

ELDERLY MAN IN ONTARIO SENDS WISHES

Alexander McConachy
Keenly Interested In
N. B. Election

Ardent Liberal

Greetings Conveyed to Premier Dysart By Mrs.
Hannah Conyers

Amongst the visitors at the Legislative Assembly on the occasion of the swearing-in of the new cabinet last evening were Mrs. Hamilton Conyers and daughter Virginia, of Toronto, who arrived here shortly before the commencement of the ceremonies, and are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Pridham, Saunders street. An interesting feature of the visit is the fact that Mrs. Conyers had been requested by an old gentleman who is a friend of hers and resides in Ontario, to convey his greetings to the newly elected premier of New Brunswick, Hon. A. A. Dysart. The gentleman who sent the greetings was Alexander McConachy of Orono, Ontario, a village not far from Toronto. Mr. McConachy, who has reached an advanced age is an ardent Liberal and was highly interested in the result of the New Brunswick election, so much so that he requested Mr. and Mrs. Conyers to hunt up Premier Dysart in New Brunswick and convey the greetings to him. Mr. and Mrs. Conyers went to Buctouche and found that the Premier had left for Fredericton. They climbed back into the car and got to Fredericton and presented their greetings to Premier Dysart last evening.

Needless to say the premier was delighted and it is understood that he has written to the old gentleman, thanking him for the greetings.

Another interested visitor last evening was Mr. and Mrs. Ensign Otis who were here on the yacht "Korana" which is owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Leighton, of Rockland, Maine. Mr. and Mrs. Otis are their guests. They were very much interested in the swearing-in proceedings last evening, especially so in the Oath of Allegiance to King George V., which was administered to the ministers of the cabinet.

The repairs were necessitated by the occupancy by Relief Project No. 123 since the last exhibition and are being made by both relief project and exhibition workers. Roofs are being repaired and new cattle stalls built. New quarters are being arranged and remodelled. It is expected that a new dining hall will be erected on the grounds.

EARLY BLIGHT AND CUTWORM AFFECTS CROPS

Younger Plants Particularly Susceptible To Cutworm Menace.

Loss Anticipated

Tens of Thousands of Dollars Worth of Crops
Already Laid Waste

New Brunswick crops are being afflicted with a serious menace of cutworms and early blight it is reported today from the Department of Agriculture. Already many thousands of dollars worth of crops have been laid waste.

The Department of Agriculture is now preparing a circular letter describing means by which the cutworm may be combated. This will be widely distributed among the farmers.

J. K. King, deputy minister of agriculture, said today that the younger plants were particularly susceptible to cutworms and that conditions at the present time were favorable to the flourishing of these cutworms. The cutworm is especially potent at this time of the season.

There is also at the present time a great extent of early blight, or disease in the potato crop of the province. A survey is now being conducted in all sections of the province. A report is expected to be made within a week.

Already, it is reported, twenty five per cent of the mangel crop is gone, threatening feed problems for livestock and poultry raisers. Marsh hay and oats also have been affected and in some cases farmers have had to replace cabbage and other vegetable plots as many as three times after cutworms had got in their insidious work.

"The cutworm has done the greatest damage in recent years" reports Mr. King. "Records show that cutworms go in cycles. Next year they may be worse or they may be on the wane."

"In other places a type of cutworm has even attacked oats."

"Mangel fields have been very definitely affected although we are not sure that in every case the damage to mangels has been caused by cutworms. Many mangel fields have had to be replanted. In some cases turnips have been planted in their stead after cutworms destroyed the mangels."

Mr. King continued that the cutworms had even "thinned out" the turnips in a number of instances.

Asked what the result of the cutworm plague would be on livestock raisers and dairymen Mr. King said:

"It is pretty hard to say how much the feed volume has been reduced, but certainly it will add to the cost of feeding cattle."

The slow growing season this year had lent itself to the attacks of cutworms, Mr. King explained, the ravenous grubs clipping off the tender young sprouts before these gained strength to withstand their ravages.

Market gardeners around St. John have had a particularly difficult time of it, some having been forced to replant several times.

Almost overnight whole fields of young cabbages, beets, beans and other vegetables have been destroyed.

The department of Agriculture suggests the following cure for cutworms. Field crops are the most susceptible to cutworms, turnips, corn and sunflowers—and, to a lesser extent, grain peas and potatoes. Most cutworms may be poisoned by spreading of a poison bait where they will find it in their search for food at night. Such bait needs to be moist and attractive to cutworms and to contain a poison which will act quickly. The common form of bait recommended consists of wheat bran, 20 pounds; paris green, one-half pound; molasses, one quart; and water to moisten the bran thoroughly. The dry paris green should be thoroughly mixed with the dry bran before the water and molasses is added.

This poison bait should be spread in a moist condition at nightfall and particularly on warm nights, when the insects are likely to be active. The first application should be just before the seedling plants appear above ground.
