' QUALIFICATIONS

A good many young people who aspired to be educators must have listened with dismay to Prof. Clyde R. Miller, head of the Bureau of Educational Service of Teachers College, Columbia University, recently when he described in a lecture the qualifications required to becoming a teacher nowadays. About 800 summer session students were in the audience.

To have the best prospect of success in the teaching profession now, says Prof. Miller, a person should be young, good-looking, not too fat or too thin, well-dressed and agreeable, healthy and possessed of that indefinable something called personality. And he must adapt his thinking, or at least his profession of opinion, to the peculiar ideas of the locality. In the South, for example, he must not be a Republican—aloud, anyway. He must never call himself a Socialist or a Communist and preferably he should not differ from the majority of the community in point of race or religion.

After detailing all these imperative requisites, Prof. Miller finished by discounting the influence of too much education. He said a teacher should know his special subject, but too much stress had been placed on the higher degrees. "We know," said he, that a great many Ph.Ds lack imagination, vision, courage and personality."

The speech was delivered in the Horace Mann Auditorium. One wonders what the great Horace Mann, called the father of the modern educational system, who put such heavy emphasis on scholarship, would have thought of Prof. Miller's sentiments.

UNCIVILIZED

An exploring expedition has returned to Port Moresby, Papua, after having penetrated a hitherto unvisited region in central New Guinea, in the part of that island which is an Australian mandate under the League of Nations. The expedition roamed over a plateau on which live 100,000 natives who adorn their hair with daisies, cultivate the soil with wooden spades, and declined a gift of steel implements. The natives live in families, rather than villages, and get along very well with one another.

These natives must be civilized. They must abandon daisies and purchase those flowers that are sent to any part of the world. They must throw away their wooden spades and buy tractors. They must cut out their absurd family life, create towns and build factories. They must produce more wealth, so that they can buy more products from the rest of the world. They must look for gold and oil, or let someone do it for them, preferably; and if any is found, they should move out and let the wealth of the soil be developed by those who are able to esteem it.

Finally, they must be taught the art of self-defense. They must be organized in squads, companies and regiments. They must buy machine guns and heavy artillery and learn the use of gas masks. Unfortunately, they do not live on the coast and can not be sold a navy.

The idea of 100,000 people living in this modern world without any of the blessings of civilization is an absurdity that should be corrected. If Australia does not take the matter in hand, we hope the League of Nations will entrust these unfortunate natives to some other power, more awake to its duty to itself and to humanity.

THE TRANS-CANADA HIGHWAY

Detroit News: Recently the Hon. Peter Heenan, Ontario provincial Minister of Highways, ceremonially chopped a rope strung across the completed section of Canada's Lakes to Winnipeg highway. And traffic entered on another division of the great transcontinental all-Canadian road, which when finished, will be longer than any in the United States. Superficially one might say that the people of the United States could feel a bit envious. The truth is that all news of good roads anywhere is good news in this country. And particularly are the people of the United States gratified by anything that promises to help the people of Canada toward prosperity. It is quite possible that the new highway will be used by as many American as Canadian automobiles. New districts are being opened, scenic areas not hitherto accessible. Deep woods and beautiful lakes where abound game and fish, will invite vacationists. The people of Canada have no notion of keeping all these tourist and vacationing advantages to themselves. Both nations will be enriched by a splendid engineering achievement.

Milk Prices in F'ton And Marysville Are Discussed

tail prices for milk sold in the Marysville Area shall be as follows:
Quarts: Retail 9c, wholesale 7c.
Pints: Retail, 5c, wholesale 4c.
Half-pints: Retail 3c; wholesale 2½ cents.

7. Sweet cream sold in the Marysville Area shall be known as whipping cream, and must contain a minimum of 30 per cent butterfat. The minimum prices for sweet cream shall be as follows:

Gallons: Wholesale $1.20, minimum quantity one gallon in can.
Quarts: Retail 40c, wholesale 35c.
Pints: Retail 22c, wholesale 19c.
Half-pints: Retail 12c, wholesale 10c

Speaking to The Daily Mail today the Deputy Minister of Agriculture pointed out that the standard required in New Brunswick today for milk and cream was higher than that required by any province in the Dominion and that the people were entitled to and were getting full value for their money. If the public does not receive cream and milk of the required standard all they have to do is to complain and have the matter adjusted by the Dairy Commission. This price fixing said the deputy minister was to prevent a price war, which might bring the price of milk down to where the producers would be required to give an inferior quality milk produced under inferior sanitary conditions. This, the Deputy Minister contends answers the criticisms regarding people being compelled to sell milk retail at a minimum cost of ten cents in Fredericton and nine cents in Marysville. The difference in the cost between the two towns is accounted for by the extra overhead in handling the milk in this city as

LATE FLASHES

LOUISBURG, N. C., July 31—Sweet Ward, 25 year old Negro axe-slayer of C. J. Stokes, Franklin county farmer, was lynched today by a mob which took him from officers and hanged him to an oak tree half a mile from the scene of the killing.

PARIS, July 31—Early conclusion of a Franco-United States trade accord was indicated today by Minister of Commerce George Bonnet.

WINDSOR, Ont., July 31—John Sadoway, 42, was arrested today in connection with the stabbing of Mrs. Petrolia Olski, 30 year old Polish woman, near a corn field in the east end of the city last night.

COPENHAGEN, July 31—Thor Solberg, Danish American, and Paul Oscanayan, Armenian American, took off in their plane Liev Erikson, from Julianehaund at 11.45 a.m. G.M.T. (7.15 a.m. E.D.T.) today for East Greenland against that in Marysville. There are those, however, who think that the extra is excessive and is not warranted by our local conditions.

A milk man from Springhill or Lower St. Mary's selling milk to consumers in Fredericton would not be subject to any more over-head expense than if he sold in Marysville.

The cost to the consumer should not be any more here than in Marysville or any other place. The idea of putting a minimum price on milk below which no one may sell milk may have its good points, but the principle is wrong.

BEAVERBROOK CHIMES

Editor, Daily Mail,
City,

Dear Sir:

The music shed by the Beaverbrook chimes on the U. N. B. Residence has been a subject for some comment in your columns. Recently a North Shore man while on a visit to the city was asked to interpret the words of the music, gave the following which he explained was an old time "Come all Ye" song which was heard at Beaverbrook on the Miramichi in the good old days:

"List to me: Jones Bros. built a mill
On the side of a hill;
They worked all night and
They worked all day,
But they couldn't make
The gol darned sawmill pay".

We would suggest that this be made the subject of an essay for the Douglas gold medal next year.—As you say in your paper the "music" and the chimes detract from the dignity of the University.

Yours Truly,

U. N. B. GRADUATE.
