OTTAWA, Ont., August 1—It is said that at a Cabinet Council to be held tomorrow Premier R. B. Bennett will announce other appointments including several from the Maritime Provinces. It is also said that the date for the Dominion Elections will also be announced tomorrow.
Parties near to the Premier are responsible for the statement that an offer will shortly be made to Rt. Hon. MacKenzie King for the formation of a Union Government and the suggestion that certain Liberal leaders be invited to come in to the cabinet and form such a government.
Whether the Liberals will consider such a proposition is considered doubtful in fact it is almost certain that they will not do so according to advices from Liberal Headquarters here.

KEEP SHARP LOOKOUT FOR CROP BLIGHT

J. K. King, deputy minister of agriculture, declared that "careful watch is being kept over the New Brunswick potato crop by the provincial department of agriculture for blight." "Hot damp weather such as at present is conducive to the spread of the blight," pointed out the deputy minister.

E. M. Taylor, field husbandman, who has returned from an inspection tour of potato fields along the Saint John River Valley, reports that there is a good deal of unevenness of stand and variation in vigor of crop. Late blight has broken out in fields in the province. He pointed out that this outbreak is later than usual and that farmers had been advised to practice thorough spraying. He stressed the fact that spraying is only preventive, not curative, and emphasized the importance of spraying before infection sets in.

Our Public Play Grounds

While many citizens are interested in our playgrounds for the children at Queen's Square and at Wilmot Park, there are not many who know to what extent this work is being carried on under the direction of Murray Ross and his assistants John Kilburn and Misses Frances Crocker and Mollie Burt. Mr. Ross has kindly handed us a list of the activities carried on by this committee during the month of July. Mr. Ross states:

1. Over 500 different boys and girls have signed Playground Membership Cards.
2. The attendance the last three weeks in July has totalled 5,241 as compared with 3,294 for the same three weeks last year.
3. There is a list of 33 activities on our programme in which children may participate in every week. Our programme this year is much more complete and varied.
4. Besides the morning period our grounds are open from 3.30 until 9 p.m. four days a week.
5. 87 boys and girls have perfect attendance records for July.
6. Outside our regular programme we have organized and now promote two baseball leagues with four teams in each—approximately 85 players.

OPEN SEASON ON PARTRIDGE OCT. 1 TO 15

Announcement Made by Hon. F. W. Pirie, Minister of Lands and Mines — Attention Drawn to Species under Year-Round Protection.

New Brunswick will have an open season on partridge to extend from October 1st to 15th, according to an announcement made here by Hon. F. W. Pirie, Minister of Lands and Mines.

The decision to open the woods to partridge hunters is based upon reports furnished the Chief Game Warden of the Department of Lands and Mines by members of his field staff. The majority of these reports indicate that partridge wintered well and that favorable hatching conditions resulted in good sized flocks of young birds. At the present time partridge are said to be plentiful throughout the province.

As has been the case in former years the open season will apply only to those varieties of partridge known as ruffed grouse and spruce partridge. Hungarian or European partridge, which have been liberated in considerable numbers during the past several years by interested sportsmen and by members of the New Brunswick Fish and Game Protective Association, are strictly protected. The Hungarian partridge is smaller than the ruffed grouse and is distinguished by its light brown and steel color, reddish head and neck and reddish brown horseshoe on its breast. They do not roost in trees but favor open areas, cultivated fields, grain and potato patches. Although field birds rather than inhabitants of wooded land so far as nesting habits are concerned, the Hungarian partridge may be found at certain times of the year in the same covers where ruffed grouse and spruce partridge are hunted.

Two species of pheasant, the English ring-neck and the Mongolian, are also under year-round protection. The pheasants are readily distinguished from both the native and the Hungarian partridge. They are larger in size, and their coloring runs from mottled brown and tan in the female to beautiful golden reds and bronze green in the male. The male birds alone display a splash of scarlet on the cheeks and covering the eyes, and a white ring around the neck. Pheasants may be marked in flight by their long flowing pointed tail feathers.

Barrymore Disguise Fails to Fool Hewlett's Central Kingsclear

NEW YORK, August 1—Fleeing to sea with Elaine Jacobs Barrie, his fiancée-protegee, John Barrymore drew upon all his talents as a master of make-up, only to be foiled by the eagle-eyed youngsters of Hewlett, L. I., it was learned yesterday.

Barrymore had been besieged by the curious as he spent a few days with friends of Miss Barrie at the home of H. Steinman, at Hewlett.

He was determined to escape, and to take Miss Barrie with him, but outside reporters were waiting.

At last, after hours of waiting, the newspapermen went to nearby phones, all in a group.

Dramatic to the core, Barrymore saw his chance. Down the steps came an old, old man, long-whiskered, wearing smoked glasses, hobbling on a cane. With the bearded patriarch was Mrs. Steinman, Miss Barrie and another man.

"Take 'em off, Jack, we know you!" the Hewlett youngsters whooped.

The "patriarch" was Barrymore, master of make-up, an art that failed him just when he needed it most. The youngsters shouted for autographs, and Barrymore gave in.

MacKenzie King Raps Third Parties, National Gov't

Says He Stands for Parliamentary Principles and that National Government is a Dictatorship.

OTTAWA, July 31—Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader fired the first gun of his general election campaign today. He declared he would stand or fall by the principles of parliamentary government, pleaded for the largest possible measure of liberty and struck out at all tendencies in the direction of dictatorship, autocracy, Fascism, Communism or a national government.

As he delivered the first of three radio addresses over a national hook-up of the Canadian Radio Commission Mr. King broke a silence he has maintained since the close of Parliament. He appealed for a sweeping Liberal majority in the House of Commons after the election, a majority large enough to prevent the predominantly Conservative Senate from thwarting the will of the people.

Canadians should study the actions and doctrines of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, Hon. H. H. Stevens and J. S. Woodsworth in the light of what has happened in other countries, said Mr. King. They should ask themselves whether these doctrines did not tend in the direction of dictatorship. "For my part," he said, "I propose to stand or fall upholding in all things the parliamentary method of government."

Form of Dictatorship

National government was only another form of dictatorship, said Mr. King. The propaganda in its favor was being financed by special interests who wanted railways, tariffs and taxation used to their own advantage as no single party would dare.

The first step towards permanent recovery or reform in Canada would have to be a decisive repudiation by the people of all the tendencies towards dictatorship manifested in the last five years, said Mr. King.

Canada needed a new and different spirit in government, a spirit of brotherhood at home and abroad instead of the spirit of the autocrat. Canadians had been living under a reign of terror. Instead of "blasting the way" as in the past five years a different method should be followed, "doing unto others as we would have them do unto us."

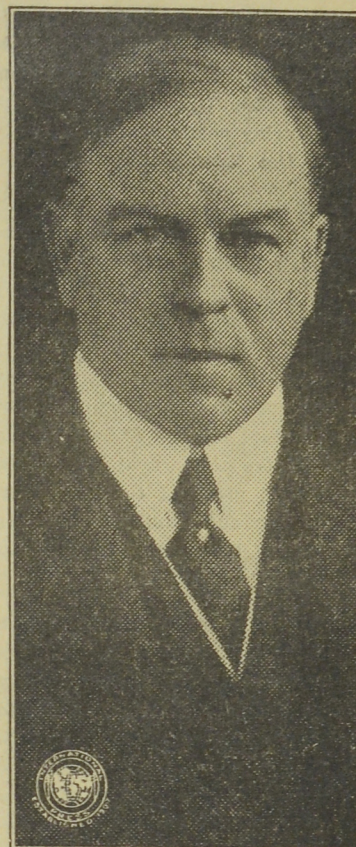

Assails Third Parties

Mr. King said Canadians had had one experience of being deceived by election promises and asked if they wanted another. He assailed third parties, said they also arose as a result of discontent during Conservative administration and disappeared in the prosperity brought about by Liberal administrations. A voter, whatever his views, could best make his influence felt by supporting and working within one of the two old parties which had long traditions of service.

"Third parties in Canada, have invariably had their rise 'during years of Conservative administration' said Mr. King. "These have been years of depression due, in large part, to reactionary politics. Years, moreover, in which discontent has been augmented by the administration hanging on to office long after it was abundantly apparent that it no longer enjoyed the confidence of the electorate."

In his next two addresses the Liberal leader said he would have more to say of the tendency to dictatorship and would set out in detail the policies of the Liberal party.

"During the next few weeks you will be hearing a great deal about the political issues of the day. In the press

RT. HON. MACKENZIE KING
Who Opened His Political Campaign Last Night By Radio

from the platform, over the radio, you will be told what the different political parties are prepared to do for you, and for our country. You will be given many reasons why one party rather than another merits your support. Appeals will be made from every conceivable point of view; some to your intelligence, some to your prejudices, more to your sentiments and feelings.

"There are large and fundamental issues to be discussed, but there is a danger of the importance of these being lost to sight through much that may be said of what, in the shortest time, and with least effort, or cost, on your own part, is certain to remedy existing ills and bring about, for all, an immediate condition of prosperity, plenty and peace.

To Bear in Mind

"It is for this reason that I have thought it well, before the voices become too many, the conflict too strenuous, and the confusion too great, to say over the radio, to you, my fellow citizens in all parts of Canada, a few things which I believe it will be in our interests, and in the interests of our country, for you to keep constantly in mind, and to have in mind especially on the day of polling when, by your votes, you determine how and by whom, not for today only, nor for the coming year, but for the next five years, our country is to be governed.

"You have had one experience of being deceived by promises at a general election. Are you prepared to risk another? You have seen how long a period of time five years is; what opportunity it affords a ministry, if the ministry be so inclined, altogether to ignore, and even to defy, your clearly expressed will, and your most evident wishes. You have reason to know how all important, in the administration of a nation's affairs, are a right attitude and sound policies. You have seen how a wrong attitude has made for bitterness of feeling, for unrest and discontent, for friction between governments, and for a divided Canada. You have seen too, how wrong policies, despite vast expenditures of public monies, have only served to increase debt and taxation, to augment unemployment, and to prolong depression.

Vital Questions

"Are you going to risk more in the way of bitterness, of unrest, of discontent, or conflict between govern-
